NRA Bows To Cleaners, Grants Price Cut of 20%

But Johnson Creates Special Eagle for Costlier Shops.

30-Cent Minimum Starts Tomorrow

100 Recalcitrants May Get Clemency by Obeying Code.

By Frank Getty.

Cleaners and dyers, who have raged at prevailing rates fixed by the code for their industry, won a 20 per cent reduction in minimum prices from the NRA last night.

Public demand for lower cleaning charges was recognized by Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson in a statement ordering the horizontal reduction, which becomes effective tomorrow.

At the same time, Gen. Johnson authorized creation of a special Blue Eagle insignia for cleaners who render a higher quality of service than the "cash and carry" shops, and who will continue to charge the code prices approved November 22.

A price study board has been created to maintain a constant check on the operation and effect of the new schedules.

Minimum Scale 50 Cents.

Under these schedules, minimum prices for cleaning and pressing men's suits and women's plain dresses will be 50, 60, 70 or 75 cents, according to the trading area. This represents a reduction from minimums of 65, 75, 85 and 95 cents, respectively.

Announcement of the price reductions was followed by a warning from National Compliance Director William H. Davis that violators of the new schedules would be prosecuted vigorously.

More than 100 alleged violators of the code, approved November 2, already have had their cases referred to the Federal Trade Commission for investigation, but it is believed prosecution may be dropped if the operators comply with the amended code.

That the new prices are not necessarily permanent was made clear by Gen. Johnson. The Price Study Board will hold public hearings in any locality on petition of 70 per cent of the local cleaners, to determine and recommend necessary modifications.

Price Scale Brought Fight.

Establishment of the new schedules was announced as a settlement of the controversy fostered by "cash-and-carry" cleaners, who demanded a minimum price differential. Their spokesmen, as well as those for other small cleaning and dyeing establishments, had denounced the prices fixed November 22 as ruinously high.

Instead of granting such a differential, Gen. Johnson pointed out

U. S. Will Buy Bird Preserves

President Approves Move With Fund of Million From Government.

A plan for establishment of Government-owned migratory bird preserves with $1,000,000 from public works fund has the approval of President Roosevelt, Senator Frederic C. Walcott (Republican), Connecticut, declared after a visit to the White House yesterday.

Senator Walcott, chairman of the special Senate Committee on the Conservation of Wild Life, said suitable breeding places will be selected which members of the C. C. C. can condition. The plan will be discussed with Secretary of Agriculture Wallace.

Former Senator Harry B Hawes, of Missouri, who accompanied Walcott, added that the President also indorses the pending bill under which hunters of migratory birds would place $1 stamps on their State licenses. There are 6,000,000 hunters in the United States, of which about 2,500,000 shoot migratory birds, the only birds under Federal jurisdiction, he said.

"We believe the stamp sale would produce at least $1,000,000 a year to be used to buy sanctuaries and breeding places," Mr. Hawes said.

Other committee members who talked with Mr. Roosevelt were Senators Charles L. McNary (Republican), Oregon; Key Pittman (Democrat), Nevada; Peter Norbeck (Republican), South Dakota; Harry Byrd (Democrat), Virginia, and Bennett C. Clark (Democrat), Missouri.

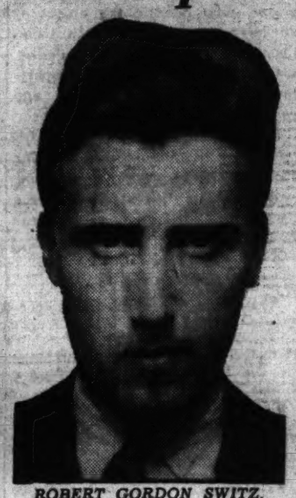
New Spanish Cabinet Wins First Test Vote

Madrid, Spain, Dec. 20 (U.P.).—The new government of Prime Minister Alejandro Lerroux was given a vote of confidence in the Cortes tonight, in its first major test in the newly elected Parliament.

The vote was 265 to 53.

French Jail American Pair as Soviet Spies

MRS. ROBERT SWITZ.



ROBERT GORDON SWITZ.

Paris, Dec. 20 (AP).—A young American, accused by police of serving a great international band of spies with Soviet Russian connections, and his wife were held in separate prisons tonight while authorities investigated what they called a wide network of military tipsters.

The man, described by officials as Robert Switz, 29, a native of East Orange, N. J., was charged with espionage and his wife, known to police as the former Marjorie Tilley, born in New York in 1911, was accused of complicity in an espionage service reaching even into the ministry of marine.

They were arrested as they were about to flee, police said, in a series of swift raids, netting eight other men and women, including a man said to be a Canadian merchant and his wife, of various nationalities, clandestine radio apparatus, military documents, Communist books, photographic equipment, large sums of money and papers indicating Communist affiliations.

Police held all incommunicado and, pending an examination by a magistrate, the Switzs were given no opportunity to deny or explain. Authorities said all indications were that the band worked for the benefit of Soviet Russia.

Long Pressed To Wall as Allies Fail

New Orleans Mayor Ends Alliance as Revolt Sweeps State.

New Orleans, Dec. 20 (AP).—Political uprising against Senator Huey P. Long has swept the State of Louisiana and has "Huey the Kingfish," with his back to the wall tonight, full of fight and venom for his enemies.

The most telling blow against his political dynasty of five years, came in New Orleans today when Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley and his Democratic organization broke with Senator Long over the approaching city election.

"We will have a new deal," said Mayor Walmsley. "I would rather go in with few less votes and a clean background."

"It almost turns my stomach to have the matter even mentioned to me," said Senator Long.

Long Workers Arrested.

Late in the day city police arrested a number of men distributing handbills setting forth Senator Long's comments on the break. The circulars were seized by the police and the passers were charged with distributing circulars without a permit.

One man was arrested when he started to give out circulars in the Ninth Precinct Police Station.

George Reyer, police superintendent, tonight said he had issued orders for discontinuance of a late night police detail at Senator Long's residence on Audubon boulevard.

Parishes in Uprising.

Out in the parishes, open uprisings have been held in public mass meetings, with others organized.

The breaking of the Long ranks followed the disturbance in the Sixth District, where his organization sought to handpick the members of the National Congress without holding a primary election. The citizens strapped on their pistols, slung shotguns over their shoulders and stopped the general election in three parishes But some 5,000 voters out of a registration of 60,000, voted for Long's candidate. Mrs. Bolivar E. Kemp, to succeed her husband.

Long was burned in effgy and 20 shots were fired at a man for shouting:

"Hurray for Huey."

NRA Clerks Achieve Short Working Day

Employes Win Struggle to Improve Hours, End Overtime.

NRA employes last night appeared to have been victorious in their project to achieve the same working conditions for themselves that NRA seeks to apply to all industry.

A resolution approved last night by the Labor Advisory Board recommended immediate cessation of overtime, except in extraordinary cases, and the hiring of sufficient additional men and women to obviate emergencies.

Resolution by Board.

The board's resolution read:

"The National Recovery Administration has now been in existence six months and the unlisted overtime first required from the staff due to emergency should no longer be necessary. The Labor Advisory Board approves the organization of the NRA employes in Lodge No. 91, of the American Federation of Government Employes, and commends their effort to obtain now the same standards as to hours and wages existing in the regular Federal service.

"We believe that this board should lead the way in improving NRA labor conditions and we therefore recommend that the executives responsible should immediately employ sufficient new girls and men to permit the staff to complete all except unpreventable emergency work within seven hours a day.

"We further recommend that when emergency does require overtime of any member of the staff, that such member shall be given equivalent time off within one month of the occurrence."

Much Overtime Work.

NRA employes have had to work many hours overtime for days in succession ever since the organization of the recovery forces six months ago.

Last week a delegation from the newly organized lodge of NRA appeared before Dr. Leo Wollman, chairman of the advisory board, seeking relief from conditions.

The resolution yesterday was signed by William R. Green, acting chairman of the board and president of American Federation of Labor, presiding in the absence of Dr. Wollman.

Detective Traps 4 Suspects In Pistol Battle at Hotel

A detective shot his way into a hotel room adjacent to the Department of Justice last night and overpowered four armed men, who, police charged, were waiting to rob two Washington sportsmen.

Several shots were exchanged as Detective Sergt. Frank O. Brass braved a dark room that allegedly had been selected as the scene for the robbery.

The purported victims were Tom Moore and Harry Smith. They were expected at the room a few minutes before the detective frustrated the alleged plot.

Brass received an underworld "tip" regarding the alleged plot. Whipping out his gun at the hotel room door, Brass called:

"Come out or I'll shoot!"

There was no response from the bedroom. Then he fired twice and wrenched open the door. A gun barked as he strode into the bedroom and a bullet whistled over his head.

Thrusting his smoking pistol under the bed, Brass ordered three men beneath to surrender. They shoved three .38 caliber pistols onto the rug and then crawled out.

As reserves rushed to the hotel, Brass sought a fourth man he believed to be in the room.

Detective Sergeant A. D. Mansfield, first to arrive on the scene, found a locked closet door.

"Surrender or I'll shoot!" barked Mansfield. The door opened, a pistol slid out on the floor and the fourth man surrendered.

The four prisoners are James E. Davis, alias Neal, 23, 2701 Fourteenth street northwest; Leslie Weldon, 32, 1320 Thirteenth street northwest; John Marshall Taylor, alias Tabler, 26, 1106 Eleventh street northwest, and Lawrence E. McNalley, 27, 200 K street northeast.

U. S. to Sign Equality Pact For Women

Montevideo Treaty to Be Made Effective by 20 Nations.

Action Balks Protests of Feminist Party to Phillips.

By Kendall Foss.

The equal nationality treaty, described as "of the greatest moment to so many women," will be adhered to by the United States at Montevideo this week.

Just as a determined delegation of National Woman's Party members set out for the State Department yesterday to register its protest at the announced American intention not to sign, word came from Montevideo that Secretary Hull had received instructions to add his name to those of the delegates of the 20 other American republics.

Protests Are Pocketed.

The delegation, headed by Mrs. Florence Bayard Hilles, vice chairman of the party, pocketed the prepared protest speeches and confined itself to an expression of appreciation of Acting Secretary Phillips' cooperation and interest. Mrs. Hilles asked the Secretary to read aloud the cable from Doris Stevens, Montevideo representative of the party.

"United States will sign, also Honduras and Nicaragua, making it unanimous. All our congratulations," Phillips read and added his own congratulations. He said further that it was a relief to know the delegation already knew the facts, as otherwise he would have been constrained to silence. This is taken to mean the decision to sign had been reached the day before, but that nothing was to be said until announcement had been made in Montevideo.

Signature will be accompanied by a reservation stating the action is subject to Congressional approval. The treaty reads:

"The contracting states agree that from the going into effect of this convention, there shall be no distinctions based on sex in their law and practice relating to nationality."

Alice Paul, chairman of the nationality committee of the Inter-American Commission of Women and chairman and founder of the Woman's Party, expressed confidence that ratification would be forthcoming.

"This is the beginning of the end of the whole struggle for woman's equality," she said. "The status of women for a great section of the world has been raised by a single stroke."

Leaders Congratulated.

Overjoyed at the success of their campaign, the leaders of the party dispatched appreciative telegrams to all they felt had helped secure American adherence. President Roosevelt, Secretary Hull, Acting Secretary Phillips and others received messages.

Primarily responsible for adoption at the Pan-American conference of this equal nationality treaty was a full report on the nationality laws of the nations of the Western Hemisphere, prepared by Alice Paul. In it appears an analysis of the status of women and a clarification of the existing inequalities.

Among nearly twoscore prominent women making up the delegation which visited Phillips yesterday, besides the chairman, Mrs. Hilles, were Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley, member National Council of the Woman's Party and president of the District of Columbia Federation of Women's Clubs; Miss Anita Pollitzer, vice chairman of the Woman's Party; Miss Dorothy Alden, Congressional chairman for Indiana of the party; Miss Helen Elizabeth Brown, of Baltimore; Mrs. Nina Allender, Mrs. Wyman Bradbury, Mrs. Randolph Keith Forres; and Mrs. Adela Godwin.

First Lady Shuns Fight.

(Copyright, 1933, by the United Press.)

Despite efforts to obtain her intervention, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt firmly refused to participate in the feminist controversy which ended yesterday when the United States delegation at Montevideo agreed to sign the equal nationality treaty.

Both sides of the controversy in this country hoped that Mrs. Roosevelt would enter the lists. The National Woman's Party, whose program for equality between men and women is opposed by Mrs. Roosevelt because of her advocacy of special labor legislation for women, sought her intervention in persuading the State Department that it should instruct the delegation to vote for the treaty last Friday. The National League of Women Voters, with which Mrs. Roosevelt has long been associated, opposed the treaty on the grounds it was vague. The league favors in principle equal nationality status.

The Department of State requested Mrs. Roosevelt's opinion on the treaty before advising the delegation and she refused to give it.

Mrs. Roosevelt announced when she came to the White House that she would express no view on controversial public affairs. She has occasionally taken up cudgels for equal pay for women and has spoken for the highly controversial Tugwell-Copeland pure food and drug measure.

Mrs. Roosevelt, however, is known to favor equality in nationality.

Legion Asks 100 Million In Aid Funds

Veteran Program Given to Roosevelt by Commander.

Revision of Benefits in Economy Act Proposed.

By Franklyn Waltman, Jr.

Further complicating the budget situation, the American Legion yesterday opened its drive for a revision of the veterans' section of the economy act when Edward A. Hayes, National commander, laid before President Roosevelt his organization's legislative program.

Although exact figures can not be compiled until the legion drafts its proposals in the form of bills, and these are studied by the Veterans' Administration, it is roughly estimated that the program would add $100,000,000 to the budget for the next fiscal year.

Compared with huge emergency expenditures now being made by the Government and others which will be proposed to Congress, this sum appears to be small. But unlike the emergency expenses, the additional appropriation proposed for the veterans will increase rapidly each year.

To Restore Provisions.

The lagion program not only seeks to restore certain provisions of the old veterans legislation, such as restoring to the compensation rolls virtually all presumptive service-connected cases, but it calls for new legislation never before on the statute books, such as pensions for all widows and orphans of World War veterans, irrespective of whether the death of the latter had a connection with military service.

In addition it is understood that the legion wants Congress to declare as a matter of policy that the duty of carrying for indigent veterans, regardless of service-connected disabilities, primarily rests on the Federal Government and not on States and local communities.

On leaving the White House with John Thomas Taylor, vice chairman of the legion legislative committee, Hayes said President Roosevelt had manifested "an interest" in the program laid before him. There were no indications, however, that the President will adopt any of the legion's proposals in his recommendations to Congress.

Plans Congress Fight.

It is understood that appropriations asked for veterans in the budget for the 1935 fiscal year, which will be ready next Wednesday, was drawn up on the basis of the economy act provisions. It is possible that the Administration may agree to the legion's proposal for hospitalization facilities for veterans, but it is not thought it will accept any of the other proposals.

Meanwhile, the legion is prepealed, to legion posts to support gress, concentrating on enactment of legislation carrying out its four-point program. Mr. Taylor has appealed to Legion posts to support only the program and to urge on members of Congress the importance of keeping other proposals out of the next session, since otherwise the issue will be confused.

Guardsmen Rescue Six From Gale-Tossed Ship

Westerly, R. I., Dec. 20 (AP).—Six men were rescued tonight from the three-masted schooner Granville R. Bacon after she had run aground on a sand bar off Weekapaug.

Coast Guardsmen shot ropes across the vessel from shore and then dragged the captain, mate, cook and sailors to safety. The schooner was en route from Camden, Me., to New York. She was being pounded hard by heavy seas.

Stalin, 54, Spends Birthday at Work

Russia Obeys Order for no Celebration.

Moscow, Dec. 20 (U.P.).—Josef Stalin, virtual dictator of Soviet Russia, received a sheaf of messages today congratulating him on his fifty-fourth birthday.

A few newspapers noticed the anniversary, but no general celebration, such as marked his fiftieth birthday, took place. He had asked that there be none.

The "vozhd," or leader, as he is termed, spent the day hard at work.

Foes of President Attack Proposal to Extend RFC; Blue Eagle Flies to May 1

Display of NRA Symbol to Mean Acceptance of Extension.

Employers Asked To Carry On Pact

Blanket Code to Expire Dec. 31; 70 Per Cent Reported in Fold.

By Leon Dure, Jr.

Breathing new life into the Blue Eagle of the recovery campaign, President Roosevelt yesterday extended to May 1 all provisions of the President's reemployment agreement, although the agreement itself terminates at the end of the year.

Unable to continue the blanket code as a contract beyond December 31—since as such it would require also the consent of employers—the President specified the further use of NRA insignia will be considered evidence of acceptance, which will carry out the same purposes.

This was accomplished by an Executive order which declared: "Display of the Blue Eagle on or after January 1, 1934, * * * shall be deemed an acceptance of this offer of extension * * *" In this manner four more months were given the blanket code, at the end of which time the President hopes all industry will have been codified.

70 Per Cent Codified.

Announcement of the extension by Mr. Roosevelt at his regular press conference was elaborated in a statement that pointed out expiration of the blanket code will find 70 per cent of all employes already under permanent fair competition agreements. This figure had been set somewhat higher by Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson, who estimated 80 to 85 per cent.

Mr. Roosevelt further disclosed that the new National Emergency Council eventually will provide a system for the administration of all relief agencies. This means the State directors now being selected will be under immediate instructions of Frank C. Walker, acting executive secretary, but also will report to the various relief administrators, such as Gen. Johnson.

The President's executive order was in the nature of an invitation to all those who signed the reemployment agreement to continue to abide by its terms, and also to any others who choose to come under the Blue Eagle. In that false display of the insignia is expressly forbidden, the recovery administration still maintains control over enforcement.

Exceptions Granted.

Both the difficulty of launching another campaign for signatures and the advanced state of code-making are believed to have determined the Administration on this means to continue the agreement, as was forecast in The Post. As in the case of the original agreement, exceptions will apply under the extension, which will be effective only until the formulation of permanent codes.

Mr. Roosevelt's formal statement, stressing the importance of preventing "any let down" in the recovery program, follows:

"The President's reemployment agreement, according to its original

Emperor Rumored For Manchukuo

Henry Pu Yi to Head New Empire, Shanghai Hears.

Shanghai, Dec. 20 (AP).—Rumors that Japan plans to make an emperor of Henry Pu Yi, 28, executive of the Japanese-advised state of Manchukuo, were current here today.

Once the "Boy Emperor" of China, last of the Manchus, Pu Yi was made nominal ruler of the former three eastern provinces (Manchuria) when Japan took the area from China during the recent campaign.

Pu Yi's empire, the rumors said, is slated to include the provinces of Hopei and Shangtung in northern China.

Tale of a Whale's A Whale of a Tale, But Poor Harry!

New York, Dec. 20 (U.P.).—Harry Lewis feared today his 55-ton whale had been kidnaped.

The whale, on a 65-foot truck, left Chicago Friday and was last seen crossing the Indiana-Ohio border next day.

Lewis said the whale was worth $25,000.

"Not only that," he lamented, "I love that whale."

Byrns Opens Move to Junk House "Gag"

Democrats Enlist G.O.P. Aid to End Tactics of Last Session.

By Robert C. Albright.

House Democratic leaders are planning to junk unprecedented gag rule procedure employed to rush the President's emergency program through the last session of Congress.

Relying on scattered Republican pledges of "cooperation" and a safe Democratic majority, House Democratic strategists hope to abandon "legislation by rule" at the January term, discarding the great body of gag precedents built up last spring.

"Will Not Need Rule."

"In the first place, I don't think we will need the special rules we were forced to bring out last session," Representative Joseph W. Byrns (Democrat), Tennessee, House Democratic leader, said last night.

"In the second place, I don't approve of the principle, and never did."

Meantime, Republican leadership in both Houses of Congress, withholding any forthright criticism of the Administration program, pursued a policy of watchful waiting.

Although there have been instances of individual sniping by Republican free lances in both Houses, and similar attacks are expected to continue when Congress convenes, minority party leadership in both House and Senate is "laying low and saying nothing," as one Republican member put it.

House Democratic chieftains, including Leader Byrns and Speaker Rainey, prefer to regard this a favorable augury for smooth sailing when Congress reassembles after New Year's. The Democratic leadership is counting on the personal popularity of President Roosevelt in many of the home Republican districts as sufficient deterrent to stave off any dangerous assault on the President's program.

Message Is Awaited.

Under favorable conditions, both Speaker Rainey and Representative Byrns believe the House can complete its work without hurrying by April 1, or April 15. Under any circumstances, they predict both House and Senate will be ready for adjournment by May 1.

President Roosevelt has had only informal contact with both leaders since their return to Washington. It was learned he plans more protracted discussions with members of both houses before he drafts his annual message. Representative Byrns may be called to the White House this week.

On the President's annual message two weeks from today, and his budget message on January 4, will

Fish's Tail Fires Gun And Kills His Captor

The Pas, Man., Dec. 20 (AP). Joe Benoit, French-Canadian trapper, caught a large Northern pike in the Mattawiskiwa River. He placed it in the bottom of his canoe. It threshed about and its tail touched the trigger of Benoit's rifle. The trapper was killed instantly.

City Agrees to Share Its Rats With Pied Piper Profession

The Washington Association of Exterminators and Fumigators and the District Transient Relief Bureau came to a working agreement last night whereby each will keep away from the other's rats.

Following announcement that 100 neatly uniformed, well-trained rat catchers had been recruited by the bureau to rid Washington of rats, the association yesterday sent a plaintive telegram of protest to President Roosevelt.

The exterminating trade will be all but exterminated itself if these gayly caparisoned young recruits, drilled to the suavity of book salesmen, are to be launched in an anti-rodent campaign which will function free of charge, the telegram declared.

Professional exterminators would be forced to discharge 50 assistants without even waiting for Christmas, it was asserted.

Arthur S. Rosichan, director of the bureau, settled this problem quicker than the snap of a trap. The boys in blue, he promised, would confine their rat-catching activities to alleys, sewers and buildings in the less affluent sections of the city. Home owners and commercial firms who can afford to pay the piper will be referred to professional talent, for which the bureau has the highest regard.

Republicans Hold War Conference

Seek Way to Break U.S. Bank Grip; Roosevelt Calls Advisers.

By Elliott Thurston.

Foes of the President's policy on money, the budget and banking, and of the drift toward Federal economic planning, began yesterday to concentrate their fire on the Administration's plan to extend the life of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation beyond January 22.

Conservative leaders of his own party have warned the President they will seek to block the proposed $1,000,000,000 addition to R. F. C. funds and bring to an end on January 22, when its authorization expires, this powerful agency now busy flushing banks with new capital, avowedly to qualify many of them for Federal deposit insurance.

At the same time Republican leaders sat around a luncheon table yesterday and pondered not merely party reorganization but the formulation of a program that would call for extinction of the R. F. C., its controls over banks and its reaching toward direct loans to industry.

Other Side Confers, Too.

Whether the forming of these battle lines precipitated White House consultations with Acting Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, Budget Director Douglas and Attorney General Cummings was not divulged, but the President grapoled yesterday with the issue projected by the plan to continue the R. F. C.

These and other officials, including Chairman Jesse Jones of the R. F. C. and Gov. Black of the Federal Reserve Board, who conferred again yesterday with Gov. Harrison of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, have been engaged in a series of conferences with the President and the question of the fate of the R.F.C. has been in the foreground.

Believe Views Expressed.

Another White House visitor yesterday was Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia, who lunched with the President and spent more than two hours in conversation with him. The Senator, whose dislike of monetary policy of the Blue Eagle and other aspects of the program is well known, had no comment to make on his visit, save to say he expected minor amendment of the Glass-Steagall bill to ease stock-buying requirements for directors

New Paris Ban Hits U. S. Goods

Import Cut on American Electrical Machines Held Menace.

Paris, Dec. 20 (AP).—The French government was revealed today to be planning fresh restrictions on American trade in 1934 in the form of limitations on imports on American machines equipped with built-in electric motors.

It also became apparent that negotiations between France and the United States for an exchange of increased quotas on apples, pears and wines were completely snagged.

The American Chamber of Commerce called a meeting today of importers dealing in machinery specified for restriction, to consider means of meeting what they described as a new menace to United States trade with France.

The French government was reliably reported to have issued information to Maurice Garreau-Dombasle, commercial attache in the United States, that grave difficulties had been encountered in the proposal to abandon the import license tax on fruits.

Banks Dressed To Fool Public, Witness Admits

Published Reports Fixed to Look Good, Lord of Detroit Says.

By Martha Dalrymple.

Details of how Detroit bankers "window-dressed" their affairs so public records might show no outstanding bills were revealed yesterday before the Senate investigators.

Continuing his testimony about the Detroit bank crash which led to the national banking holiday, Robert O. Lord, former president of the Guardian Detroit Union Group, Inc., admitted he and his associates had been able to arrange things so that the records showed "no bills payable."

Questioned by Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel, Lord said the method usually employed to take bills off the books of unit banks, was to have the corporation supply the bank with deposit certificates.

By this device, he said, the bank in question could point to its freedom from liabilities, outside demand deposit accounts.

Done for "Showing."

"This was done so that the banks could make an excellent showing," explained the witness.

"Also so the records would show no bills payable?" asked Pecora.

"Yes. It was for that, too."

"Window dressing," commented Pecora.

Pecora introduced a memorandum, signed by Lord, concerning "Favorable comment of Guardian rooters."

In this document Lord quoted a newspaper article saying that the deposits of the Guardian Detroit Bank had increased from $90,000,000 to $124,000,000. All the 23 banks and trust companies involved in the group were represented as being free of payable bills.

The memorandum quoted testimonials congratulating the Detroit group system. R. E. Reichert, Michigan commissioner of banks, was especially glowing with his praise.

Lord explained his "rooter" document by saying that every bank in the country was interested in making the best showing, that bankers had unfortunately "educated" the public to a belief that banks should have no borrowed money.

Couzens Warns Lord.

Senator Couzens (Republican), Michigan, who figured largely in the grand jury investigation last fall into the Detroit bank situation, took an active part for the first time in the Senate inquiry.

He asked Lord if it was true that the banks had no bills payable, and when the witness replied, "Certainly," the senator countered:

"We'll see about that. Remember you are under oath here."

Evidence was also offered that the Guardian group insisted upon a dividend payment by the City National Bank of Niles, Mich., despite the suggestion by the State bank examiner that it might be illegal.

"The individual boards always decided on the dividend figures, despite suggestions from the group board," Lord asserted.

Lord testified that from the end of 1929 through the first month of 1933, the aggregate dividends from the unit banks received by the group amounted to $9,789,000. The group, in turn, he said, paid $9,293,000 in dividends from June, 1929, to March, 1932.

Describes Loan to Friend.

Lord further dealt in detail with a loan of $15,000 to Joseph Brewer, president of the Grand Rapids National Bank. He explained that one of the group's affiliates, the Second National Bank of Saginaw, was instructed to declare a special dividend to the group corporation amounting to slightly more than $15,000.

The group then promptly made the loan to Brewer from the dividend revenue.

Lord explained that Brewer needed the money for life insurance and interest payments and his personal friend, R. Perry Shorts, head of the Saginaw bank, suggested the dividend to save his friend embarrassment.

Explaining the dividend payments by the Union Guardian Trust Co. and the National Bank of Commerce, Lord said that during the years 1930, 1931 and 1932, the trust company had earnings of $1,675,000 and paid dividends of $1,475,000.

The National Bank of Commerce, he said, during the same period earned $5,140,000 and declared dividends of $3,737,000.

The group corporation during those years received a total of $8,164,000 in dividends from subsidiaries, but counteracting these it had purchased slow assets of the affiliate banks of $8,400,000.

Lord will resume the stand today to finish his testimony about the "window dressing." Pecora indicated Edsel Ford will be summoned if need for his testimony develops.

John Was a Gentleman, But in Wolf's Clothing

Chicago, Dec. 20 (AP).—Mrs. Elaine Dent, also known as De Kant, when arraigned today on a charge of being an accessory to the murder of Police Sergt. William T. Shanley, said John Hamilton, escaped Indiana convict who was charged with the actual killing, had always acted like a perfect gentleman.

She was ordered to jail until January 10, unless she could raise bond. "I thought this guy was a gentleman," Mrs. Dent said.

St. Louis Liquor Clerk Arrested, Rum Seized

St. Louis, Dec. 20 (U.P.).—The first exclusive liquor shop to be opened to the public in St. Louis encountered an obstacle when one bottle of liquor was seized and a clerk arrested.

Postal Claim Is Explained By Blanton

Representative Says He Sought to Protect Old Friend.

Abilene, Tex., Dec. 20 (U.P.).—Representative Thomas L. Blanton, of Texas, today explained his attempt to obtain $2,500 from the Ranger postmaster for a constituent as the outgrowth of alleged improper payment for postal savings certificates.

He made his explanation after Solicitor Karl Crowley, of the Postoffice Department, announced he had asked Blanton for full details of what Crowley characterized as at attempt to settle a claim without knowledge of the Postoffice Department.

Blanton's statement said the claim had been filed with the department in behalf of Mrs. Fry Frost Oldham, administratrix of the estate of her grandmother, the late Mrs. M. A. E. Frost.

The claim, Blanton said, was for postal savings certificates cashed by J. F. Meroney, postmaster at Ranger, in favor of D. C. Bruce, brother of Mrs. Frost, after Mrs. Frost had been judged by two courts as of unsound mind.

The case involved no charges of moral turpitude, but was a matter of administrative authority, Blanton said.

Postal authorities had made public a letter in which Blanton told Meroney he was "not filing this matter with the Postoffice Department, but I am calling on you for settlement * * * without the Postoffice Department having any knowledge of the situation."

Because Meroney's conduct in cashing the certificates was only an act of "improper administration," and because he was a "citizen of high standing and a civic leader," Blanton said he gave the postmaster an opportunity to rectify the matter before a complaint was filed with the Postoffice Department.

In January, 1932, Blanton said, a will was purportedly executed in which Mrs. Frost left her property to Bruce and Mrs. Oldham. The will provided if the granddaughter contested it she was to receive nothing.

Bruce later took the postmaster to his sister's home, where Mrs. Frost on two occasions signed over postal certificates totalling $2,500, Blanton said.

Mrs. Frost died in April, 1932, and subsequently her will was set aside.

Britain to Buy Biblical Relic

Codex Sinaiticus to Be Sold by Russian Government.

London, Dec. 20 (AP).—The British Museum will buy the Codex Sinaiticus, which has been called the most valuable manuscript in the world, from the Soviet government for $500,000, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald told the House of Commons today.

The manuscript consists of a large part of the Old Testament and the Epistles of Barnabas and the Shepherd of Hermas, written in Greek, as a translation from Hebrew in the second half of the fourth century.

Mr. MacDonald said that a public subscription fund would be started and that for every penny put up by the public the government would contribute equally.

The document has been in Russia since it was presented to Alexander II in the middle of the nineteenth century. Other famous Biblical manuscripts include the Codex Vaticanus and the Codex Alexandrinus, which is in the British Museum.

The first trace of the Codex Sinaiticus was found by Tischendorf, renowned Biblical scholar, on Mount Sinai in 1844. It is written in 48 lines to a 4-column page, on thin vellum.

According to Tischendorf, the text was writtn by four scribes, one of whom he identified as the author of the Codex Vaticanus. It dates from the second half of the fourth century. The Codex is believed to have originated in either Alexandria or Caesaria.

2 Americans Held As Russian Spies

The real chiefs of the organization were suspected to be two Russians whom Switz was reported to have met frequently and who fled from France in July when they were replaced by two others, still at large.

Switz, who police said was always followed by two bodyguards, was first suspected in March. He was called "The Aviator."

Three hundred French operatives under Commissioner Gianvetti trailed him and the other alleged members of the band for eight months.

Eight Others Named.

The names of the others arrested were listed as:

Benjamin Bercowitz, a merchant, born May 10, 1891, Iasi, Rumania; a naturalized Canadian.

Mrs. Clara Bercowitz, his wife and also a naturalized Canadian; born December 19, 1903, in Bendery, Rumania.

Moise Salmon, 26, and his wife, Chana, 27, both Polish medical students.

Mme. Lidia Tchekaloff Stahl, 48, a Russian.

Mlle. Madeleine Mermet, 23, a French teacher.

Louis Martin, 43, a French teacher, a translator in the marine ministry.

Douchan Narandisch, 42, a Serbian journalist.

When Switze registered at the American University Union here on September 21, he described himself as a "United States aviator." He said he was born October 28, 1904, was a graduate of Yale University, and had recently visited England.

Two alleged accomplices, Mme. Stahl and Martin, were said by officials to have made frequent and mysterious visits to Finland, where the two fugitive Russians were previously suspected of spying.

Bercowitz Believed Chief.

Bercowitz seemed to be the principal chief of the syndicate in Paris, authorities reported, and he apparently was the "pay-off" man.

Subordinates did not know each other, but served through a single contact man, according to officials' statements.

Mme. Stahl was described as a confidential agent of leaders in other countries and carried instructions and documents back and forth.

Police said they found maps concerning French national defense systems and money hidden in books in her library. Documents of interest to the French war and navy ministries were reported found in the home of Martin, who had a bank account in Frankfort, Germany.

A dismantled radio sending and receiving set and cameras were said to have been found among the baggage of Mlle. Mermet.

Police revealed the case was brought to a head by discovery of a Soviet espionage affair in Finland, in connection with which Arvid Jacobson and his wife, formerly of Michigan, were arrested with 18 others last October.

A French police commissary sent to Helsingfors returned with information which permitted the arrests in Paris this week, police said.

Investigation revealed that the case involves two elements. The first concerns naval documents and the second military affairs.

U. S. Asks Details.

The State Department last night cabled the American Embassy in Paris for complete information on the arrest by French authorities of a couple who described themselves as Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gordon Switze on charges of espionage, the Associated Press reported.

Mr. and Mrs. Switze, who claim to be American citizens, were among ten alleged spies rounded up by the French secret police.

State Department officials have received no advices concerning the arrests from the Embassy in Paris. It was reiterated that the Embassy would protect the legitimate interests of Mr. and Mrs. Switze.

Hoovers to Stay Home For Christmas Dinner

Stanford University, Dec. 20 (AP). For the first time in seven years, the Herbert Hoovers will spend Christmas in their own home here.

The big gray-white house on San Juan Hill, which has seen but little of its traveled owners since it was built on the Stanford University campus soon after the war, is abuzz with festive preparations, like other homes of the land. The Yuletide board will see an old-fashioned family reunion about the Christmas turkey, to be carved by the former President.

Unemployment "Terror" Bared In Coal Inquiry

Operators and Mine Union Both Hit in Report to Labor Board.

Charges of "serious abuses," including refusal of operators to reemploy miners as requested by Chairman Robert F. Wagner of the National Labor Board, the sale of jobs, and wholesale wage cuts by "mine bosses" eager to take advantage of a tremendous labor surplus, were passed on by a committee which yesterday reported to the board concerning the Pennsylvania anthracite disputes.

Other charges were that there have been wholesale discriminations, intimidation of miners by employers and failure by the United Mine Workers, an American Federation of Labor affiliate, to make operators comply with their working agreements or "to protect the men in their right to bring grievances before the anthracite conciliation board."

The charges were preferred by the United Anthracite Miners of Pennsylvania, an independent union which was organized last summer.

Prompt Action Promised.

"The charges laid before us are of very serious nature, and if true in any substantial degree the conditions alleged should be corrected by prompt and decisive action," the committee reported.

The labor board announced it would "arrive at a course of action as soon as possible."

The committee was appointed by the board to collect facts after Chairman Wagner interceded in Scranton-Wilkesbarre area strikes in November with the plea that all strikers return to work pending investigation. It recommended that the investigation be continued by a new agency, which would first exact promises from all concerned to abide by its decisions.

The committee includes Charles P. Neill, Dr. Hugh Hanna and Elmer F. Andrews.

After the new union was formed, the committee reported, representatives of the A. F. of L. union obtained a promise from mine operators to discharge leaders of the independent union.

Families Destitute for Years.

Strikes consequently were called by the younger organization at certain colleries, it stated, and when the strikes were called off in November on recommendations from Chairman Wagner that all workers be returned to their former positions, the companies refused to reinstate many of the strikers.

"There are probably 25,000 mine workers out of employment in the Scranton-Wilkes-Barre area; many of these have not had a day's employment for two or three years, and they and their families have been reduced to destitution and are now living on the meager dole which they are able to secure from local relief funds," the board said.

"Very many of them will probably never again secure employment in the mines. Even to a young man with a family the prospect of being discharged is now one which he can contemplate only with terror. To a man past 45 the prospect of being discharged is even more terrible."

"Flying Boudoir" Starts Refueling

Women Begin First Night in Endurance Race.

Miami, Fla., Dec. 20 (AP).—Their first refueling contact accomplished without event, the "flying boudoir" endurance plane droned on tonight with Mrs. Frances Harrell Marsalis and Miss Helen Richey at the controls.

The endurance plane took off at 1:03 p. m. today for a second attack on the unofficial eight-day women's mark. Carrying 175 gallons at the take-off, and receiving about 100 gallons more late today, it was believed no further refueling would be necessary until some time tomorrow.

Sandwiches, soup, fruit and coffee were taken up for lunch, and dinner was transferred during the afternoon contact.

Acting on a suggestion given them by an anonymous informant, two district attorney investigators, Jesse Winn and W. D. Say, questioned Miss Johnson for two hours.

Magician Finds Mice in His Soup And Self in Jail

New York, Dec. 20 (U.P.).—John H. Muller, furniture salesman and amateur magician, was held in $5,000 bail today on suspicion of grand larceny after the district attorney's office received complaints that he was visiting various restaurants and pulling mice out of soup.

The prosecutor said he has photostatic copies of three checks given to Miller by various restaurants, paying him to keep silent. His "racket," it is alleged, was to go into a restaurant, pull a mouse from a bowl of soup, and then accept payment for remaining silent about the matter.

Muller was arrested, police said, after he "partonized" two restaurants belonging to the same chain.

Stock Market Operator Says He Can't Remember.

New York, Dec. 20 (AP).—Jesse L. Livermore, noted stock market operator, who became the object of an intensive 24-hour search when his wife reported him missing, walked into his Park Avenue apartment at 6:20 o'clock tonight and rang the doorbell.

He told detectives there with his wife that he remembered nothing from 5:30 p. m. yesterday until he woke up late this afternoon in a downtown hotel with a headache and read reports of his disappearance in a newspaper.

Hunt Called Off.

Livermore, one of the most spectacular plungers in Wall street's history, then went to bed while detectives pieced together the story of the 24 hours he said were a blank in his mind.

Federal agents, who had joined the hunt on the fears of the trader's third wife, that he had been kidnaped, dropped their inquiry. Word was flashed over police wires and a search that involved police of a dozen States was called off.

Plunger Is Silent.

Two hours after Livermore walked out of the rain into his triplex apartment, the police announced officially the case was closed.

Attendants at the apartment house door said Livermore was in bed and did not wish to be disturbed. Neither the trader nor his wife, they said, had any statement to make.

At the hotel where Livermore said he had spent the night the desk clerk said he was not registered. Police, however, explained that Livermore told them he "couldn't remember" whether he registered or not.

Arrives in Cab.

Livermore arrived home in a taxicab. Several photographers were nearby.

Livermore, his overcoat pulled close about him, paid off the cab and rang the bell of his ground-floor apartment before the photographers realized his identity.

He stood on the steps, shivering a bit, waiting for some one to open the door, and photographers' bulbs flashed.

He met his wife at 4 p. m. yesterday and told her he was going to keep an engagement with a friend. He never got to the appointment, but, instead, walked to the curb before his house, summoned a cab and ordered the driver to go to his office on lower Broadway.

From that point on, he told police, his mind was a blank. Detectives at his home said he told them he "vaguely remembered" going to a hotel, but had no clear idea why he had done so.

Wallace Calls Nation's Dairy Leaders Here

New Deal Planned After Producers Flay Milk and Butter Program.

Shortly after the National Cooperative Milk Producers Federation yesterday charged Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace with responsibility for the recent "breakdown" of butter prices, the Secretary called the dairy leaders of the Nation to a conference here Friday to work out with "a new deal" for the industry.

Secretary Wallace in his statement announcing he had broadened the scope of his Friday farm conference in order to focus attention on the problems now harassing the dairy industry, did not refer specifically to the attack on him, but he undertook to answer it.

The milk producers' federation sharply assailed Mr. Wallace. It contended his butter-purchase policy, terminated last Saturday, was "indecisive;" that he had not lived up to promises he made last August, and that he had failed to take advantage of offers of cooperation in the working out of a milk-production-control program.

Retort to His Charges.

The federation also challenged Secretary Wallace to identify the producers and distributors he had in mind when in his annual report he contended there has been "collusion of producers and distributors" in the fixing of prices. Mr. Wallace so far has ignored this part of the attack.

The condition of the dairy industry and the efforts to improve it have had an improtant bearing on the controversies which for weeks have disrupted the A.A.A. Secretary Wallace's sharp criticism of the failure of the milk agreements brought to a head the dissension over the activities of George N. Peek, subsequently transferred from his post as agricultural administrator to take charge of foreign trade promotion.

Dr. Clyde L. King, formerly in charge of the dairy section of A.A.A., was ousted from his post last week. At the same time Secretary Wallace terminated on one day's notice the Administration's butter-purchase program, chiefly a price stabilization operation, after butter prices reached their lowest levels in years.

Mr. Wallace early yesterday terminated effective January 1 the Chicago milk marketing agreement at the request of the producers in that area. Termination or drastic revision of the milk marketing agreements now effective in Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Atlanta, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Davenport, Moline, East Moline Des Moines, Los Angeles, Knoxville, St. Louis, Kansas City and Alameda County, Calif., are expected to follow.

Loss to Farmers Alleged

Meanwhile, with the Chicago milk-shed producers free after January 1 to meet competition, milk dealers in that city were reported by the Associated Press as hurriedly holding conferences to determine what action they should take and what prices they should pay. It was intimated that unless the Government stepped in as a referee a price war might break out.

As a result of these developments the Milk Producers' Federation, of which Charles W. Holman, secretary, is the moving spirit, yesterday contended that "4,000,000 dairy farmers in the United States face a tragic outlook," charging that Mr. Wallace's "indecisive policy in the purchase of butter" had "caused a breakdown in butter prices, resulting in a loss to all producers of milk for manufacturing purposes of from 30 to 35 per cent of their total current income."

The break of 7 cents a pound in butter prices in the last two weeks has caused a 2½-cent decline in cheese prices, the federation asserted, adding that "the repercussions of this disaster are already being felt in fluid milk sheds and unless restorative measures are immediately adopted, downward price readjustment will inevitably follow, with the result that during the winter the income of America's dairy farmers will be at a lower point in purchasing power than at any time in the last generation."

The federation criticized the failure of the Government to distribute through relief agencies the 44,000,000 pounds of butter purchased for that purpose, contending that had this butter been taken out of storage "the market would have been strengthened and confidence would have been reestablished."

Bid Purchase Condemned.

The plan, announced last week, to purchase 15,000,000 additional pounds of butter for relief by means of sealed bids also was criticized on the ground that such a procedure "tends to lower rather than increase prices."

Mr. Wallace also was accused of failing to carry out his promise to spend at least $30,000,000 to purchase butter and cheese. The federation pointed out that far from this sum has been spent, and that "to date not a single pound of cheese has been bought."

Shortly after the statement was issued, the Federal Surplus Relief Corporation called for bids to be opened December 30 on 4,500,000 pounds of cheese for distribution to the unemployed.

Mr. Wallace, in announcing his conference to solve the troubles of the dairy industry, which will be attended by Mr. Holman, said his department is at work on a production adjustment program for the dairy industry, and that he wanted to consult farm leaders in regard to it. After citing the problems of the dairy industry and asserting that production of milk must be curbed, Mr. Wallace said:

"The Department of Agriculture owes to the man who milks the cow the duty of working out a program which is sound as between milk and butter. It is not our duty to enforce fixed prices to consumer. Any fight that has for its objective merely an increase in milk distributors' profits, no matter how cleverly it may be masqueraded in overalls, must not be permitted to divert us from the fundamental job of production adjustment."

Senator Asks National Probe Of Dairy Trade

McCarren to Introduce Bill in Congress, He Declares.

Investigation of the National dairy industry by the Senate was urged yesterday by Senator Patrick A. McCarran (Democrat), Nevada.

Facts developed in the course of the recently completed investigation of the local dairy situation has convinced him of the need for an inquiry on a National scale, Senator McCarran said.

Conditions similar to those found in the District exist throughout the country, the senator stated, adding he would introduce a resolution providing for the special inquiry when Congress convenes.

Senator McCarran believes that the dairy farmer receives too little for his product and the "spread" between the price paid the producer and that charged the consumer is too great. What legislation will be introduced has not been determined, he said.

"While it is true, as some have contended, our investigation has shown producers in the Washington area receive more for their product than do producers in other places, it is also true that it costs them more to produce and market their milk," the Senator said.

Report of the District investigating committee is being written and will be completed in the near future, the Senator said.

Only today the "Doll Baby"—that's the only name she had, and it was given to her by her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Charles Finerd—had gained a quarter of a pound and the child's mother expressed the hope she would live.

She said she wouldn't give her girl a name until she lived a week.

The "Doll Baby" died in her crib beside the family's old-fashioned coal stove.

Legion Program Asks Fund Of 100 Million for Veterans

Throughout the country, it is understood, legionnaires have made representations to Representatives and Senators in behalf of the "four-point program." Usually such drives have been successful, particularly when they take place on the eve of elections. Whether the legion, however, will be able to keep other veteran proposals out of Congress is doubtful.

Already there is talk on Capitol Hill of reviving the fight for immediate cash payment of the World War veteran bonus, which would call for about $2,300,000,000. The experience of the past has shown that when this question gets before the House, it musters a majority, although the Senate has killed such legislation. The legion is opposed to payment of the bonus now.

Text of 4-Point Program.

The text of the legion's four-point program, approved by its Chicago convention and laid before the President, is as follows:

"1. That no war veteran disabled in line of duty suffer any reduction of those benefits granted such veterans in the World War veterans' act as in effect prior to March 20, 1933.

"2. That hospitalization under government auspices be afforded all veterans not dishonorably discharged who require hospital treatment and who are not able to pay for their own treatment.

"3. That perpetuation of service connection for all veterans properly granted such service connection under laws in existence prior to March 20, 1933, be recommended as an item of legion policy.

"4. That the benefits provided for dependents of veterans as established in the veterans' act be resumed and maintained as the Government's policy, and that in no event shall widows and/or dependent children of deceased World War veterans be without Governmental protection."

Hayes explained on leaving the White House that this program would reduce the savings under the economy act "a little more than one-fourth." It was not clear whether he meant the total savings or only those in veterans expenditures, or, if the latter, whether he meant the original estimate of savings or that after the final revision of the act.

To Save 383 Millions.

Originally the veterans section of the act was estimated to save $383,000,000. Subsequently this estimate was increased to $450,000,000, which included a deferred $50,000,000 compensation payment. The best available estimate now on savings is $300,000,000 annually.

Point one of the Legion program would restore to every veteran disabled in line of duty the compensation he was receiving prior to the passage of the economy act.

The proposal to restore hospitallzation to all veterans who can not afford to pay for treatment is not regarded as costly, and has a good chance of being enacted, especially since veterans' hospitals have been thrown open to members of the C. C. C. and those employed under the C. W. A.

Point three would restore the presumpfive service-connected cases to compensation rolls. The economy act wiped out previous legislation permitting "presumption," leaving each case to stand on its own merits as to whether it was service-connected. The boards of review set after the passage of the act have eliminated about 60 per cent of the "presumptive" cases.

Seeks Aid for Widows.

The fourth legion proposal, as explained by Mr. Hayes, calls for granting to all widows and orphans "the same benefits and rates now accorded to those of the Spanish-American War under the economy act and its regulations." Spanish War widows now receive $30 monthly, if their husbands died from injuries connected with service, and $15 otherwise. A pension of $3 monthly is paid each Spanish War orphan.

At present World War widows whose husbands died from service-connected injuries receive $30 monthly, with $10 for the first child and $6 for each additional child. These number about 80,000. The legion now wants pensions of $15 a month for all other World War widows and $3 for each child.

This proposal is regarded as the most costly in the legion program, since the number of World War widows will increase yearly. Government records show that wives of veterans outlive the latter. There are now about 20,000 living Civil War veterans, but many more widows of that war are receiving pensions.

Pensions for all World War widows also is regarded as a forerunner of pensions for all World War veterans, irrespective of injuries or of need.

2 Women Hurt By Hit-Run Car

Police Seeking Drivers in Two Connecticut Avenue Accidents.

Two women were struck last night by hit-and-run drivers in two acidents on Conecticut avenue within an hour and within three blocks.

Mrs. Virginia Pfleiger, 28, of 3002 Rodman street northwest, was hit when she alighted from a street car at Connecticut avenue and Porter street nodt.west.

Witnesses described the car as a "large, black sedan," traveling at a high rate of speed.

At Emergency Hospital it was discovered she suffered a compound fracture of the skull.

Police were attempting to locate her husband, Charles H. Pfleiger, an official of the Ajax Roofing Co., through the use of radio patrol cars.

Police were looking for a car, believed to be stolen, which ran down and injured Miss Grace Loving, 29, at the corner of Connecticut and Cathedral avenues. She suffered a broken nose and injuries of the head.

Miss Loving was removed to her home, 2820 Connecticut avenue. The car was driven by a colored man, police were told.

Fight on Rigid Income Levies Irks Framers

Witnesses Told Committee Seeks "Constructive Suggestions."

Witnesses appearing against House Ways and Means Committee proposals to squeeze $270,000,000 more out of income taxes by plugging loopholes yesterday were admonished by Chairman Robert L. Doughton to submit "constructive suggestions."

As witness after witness, representing a cross section of industry, assailed far-reaching subcommittee recommendations and asked for repeal of excise taxes, Democratic members rallied to the defense of the subcommittee report.

Chairman Doughton, in his warning to witnesses, backed a statement made earlier in the day by Representative David J. Lewis (Democrat), Maryland.

"It is our responsibility to balance the budget, and we are trying to do it by blocking loopholes and imposing taxes on incomes and profits which the spirit of past legislation has intended should be taxed," Representative Doughton told newspapermen.

"But we get no constructive suggestions from the business spokesmen who come here, while they object to every plan we advance."

Says Middle Class Exempt.

Representative Lewis declared "the time has come when we have got to quit coddling the taxpayer, if we are going to save this Nation from collapse.

"Our American middle class, which I presume is represented by some of these gentlemen appearing before us, is virtually exempt from taxation."

The parade of witnesses in opposition to many of the subcommittee proposals followed a similar position taken last week by Acting Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, who objected to five of the committee's nine major suggestions.

The committee yesterday completed hearings on proposed changes in the income tax law, then broadened the scope of testimony to include existing excise and "nuisance" levies, which some members hope to repeal.

Hearing Ends Tonight.

Chairman Doughton said the hearing will be concluded tonight. The committee tomorrow will attempt to reach a decision on liquor tax recommendations of the interdepartmenatl committee. A separate liquor tax bill will be framed and rushed to the House the first week of Congress.

Seeking repeal of existing excise levies yesterday were E. Fillmore, of the Associated Fur Coat and Trimming Manufacturers; Fayette B. Dow, of the American Petroleum Industries committee; H. P. Taylor, of the Independent Tobacco Manufacturers Association, and W. H. Mason, of the Scott Tobacco Co.

Others attacking subcommittee proposals were H. B. Fernald, of American Mining Congress; Donald A. Callahan, of Northwest Mining Association; W. S. Bennett, of National Lumber Manufacturers Association; Louis C. Graton, of Cerro de Pasco Copper Corporation; John Cullen, of Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association; Harry J. Gerrity, of National Association of Building Owners and Managers; E. P. Thomas, of the National Foreign Trade Council.

Driverless Horse Obeys Red Lights

Wanders About Brooklyn for Three Hours.

Brooklyn, Dec. 20 (AP).—Evidently bored with the prosaic task of pulling a mail wagon, a grey horse threaded driverless for 16 blocks through heavy Brooklyn traffic today gazing at Christmas shop windows while police hunted it.

The search lasted three hours. Wandering Dobbin was found at East Third street and Avenue J, waiting for a red light to change.

The driver spread the alarm, but the animal, stopping and starting with the traffic lights, went unnoticed.

Buddhists See Heavens Mourn With Them for Dalai Lama

Peiping, China, Dec. 20 (U.P.).—Yellow-garbed monks conducted weird rites tonight in the dilapidated, colorful Lama Temple here in mourning for the Dalai Lama, who died mysteriously in Lhassa, his Tibetan capital, last Sunday.

An impressive scene was witnessed by a few of the faithful as the monks, in the ancient garb of their order, went through the rituals in the "true sacred replica" of Lhassa's mysterious Potala Palace, where the Dalai Lama died.

A natural phenomenon visible only in Asia accompanied their rites. The phenomenon occurred when a new moon successively eclipsed Venus and then Saturn, after which an unusual constellation was seen in the clear heavens, with the whisp of the moon and the reddened planets of Saturn and Venus in peculiarly close juxtaposition. The incident was regarded by the Lama religionists as an omen caused by the death of the Dalai Lama.

The high priests of the highest yellow sect of the Lama cult of Buddhism received advices from Lhassa that a successor to the Dalai Lama, the "thirteenth reincarnation of Buddha," had not yet been selected.

Civil Service Loss Declared Near for 1,600

Federal Employes' Head Urges Roosevelt to Protect Jobs.

Complaint against possible removal from Civil Service protection of 1,600 Veterans' Administration employes was voiced yesterday by E. Claude Babcock, president of the American- Federation of Government Employes in a letter to President Roosevelt.

Babcock said the jobs of more than 100 attorneys assigned to the Washington office were at stake, the other positions being in the field.

"This organization is receiving from various parts of the United States," Babcock wrote, "information that pressure is being used to bring about removal from the protection of the Civil Service act of all employes placed under the Civil Service act by the statute which consolidated the veterans' homes and the Veterans' Bureau under the Veterans' Administration.

Babcock declared he wished to "positively record the sincere feeling of the united employes of the country against any effort in the direction of placing more Government employes under the rigors and subject to the uncertainties of the patronage system." He added:

"The Government employes as a whole have been badly shaken, but they are loyal and desirous of perpetuating the efficiency of the Government service. They desire a strengthening rather than a weakening of the merit system."

U. S. Heads Big Bank's Owners

One Holder Demurs as Continental Illinois Sells Stock to RFC.

Chicago, Dec. 20 (AP).—The United States Government became the largest stockholder of the country's largest bank outside of New York City by action of stockholders of the Continental Illinois Bank & Trust Co. today in approving sale of virtually $50,000,000 in preferred stock to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

More than 605,000 shares were voted in favor of the proposal of the bank's directors to issue the preferred stock in line with the Government's request for increased capital for banks to aid the recovery program.

One shareholder held out against the proposition, and as a consequence the R. F. C. will be able to purchase all but $333.33 worth of the preferred issue. The one shareholder insisted on exercising his right to acquire that amount in preferred stock.

Asleep 2 Years, Girl to Have Gifts Of Sisterly Love

Chicago, Dec. 20 (AP).—Suburban Oak Park's sleeping beauty, Miss Patricia Maguire, 29, victim of a form of sleeping sickness for nearly two years, will have her Christmas tree even if she is unable to see it.

Patricia's sister today supervised installation of a large yule tree not far from the bed and already packages addressed "to Pat" nestled about it.

"Pat" will be all dressed up for Christmas, the sister said, and, for the first time since the strange malady struck her as she was homeward bound on an elevated train a year ago last February, she will have her picture taken.

Junior Fairbanks To Wed British Girl

"Won't Discuss It" Until Joan Crawford Divorce.

Los Angeles, Dec. 20 (AP).—The Los Angeles Times says the engagement of Douglas Fairbanks, jr., and Gertrude Lawrence, British stage actress, will be announced next May and they will be married shortly afterward.

Young Fairbanks would not deny this at a studio today, said the story, but asserted he was not in a position to discuss the matter until Joan Crawford's divorce from him becomes final May 14.

"I never would have left Miss Lawrence and England had it not been for the rich role in the picture I am now making," he was quoted as saying.

Swedish Motorship Fights Fire at Sea

Boston, Dec. 20 (AP).—The Swedish-American Line motorship Rydboholm, bound for Boston, is afire about 500 miles southwest of Scotland, according to a radio message received today by the vessel's local agents.

The Rydboholm, a fast freighter launched about a month ago, is carrying a general cargo and mail, but no passengers. She left Gothenburg December 13. The position given by her captain placed her 504 miles southwest of Rockall, a small island off Scotland.

The Rydboholm's master said the fire was confined to No. 1 hold, in a shipment of matches, but that the vessel was in no immediate danger.

President's Foes Center Fire On Plan to Keep R. F. C. Going in banks whose stocks had become exceptionally high priced.

However, the supposition was that the Senator had expressed himself with accustomed vigor on the larger meaning of such policy relative to banks, the budget, money, Federal influence in banks to whose stock the R.F.C. is subscribing, and the influence that would be expected if the R.F.C. is to move into the field of direct loans to industry.

The R. F. C. offers a natural target for the opposition fire against all of the movement toward wider extension of Federal authority over banking and business, as it does for the critics of the gold buying that continues daily through the R. F. C. The domestic gold price was left at $34.06 yesterday, but the buying goes on uninterruptedly.

Likewise the forces bent on holding down the budget lest its ultimate bulk undermine Government credit and invite resort to the "printing press," see the R. F. C. as a spending agency that can be lopped off quickly by refusal of Congress to pass the authorization needed to continue it after January 22. Time is short and a Senate fight on the R. F. C., even without recourse to filibuster, could readily kill it off. That would automatically end the present gold-buying mechanism, gratify Budget Director Douglas, for instance; release any R. F. C. grip on banks, prevent direct loans to industry through this medium, at least, and leave the R. F. C. to its ten-year period to liquidate and wind up its affairs.

Mills in Conference.

The Republicans who had a party parley were former Secretary of the Treasury Ogden Mills, who, with former Senator and former Ambassador to France Walter E. Edge, called on Senate Leader McNary, thees three then adjourning to Edge's home, where they were joined by Senators Reed, of Pennsylvania, and Walcott, of Connecticut, and former Senator and former Ambassador to Germany Frederick M. Sackett. Edge and Reed recently saw former President Hoover at Palo Alto. Word was brought back by them and by others that Mr. Hoover will not choose to run in 1936 and that he counsels the G. O. P. to silence unless it has something specific to say in the way of a program.

The six debated a program, the high lights of which would be "sound money," a balanced budget and what they jocosely call a reversion to Jeffersonian democracy—certainly a retreat from further Government controls through the RFC, NRA, AAA, or anything else. Everett Sanders, Republican National chairman, was conspicuously absent from the consultation. The consultants would like to suppiant him with Edge, who is willing to take the job, but not minded to get into a party row about it. Sanders says he means to stick.

Strong Front Likely.

Anyway, the consulting group will join with the Democratic conservatives to war on the RFC and offer a formidable Senate bloc against the amendment which the Administration must present promptly on the opening of Congress if the life of the agency is to go on. The presently abated storm over gold-buying and monetary policy generally is destined to break out anew at this point.

Rep. Byrns, Democratic leader of the House, expressed his full approval of the plans to extend the R. F. C., and said yesterday he also favored direct loans to industry, but would not venture to predict whether the authorization can be put through Congress.

Meanwhile the Administration continued to echo satisfaction with the monetary program and with signs of improving conditions in general, though the Labor Department's price index of 784 commodities dropped to 71.1 for November, as against 71.2 in October.

Morgenthau Claims Rise.

Secretary Morgenthau had cited, apropos of the gold buying results, that an index he had showed a rise of 5½ points on what apparantly were selected farm products, though the items have not been disclosed. At all odds, while the Labor Department's index showed a general downward trend, it also reflected a gain of 1½ points for farm commodities alone. And this gratifies the gold buying advocates, who are primarily desirous of bettering farm prices and of achieving the often proclaimed "parity" with industrial prices.

Political, as well as economic, ramifications involved in the issue of the R. F. C.'s continuance are too complex t owarrant conjecture on the outcome of the battle, but it is increasingly evident that this issue may prove to be the first great test of the President's ability to control Congress in the coming session as he did in the last one.

Warburg Hits Sen. Thomas' Inflation Plea

Financier Debates Issue With Oklahoman and Rainey in New York.

New York, Dec. 20 (AP).—Speaker Rainey, of the House of Representatives, advocated tonight a bimetallic standard without ratio for the United States as a means of restoring 1926 price levels.

Rainey spoke at a meeting of the Economic Club, at which James P. Warburg, financier, urged creation of a national banking system under control of uniformly operating banking authorities, and Senator Elmer Thomas, of Oklahoma, called for an increase in circulation of dollars with which "to transact the business of the country."

Rainey said tariff adjustments will "not be difficult" after establishment of a gold-silver standard. The revised standard, he said, will permit "us to assume a position we ought to assume in world trade."

Warburg Attacks Thomas Views.

Warburg, in his speech, stated the minimum capital requirements of banks should be raised from the "ridiculous" figure of $50,000 to $500,000, and called for modification of the banking guarantee plan and the securities act.

Warburg attacked Senator Thomas' inflationary views with the assertion that while the senator had been attacking Wall street bankers, he had been advised and counseled by a "Wall street international banker." Warburg did not explain his statement.

"I am for a modernized international gold standard," Warburg said, "as against any purely national currency scheme, and more particularly as against the present gold buying policy.

"It would seem to me in any case the present policy has already proved its futility from the point of view of its immediately practical purpose."

Budget Deficit Predicted.

What he proposes, Warburg said, lies "half-way between the two extremes of the present controversy—it is certainly nearer to the gold standard of the past than the committee of the nation's commodity dollar."

"Certainly the President wants sound money," he said. "But when probably three-quarters of the House and two-thirds of the Senate want some form of inflation, the President needs all the support he can get to stem the tide."

"The trouble is the scarcity of available money," Thomas said. "Because money is too scarce, the value of the dollar is too high."

Senator Thomas estimated Federal expenses under the 1934 budget in preparation at Washington will exceed $6,000,000,000 while the Federal income "may not exceed one-half that sum."

Church Is Assured Of Shooting Probe

Jury Will Sift Farmer's Death, His Pastor Told.

Cleveland, Dec. 20 (AP).—The pastor and congregation of Carl Meteling's church tonight were assured a thorough investigation of his death in Pepper Pike's "Lovers' Lane."

James P. Hart, assistant prosecutor, said that the January grand jury will question all persons involved in the fatal shooting of the 52-year-old truck farmer by Britton D. Young, 21, law student.

Young, who said he shot Meteling when the farmer approached an automobile in which the student was seated with Ruth K. Beiter, 21, and grabbed the pretty coed's ankle, was held to the jury under $1,000 bond yesterday.

Bailie Keeps Treasury Post Despite Couzens' Protests

Seligman Inquiry Forms Basis of Complaint by Senator.

(Associated Press.)

Earle Bailie's continuance as a keyman in Acting Secretary Morgenthau's Treasury organization served last night as the Administration's reply to protests of Senator Couzens (Republican), Michigan, against employment of the New York banker.

Couzens, member of the Senate Banking Committee, wrote both President Roosevelt and Morgenthau reasons why he believed Bailie should not be in the Treasury. His representations were understood to be based on findings in the committee's investigation of J. & W. Seligman & Co.

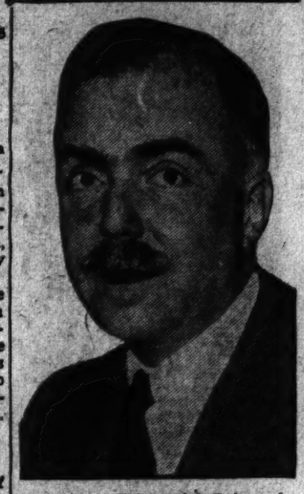
Former Firm Member.

Bailie formerly was a member of this investment banking firm. He was brought to the Treasury three weeks ago as special assistant to Morgenthau in fiscal affairs, and as his first big job directed the $1,000,000,000 December financing operations.

Neither Couzens, the White House nor Morgenthau would comment on the correspondence. But it was reported at the Treasury that Bailie would continue in his post, at least for the present.

Bailie came to the Treasury on a temporary basis. This was said not to have changed. He still was staying on "from month to month."

Bailie was represented as enjoying Morgenthau's confidence, both personally and in his ability as a financial expert. The Treasury head himself has told newspapermen he was pleased with results of the December financing.



Underwood & Underwood.

EARLE BAILIE.

Rumors Are Ended.

Bailie's temporary status, when coupled with disclosure of Couzens' opposition, apparently ended rumors he would receive a Presidential appointment as Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, a post that would need Senate confirmation.

Shortly after Bailie's arrival, Thomas Hewes, former Assistant Secretary who directed fiscal affairs, resigned. This gave rise to reports Bailie would get the job. Last night this was considered unlikely.

State Trooper Slain as Trap Shuts on Felon

Prison Fugitive Caught But Police Weapon Kills Officer.

Paris, Ill., Dec. 20 (AP).—Edward Shouse, one of the ten prisoners who escaped September 26 from the Michigan City, Ind., Penitentiary, was captured here today, but at the cost of the life of an Indiana State policeman.

The patrolman, Eugene Teague, fell with a bullet in his head when he made an impetuous rush to capture the convict.

Capt. Matt Leach, of the State police, said it had been determined that the bullet came from the gun of a brother officer, Lieut. Chester Butler.

Information had been received that Shouse, who has been linked with the notorious Dillinger gang, would be in this city today, and 20 officers, including Indiana State police, deputy sheriffs and Paris police were awaiting him.

Aware that two peace officers, Detective Sergt. William Shanley, of Chicago and Sheriff Jess Sarber of Lima, Ohio, had been killed by desperadoes identified as members of the Dillinger gang, police opened fire as Shouse brought his automobile to a stop in front of a hotel.

Shouse cowered behind the wheel and surrendered when Albert Steep, Paris policeman, poked the muzzle of a revolver against his body. His .45-caliber pistol still was in his pocket.

Two women accompanying Shouse also were captured. They gave their names as Mrs. Frances Colen, 28, of Fort Wayne, and Ruth Spencer, 24, of San Diego.

Lieut. Butler was in a state of nervous collapse following the shooting of Teague.

Teague was 24 years old and unmarried.

5 Men Held in Theft Of D. C. Woman's Car

Charged with stealing an automobile at the Bowie race track November 21, five colored men were held for action of the Prince Georges County grand jury following their arraignment yesterday in the county police court at Hyattsville.

They are alleged to have stolen a car belonging to Mrs. Aleda E. Oden, of 1149 Fourth street northeast. They gave their names as Solomon McNair, James McNair, Clarence Trusty, James Stevens and Harry Lowson.

Film Actress Seeks Divorce From Keith

Los Angeles Dec. 20 (AP).—Alleging desertion, Mrs. Fern Ross, known on the screen as Baroness Fern Andra von Weicks, filed suit for separate maintenance today against McCauley Ross, better known on the screen as Ian Keith.

She alleged that Keith left her on November 23. She asked for a reasonable sum for her support, court costs and attorney's fees, saying Keith earned about $20,000 a year. Keith formerly was married to Ethel Clayton, film actress.

Reichstag Fire Laid to Nazis By Legal Lights

Confessed Hollander Must Have Had Help, Says Commission.

London, Dec. 20 (AP).—The conviction that Nazi "subscribers," either directly or through the hands of others, touched off the fire in the German Parliament building last winter was expressed today in the final report of an unofficial "legal commission" of inquiry which investigated the blaze.

In a ringing declaration presented at Caxton Hall, the commission of international attorneys did not mince words in saying Hitlerites were connected with the arson and that Marinus van der Lubbe, a young Dutch brickmason, who confessed the incendiarism, must have had help.

Five men, including Van Der Lubbe, three Bulgarians, and Ernst Torgler, former Communist whip in the German house of representatives, will be sentenced in Liepzig next Saturday after a long trial in which they were called Communists and were charged with arson and treason. The death penalty was asked for Torgler and Van Der Lubbe.

The commission conducted its study shortly before the trial last fall. It reassembled for a further investigation of details brought out in the Leipzig hearings.

Any exaction of the death sentence for Torgler was described in the report as "judicial murder."

Samuel Insull's Son Charged With Larceny

Six Others Also Accused of Looting Indiana Utilities Company.

Crown Point, Ind., Dec. 20 (AP). Warrants charging Samuel Insull, jr., and six others with conspiracy to commit a felony and embezzlement and larceny from the $100,000,000 Northern Indiana Public Service Co. were in the possession of deputy sheriffs for service tonight.

Indictments against the seven charged, in effect, that they looted the formerly Insull-controlled utility in order to bolster the finances of certain financing and holding companies in the Insull system.

Judge William J. Murray, of Lake County Criminal Court, had custody of the indictments and, under Indiana law, they will not be made public until all the defendants have been apprehended. Authorities did not disclose the amounts of the alleged peculations.

Chicagoans Named.

Those named in addition to young Insull, former chairman of the board of the company, are:

John H. Gulick, of South Chicago, former director of the company.

Edward W. Lloyd, of Chicago, former director.

Morse Dell Plain, of Hammond, Ind., president and director.

Charles W. Chase, of Chicago, former director and vice president of the utility and now general manager of the Indianapolis Street Railway Co.

Bernard P. Shearon, vice president and director.

Thomas G. Hamilton, former director and now general manager of the Gary, Ind., Street Railway Co.

Will Set High Bond.

Judge Murray said he would set bond at $18,000 for each of the defendants. Attorney Fred Crumpacker, counsel for the company, said all the defendants would surrender by tomorrow. He said none of the Chicagoans would oppose extradition.

Dell Plain said the charges were part of a plot instituted on behalf of Howard Duncan, former treasurer of the company, who has admitted embezzling $132,000 from it. He is awaiting sentence.

Optimists Swell The Post's Toy Collection And Cash Gifts Push Fund Nearer Goal

Post Staff Photos.

Pupils of the fifth grade at Emery School (upper) with their toy collection for needy children on Christmas. The toys, gifts of another year, were brought to school and painted. The toys will be given to The Post Toy and Doll Fund, together with those of the New England States Society (below). Shown in the lower photo with the society's contributions are Miss Betty Durr and Elmer T. Field.

Club Makes One Present Price of Admission to Luncheon.

A big pile of toys came to The Post Toy and Doll Fund yesterday, the result of a collection at the weekly meeting of the Washington Optimist Club at the Hamilton Hotel. Each member and guest brought a toy in order to attend the luncheon meeting.

After the Optimists had received the thanks of the toy fund committee, in came a half-dozen boys and girls of the fifth grade of the Emery School, Miss M. L. Macina, teacher, loaded down with toys renovated and repainted by the class for the fund.

$1,000 Goal Nearer.

The Post Toy Fund made fine strides toward the $1,000 goal yesterday when $47.32 was received during the day, pushing the fund up to $647.32. There remains $352.68 to be collected by Saturday noon.

Judging from the appeals made to the fund, $1,000 and 3,000 more toys will meet the demand. Gifts of money, large or small, will be received most gratefully. Money gifts may be sent to The Washington Post, and toys can be left at Fund headquarters in the Washington building, Fifteenth street and New York avenue northwest, or at The Washington Post building.

Ding-How of Hydegree, mascot of The Junior Post, is making a last-minute drive among his pet friends to bring in their quota of the $352.68 needed.

Two Pets Contribute.

Yesterday the tiny Pekinese reported, among other gifts, $1, in memory of "Woof Woof," from Ron, who signed himself simply "A Dog," came a shining 50-cent piece.

Some of the visitors at toy headquarters are very young, indeed. One, 3 years old, set down his thoughts on his visit via the pen of his older sister, and this is what he wrote to the Santa Claus Lady: "Dear Santa Claus Lady:

"I visited your toy department in the Washington Building today and was very courteously received by a most general, motherly lady, who treated me very kindly and allowed me to look at the toys. She told me to write to you and that you would remember me on Christmas. I have a sister 12 years old who would like a big doll. I am 3 years old. Would like a teddy bear, automobile and a jack-in-the-box. Also some blocks, so I can learn my A B C's.

"Will look for you to come down the chimney Christmas Eve, and wish you good luck and a merry, merry Christmas.

"LITTLE DAVID."

Little David will not be disappointed.

End to Chaco Strife Is Hailed By Roosevelt

2 Nations Plan to Sgin Pact Before Montevideo Conference Closes.

(United Press.)

President Roosevelt and Acting Secretary of State Phillips yesterday voiced gratification at the conclusion of a ten-day truce between Paraguay and Bolivia. Phillips hailed the armistice as a happy event during the life of the Pan-American Conference at Montevideo.

This rejoicing was reflected throughout Administration circles following receipt of a cable from Secretary of State Hull, chief of the American Delegation at Montevideo, advising the Government that the conference anticipated both Paraguay and Bolivia would sign a treaty of conciliation and arbitration before the parley adjourns.

Phillips said the American delegation was particularly happy inasmuch as Hull and other members had labored indefatigably to bring about this result. He spoke highly of similar efforts put forth at Montevideo by other delegations.

State Department officials declined to enlarge upon the speech made by Hull before the conference enunciating the United States' policy of nonintervention in affairs of other nations.

Officials said the Secretary had simply reiterated the stand taken by President Roosevelt in a number of public utterances.

Paraguayan Minister Bordenave, explaining the cessation of hostilities, said the truce gave time to representatives to proceed to Montevideo to discuss terms for a permanent armistice, and to negotiate an agreement to submit the Chaco dispute to arbitration.

Chaco Truce Upset Is Feared

Four Bolivian Forts Are Taken by Paraguay.

Montevideo, Uruguay, Dec. 20 (AP). Confirmation of news that four Bolivian forts in the Chaco Boreal had been captured by Paraguayans within a few hours of the 11-day armistice caused a sensation in the Pan-American Conference.

Fear that a Bolivian protest against the capture on the eve of the truce might be injected into the conference caused a postponement of the plenary session until tomorrow.

The forts captured were Munoz, Sorpresa, Chanar and Corrales. Munoz was one of the most important Bolivian strongholds.

With the arrival of the news this afternoon Bolivian representatives sought confirmation by telephoning La Paz, meanwhile stating they believed the action, if true, was a "moral violation" of the truce, even if it were effected prior to midnight Tuesday when the armistice went into effect.

He'll Live, Thanks to First Lady

Still wondering what it is all about, this dog was saved yesterday from probable execution when her master claimed her at the Animal Rescue League. After following Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt some distance the other day, the First Lady helped put her in a policeman's sidecar for removal to the league. William Page, colored, 824 Twenty-fourth street northwest, showed up yesterday to claim his strayed pet and express his gratitude for Mrs. Roosevelt's act.

Loveless Love

Jennie and Husband Part, Disproving Their Name.

Chicago, Dec. 20 (AP).—The Loves weren't a bit that way today, and their drawn-out domestic tangle finally was straightened with a divorce.

Mrs. Jennie Love, of Chicago and New York, who operated a string of beauty parlors with her husband, was given a divorce and the judge dismissed the husband's cross bill, which demanded alimony. The judge decided an equitable division of the beauty shops already had been made.

Since the Loves met and married in Paris in 1914, one or the other has filed for divorce, twice in Paris, three times in New York and three times here.

Pecora Studies Executive's Pay

Montgomery, Ward Holder Cites Big Stock Option Given President.

An aggreived stockholder of Montgomery, Ward & Co., of Chicago, has written Chairman Fletcher, of the Senate Banking Committee, asking for a legal opinion as to whether Sewell L. Avery, president of the mail order house, could be prevented from exercising an option on 100,000 shares of common stock at $11 a share, it was learned yesterday.

Senator Fletcher turned the letter over to the committee counsel, Ferdinand Pecora.

Charles H. Macdonald, the writer, said directors had granted Avery the option as a consideration for taking the job of president. In addition they supplied him with a limousine and chauffeur at the stockholders' expense, he said, despite the fact that the company was in the red for $15,000,000 in 1931 and 1932.

"Many of the stockholders are employes or former employes," Macdonald wrote, "who bought the stock at very high prices."

The common stock was sold to employes, he related, at 107. Although its high was 440 in 1928, he complained, its low was 3½ in 1932 and the current price on the New York Stock Exchange is 22¼.

Alexandria School Closes.

St. Agnes Episcopal School, Alexandria, closed for the holidays yesterday with a play in the Maury School Auditorium, "The Holy Night." Pupils of the upper grades participated. Exercises were held in the lower grades during the morning.

Britain Cloaked By Record Fog

Shipping Is Hampered, Air Line Traffic Paralyzed.

London, Dec. 20 (AP).—England and Wales were in the grip tonight of a fog that was called the most dense within memory.

Traffic in the midlands and northward was brought to a virtual standstill, while at Hull inspectors walked ahead of street cars and warned other traffic.

Reports from Antwerp said river navigation had ceased because of the fog.

Three persons were reported killed in collisions. In Manchester occurred street accidents in which more than a score were hurt.

Shipping was seriously hampered at Liverpool and along the English Channel, where two steamers struck rocks. One of them was later disengaged.

Air traffic was paralyzed.

U. S. Chamber Aid Pledged President

Skinner Says Criticism to Be Constructive.

Atlanta, Dec. 20 (AP).—President Roosevelt has been given and will be given the full support of the United States Chamber of Commerce, D. A. Skinner, secretary, said here today. He was en route to Washington from the West Coast.

"At the same time," Skinner said, "the National chamber stands ready to make available to the President friendly and constructive criticism on any matter having to do with the recovery program affecting business conditions, as in that way only can the National chamber discharge its responsibilities to its membership and comply in a constructive way to the invitation of the President and the Administration.

"President Roosevelt has invited friendly and constructive criticism of any phase of the recovery program."

Aviator's Widow Gets $12,000 State Award

Jefferson City, Mo., Dec. 20 (AP). A $12,000 award to Mrs. Selma J. Jackson, widow of Dale (Red) Jackson, stunt flyer, who was killed January 6, 1932, in an air meet at Miami, Fla., was affirmed today by the Missouri Supreme Court. The St. Louis Circuit Court had approved the award by the Missouri Workmen's Compensation Commission.

Jackson was coholder of the world's refueling endurance flight record.

Bolivian Leaders Quit War Zone During Truce

La Paz, Bolivia, Dec. 20 (U.P.).—Bolivian leaders returned today from the Gran Chaco war zone after the ten-day armistice with Paraguay became effective last midnight.

Minister of Defense Benavides, Minister of War Quiroga, and Gen. Lanza, chief of staff, returned. Gen. Hans Kundt, German military expert, relieved as commander in chief last week, is in retirement at Santa Cruz.

Direction of the Civil Works Administration's program of airport construction has been undertaken by John S. Wynne, former manager of Washington Airport, it was announced yesterday.

The program, which calls for expenditure of civil works funds for developing municipal airports all over the Nation, was instituted by the aeronautics branch of the Department of Commerce.

Wynne will superintend selection of sites and construction work. His technical aids include five residents of Washington. They are:

Adverse Ruling Given On Dry Law Penalties

St. Louis, Dec. 20 (AP).—Persons awaiting trial on charges of violating liquor laws or having appeals pending, were not automatically freed by repeal of the eighteenth amendment, Federal Judge C. B. Faris held today.

He ordered the forfeiture of a $1,000 bond given by John Melton, charged with possession of whisky. Melton did not appear to answer the charge.

House Chiefs Plan To Junk 'Gag' Rule

hinge Congressional strategy of both parties.

Certainly no Republican pronouncement from Capitol Hill is expected before that date. No meeting of the House Democratic steering committee has been called or will be called before Congress convenes.

The House program, as tentatively announced by Leader Byrns and Speaker Rainey, calls for prompt consideration of the Administration's liquor tax bill the first week of Congress. The House Ways and Means Committee hopes to reach some decision on the measure tomorrow or Saturday.

District Rum Laws Set.

The second day of the new session, the Speaker already has allotted to the House District Committee for consideration of a local liquor control measure.

The remainder of the session, according to Democratic leaders, will be given over to the 11 departmental appropriation bills, general revenue legislation involving tightening of income tax loopholes, whatever additional sums the Administration may request for recovery purposes, and possibly some changes in the securities act.

Although Speaker Rainey has predicted silver legislation, the President has given no intimation of Administration recommendations on this score. Extensive floor debate on the President's monetary policies, however, is regarded by members as inevitable, with so-called "sound money" members doing most of the talking.

"Keeping Eyes Open."

While Democratic leadership obviously will welcome any "cooperative" gestures Republicans might proffer, they are not banking too heavily on minority support.

"We are not keeping our eyes shut," Representative Byrns said last night, adding: "And I don't mean that as a reflection on the good faith of anybody who has said he is willing to cooperate."

As to laying aside the drastic gag rules employed last session, Representative Byrns said it may be necessary to bring out a special rule in exceptional instances, but on the whole this procedure will be scrapped in favor of normal legislative methods.

Unprecedented rules, cutting off debate and amendments, drew sharp criticism from Democrats and Republicans alike last session.

Courtney's Sea Injury Treated

New York, Dec. 20 (AP).—An adventure that carried him to the bottom of the North Sea in search of gold has put Charles Courtney, master locksmith, in a hospital for a serious operation.

The surgery was to reduce injuries from which Courtney has suffered since his return, and which he attributed to the experience of having been imprisoned at the bottom of the sea nearly an hour.

The adventure was the second he had had in Europe within a year. The first was when he furnished instructions that enabled divers to open safes aboard the sunken liner Egypt and recover several million dollars in gold.

Sailed in Mystery.

When he sailed on the second trip last April, Courtney was in vigorous health. Mystery surrounded his departure, and the fact that he had gone did not become known until after he was well out to sea.

Five weeks later he returned, his left hand in a plaster cast, a long scar on his left side at the waist, and his dark hair several shades lighter.

He reported the expedition of which he was a member had recovered £15,000 in gold sovereigns from H. M. S. Hampshire, the British warship which carried Lord Kitchener to his death in the World War.

Caught by Current.

On another trip to the bottom, he said, he and the two others were caught in a powerful current and pinioned against the side of the wreck for nearly an hour. Courtney said his side was pressed against a jagged piece of steel.

Since his return, he was advised by cable that one of the men caught with him died in a German hospital.

Courtney said he had suffered abnominal pains and an X-ray disclosed three ruptures.

He was taken to a hospital and the next day the operation was performed. Skin from one of his legs was grafted into the three incisions. His condition is good.

Yeggmen Get $150 in Safe

Store Thieves Operate in Full View of Passersby.

Working deliberately in a glass-encased office, in view of passersby, robbers opened the safe of the Firestone Service Stores, Inc., Third and B streets southwest, early yesterday and stole $150.

The thieves used chisels and hammers belonging to the company to force the strong box. When William Norris, manager, opened the office yesterday, he found tools scattered about. The robbers scattered stamps and papers as they rifled the safe, but took only money.

Robbers who pried iron bars from a back window obtained women's clothing valued at $231 from the shop of Alma Black, 1015 U street northwest, early yesterday, she reported to police.

Miss Freeman was one of the founders of the New York Theater Guild.

Wife Must Pay $50,000 On Love Balm Verdict

Freehold, N. J., Dec. 20 (AP).—Mrs. Martina Davis Dole, wife of Arthur A. Dole, of California, has been ordered to pay $50,000 to Mrs. Isabelle Dole, of Cambridge, Mass., for alienation of Dole's affections.

A jury in the court of Circuit Judge Rulif A. Lawrence returned the verdict yesterday in favor of Dole's first wife. The action was brought into court here last November while Dole, an advertising executive, was living temporarily in Rumson.

Cheap Electrical Appliances Sought by U. S. Experiment

Tennessee Valley Official to Confer in New York With Power Men.

(Associated Press.)

Ready to meet with manufacturers to work out a low price list for electrical appliances to be sold as part of the Government's "yardstick" power program in the Tennessee Valley, David E. Lilienthal left for New York yesterday.

The power director of the Tennessee Valley Authority, governing body of the new Electric Home and Farm Authority, will hold conferences the remainder of the week with a committee representing the National Electric Manufacturers Association.

Before leaving, Lilienthal said:

"The home or the farm of the family of modest income has never had the benefit of a general use of electricity in the Tennessee Valley, although there are vast sources of power available.

"Two barriers have prevented—prohibitive rates for energy and the high cost of electric appliances. Electric Home and Farm Authority plans to remove those barriers in the Tennessee Valley.

"The consuming public has been suffering from an impasse which the electric industry has been unable, or has lacked the leadership, to break. The prevailing high rates for electricity have stood in the way of a more general use of appliances. In turn, the high cost of appliances has prevented a greater use of electricity, which would mean lower rates.

"In this situation Government leadership is essential."

President Roosevelt created the Electric Home and Farm Authority yesterday to finance and stimulate the sale of electrical appliances at low cost.

3 Die in Crash; Driver 7 Hours Under Wreck

Raleigh, N. C., Dec. 20 (AP).—Three young men were killed and a fourth is expected to die from injuries and exposure suffered as he lay seven hours under their wrecked automobile 20 miles north of here early today.

Herman Potts, youthful driver of the car, was pinned under it from midnight until daylight.

Death Takes One In Marital Swap

Woman Who Traded Mate With Another Dies.

Minot, N. D.ak., Dec. 20 (AP).—Death today took one party to a strange domestic exchange, in which two farm women traded husbands in a double divorce and marriage.

Mrs. Willis Knight, 32, died in a local hospital of a heart ailment.

Nearly four years ago, on January 29, 1929, Mrs. Knight and Mrs. Lawrence Rikansrud were granted simultaneous divorces here, each testifying for the other.

Reich Launches Sterilization Of Hereditary Defectives Jan. 1

Berlin, Dec. 20 (AP).—Final preparations were under way today for executing one of the most significant features of Chancellor Hitler's program to make Germany physically "fit"—sterilization of persons suffering incurable diseases.

On January 1, 1,700 "eugenic courts" will begin functioning. These will pass judgment on at least 400,000 men and women considered "hereditary defectives."

The sterilization operations will be performed under court orders, after a system of checks, from which there will be no appeal.

Nine classes of congenital diseases are specified and the law is applicable to feeble-mindedness, insanity, blindness, deafness, and serious physical deformities.

The Drama of the Lama.

The death of the Dalai Lama at Lhasa, the "forbidden city," has more significance than the passing of a rugged and picturesque figure in the capital of distant Tibet. It may, in fact, add serious complications to the delicate Far Eastern situation. Russia, China, Japan and Great Britain are all concerned.

Believed by his subjects, 3,000,000 nomads, to be Buddha's personal representative on earth, the Dalai Lama is also the temporal head of the Tibetan government. His colleague, the Panchen Lama, believed to be the reincarnation of Buddha, is theoretically the spiritual leader of the Lama Buddhists, not only in Tibet, but also in Mongolia, Siberia, northern India and in China.

Under custom instituted in the sixteenth century, the Lamas are chosen by the monks of the three chief monasteries of Lhasa, by an elaborate method which presupposes divine guidance in their task. When a Lama dies, the monks have all new-born babies brought to them. The infants are observed for certain characteristics and final selection is made from a choice group, not necessarily on eugenic principles.

The fact that the late Dalai Lama was not chosen in the ordinary way, but rather by the "revelation" of Buddha's will to the chief monk of a Lhasa monastery, provoked a holy war—if any war can merit that adjective—in 1924. Renewal of this war is now in the background. The situation is complicated by the conflicting commercial and political interests of Japan and Great Britain, particularly.

Although Tibet is nominally a part of China, and until the downfall of the Manchu dynasty in 1911, was under the "supervision" of a resident representative, it has been counted in the British "sphere of influence." An expedition under Col. Younghusband opened up the country by fighting its way to the "forbidden city" in 1904. Ever since, Britain has regarded Tibet as a buffer between the frontier provinces of India and Russia. Undoubtedly, the Dalai Lama received if not active, at least advisory, aid from the British.

Nine years ago, the Dalai Lama felt himself powerful enough to drive out his colleague, the Panchen Lama, who went into exile at Peiping. He has never ceased to hope for a return to power, and, according to reports, has been backed by the Chinese and by the Buddhist princes of Inner Mongolia, who have recently declared that territory independent of China. Those princes are reputedly under the influence of Japan and according to reports, desire to seize power for the Panchen Lama.

With the Far Eastern situation precarious at best, it is clear that something more than average human wisdom was never more desirable than in the choice of the successor to the late incumbent at Lhasa.

Germany's Turn to Decree.

The President of the Reichsbank has decreed that during the six months beginning January first Germany will transfer only 30 per cent of the amounts due on foreign private debt account. The remainder of the payments will be made in scrip, which will probably be received by the Gold Discount Bank at 50 per cent of its face value.

Representatives of foreign creditor groups maintain that the German export balance would permit continuation of the present 50 per cent rate of transfer. Indeed, some creditors were still demanding 100 per cent transfers not long ago.

But Dr. Schacht says that the recent improvement in the export balance is not a proper test of Germany's capacity to pay. In the first place, exports have been forced by utilizing "blocked" marks, to cover part of the amounts due exporters. This system permits reductions to be made in export prices quoted in terms of gold marks and helps Germany to overcome the effects of currency depreciation abroad. Furthermore, exports have been paid for in part by offsetting purchases of German foreign bonds held by foreigners. As a result, the export excess is not represented by an equivalent amount of foreign credits available to meet other external charges.

These explanations do not soothe Germany's creditors. They allege that exports are stimulated at their expense, when "blocked" marks sold at a discount are used to enable German sellers to compete more effectively in foreign markets. They also complain that repurchases of German bonds deprive the Reichsbank of foreign exchange which might be used to increase transfers for debt account. They note, too, that depreciation of foreign currencies has reduced the burden of the external German debt.

To all of these arguments Dr. Schacht has a ready reply, and there is no way of determining the rights of the matter in the absence of definite information concerning various pertinent facts. Whatever the rights or wrongs of the controversy, the Reichsbank president apparently has said the final word. The days when Germany wooed her creditors, and the creditors issued stern ultimata, are distant memories now.

Budgetary Shoals.

In a recent address Mr. Lewis Douglas outlined his plans for bringing the budget into balance during the coming fiscal year. His estimates were based upon the assumption that the R. F. C. would complete its work this year and that no new emergency obligations would be contracted. Otherwise, he said, "the middle class must willingly carry the burden of saving itself from destruction" (in other words pay higher taxes), "for continuous and prolonged budgetary inflation means its destruction."

The warning of Mr. Douglas seems to have fallen on deaf ears if it is true, as reported, that Congress will be asked to appropriate an additional sum of approximately $2,500,000,000 to carry on operations of the R. F. C., and of the public works, civil works and relief administrations. The voting of an outlay of such size will destroy all hope of an honestly balanced budget, defined by Mr. Douglas as a budget which does not necessitate an increase in the public debt.

The country is already committed to a spending program that will add about $4,000,000,000 to the public debt during the present fiscal year. During the past fiscal year the debt increased about $3,000,000,000 and if Congress should consent to add another $3,500,000,000 to the total of uncovered outlays, the net increase in the debt, actual and in prospect since July 1, 1932, would exceed $10,000,000,000.

Part of the emergency debt that is now being contracted is self-sustaining but most of the expenditures on public works and relief are irrecoverable. Moreover, an unknown percentage of the supposedly recoverable advances will have to be written off eventually as a dead loss. The result is that we are adding rapidly to the volume of debt charges which will have to be met out of the proceeds of taxes.

As the National Economy League says, "excessive National debt leads by a gradual and inevitable process toward the printing of fiat money." With a continuance of deficit financing that outcome is inevitable for two reasons: first, because investment confidence is destroyed by mounting deficits, and secondly, because the cost of the borrowing eventually becomes too great for the taxpayer to bear. During 1934-35, it is estimated that interest and sinking fund charges on the debt will amount to $1,300,000,000, even if no new indebtedness is authorized.

At present the Government has a virtual monopoly of the market for new capital issues, and Chairman Jones of the R. F. C. thinks it will be necessary to make additional large loans to railroads and capital goods industries. There has also been talk of making direct loans to industry to finance pay rolls and the R. F. C. actually has undertaken to finance consumer purchasing of electrical equipment. The evidence strongly indicates, therefore, that the Government is preparing to expand its emergency borrowing program instead of gradually withdrawing from the field, as the Director of the Budget urges.

A mere demonstration of the dangers of overborrowing will not have much effect so long as the market for private investment issues remains in a state approaching complete paralysis. Under such conditions the pressure to expand the borrowing and spending program of the Government is too seductive. The remedy would seem to lie in Government action to remove the existing monetary uncertainty and to eliminate any demonstrably undesirable obstacles to new financing. When that is done, private investment funds will be forthcoming to supply the buying demand needed to revive the capital goods industries, and thereby give employment to labor.

To obtain a balanced budget, a government must not only resolve to stop borrowing, it must also pursue policies which enable private financial agencies to function normally.

Not Merely Negative.

Secretary Hull's promise to the Pan-American Conference that "no government need fear intervention on the part of the United States under the Roosevelt administration," is tangible evidence of that "true good will of the true good neighbor" of which he had spoken four days previously at Montevideo.

Undoubtedly this formal confirmation of a policy for some years in the making will meet with the greatest enthusiasm among our Latin-American neighbors. They have not been at pains to hide their resentment at our "protectorate" over, rather than our brotherhood in, the community of American nations. We do not abandon the guarantee of their territorial integrity which is embodied in the Monroe Doctrine. Indeed, we still stand as a powerful guarantee of their sovereignty. What we promise is that we shall not arrogate to ourselves the right to violate that sovereignty through intervention in the domestic affairs of neighboring republics.

Nor does the Hull declaration mean that henceforth we take a merely negative attitude toward Latin-American affairs. As the Secretary of State said in an earlier speech to the conference, "We share in common the things that are vital to the entire material, moral and spiritual welfare of the people of this hemisphere * * * the satisfactory development of civilization itself in the Western World depends on cooperative efforts by all the Americas."

Feeling that way, we can not be indifferent to the international problems of our neighbors. In cooperation with the League of Nations, through the Pan-American Conference and by spontaneous action we can always find ways to be helpful to them in straightening out their difficulties—not as an overlord, but as a fellow member of the World Community.

Yapping?

Protests against the C. W. A. wage policy deserve more serious consideration than Harry L. Hopkins, administrator, seems inclined to give them. Gov. Talmadge of Georgia fears that "if the scale of wages paid by the C. W. A. and the emergency relief work on roads continues the same as it is now, the farmers, little saw mills and practically all other lines of private business in Georgia will be up against it for labor next spring." Such criticism can not be disposed of by definition as "yapping."

Gov. Talmadge's complaint is similar to that of Dr. James Harvey Rogers, one of the President's advisers on monetary policy. The C. W. A., said Prof. Rogers, is "pulling labor from local industries that were running along." The professor believes that the result will be to increase unemployment faster than Federal agencies can relieve it.

Certainly, these complaints are worthy of immediate and serious attention. The C. W. A. began to employ men at prevailing wages in their respective trades on November 16. A considerable number of the 4,000,000 persons now on the Government's relief pay roll were hired before November 30. Yet preliminary reports indicate a gain of 8 per cent last month in the number of cases receiving direct aid from the Government. Even if we make allowance for the seasonal rise in relief needs, this showing is sufficient to raise the question as to whether the C. W. A. is drawing men away from other jobs in addition to creating new employment.

Oyster Pirates.

All grown-up children who cherish a half-ashamed love for tales of piracy and buccaneering, for treasure islands, the black flag and scuttled ships, have found the so-called oyster war down the Potomac intensely interesting. Accounts of the hand-to-hand struggles and dramatic races across the river between deputy sheriffs and oyster "pirates" are reminiscent of the Caribbean at its best—or worst.

The oyster, though cooling to the epicurean palate, has paradoxically been one of Maryland's "hot spots" for some time past. Sharp differences of opinion as to the best methods for reclaiming the delicacies of the Potomac brought verbal clashes in the recent session of the Legislature at Annapolis. Existing conservation laws were unchanged, and some fishermen seem to have taken this as indication that no conservation laws would be enforced.

Maryland officialdom has now decided no longer to tolerate this menace to one of the State's most famous products. Swepson Earle, head of the State Conservation Commission, promises a shake-up of its law-enforcement department. Illegal dredgers and trespassers may expect to have short shrift in future, even if the aroused citizenry of Charles County has had to give a lead to the somewhat indifferent State authorities in this matter.

In other words, this revival of piracy in the picturesque reaches of lower Potomac promises to be as short-lived as it is romantic. After all, brevity and romance are often synonymous.

On Killing a Goose.

The proposal for a Federal liquor corporation, to have a monopoly of distilled spirits, is said to have originated with Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Rexford G. Tugwell. Its proponents argued that it was the logical method of collecting taxes and circumventing profiteering by liquor dealers. It was contended that distillers would use the return of legalized liquor as the opportunity to make a "clean-up" and that their effort would defeat the primary purpose of repeal, which was to eliminate the bootlegger, racketeer and rum smuggler and other evil elements spawned by prohibition.

The Post opposed the suggestion and opposes it now. Nevertheless, much point has been given to the Tugwell argument by the prices currently being charged for inferior liquor. According to figures made public by Dr. James M. Doran, supervisor of the distilled spirits code authority, and in that capacity joint representative of the Government and industry, apparent profits of from 70 to 160 per cent are being made. It is fair, of course, to discount the enormity of the spread by taking into consideration the many intermediary costs between producer and consumer in the liquor business, including a variety of licenses and taxes. But even when that is done, there appears to be no justification for the vast difference between production and consumer costs.

A good way to kill their own goose and to get the sort of regulation they do not want, or even to lose their business to a Government monopoly, is for liquor manufacturers and dealers to profiteer.

The Post welcomes letters from its readers. All communications should be signed with the writer's name. Upon publication initials or pen names will be used if requested. Letters should be limited to 300 words.

The World, Says Mr. Dwyer, Must Come to "Bryan and Bimetallism."

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Anent the editorial in The Post the other day on Walter Lippmann's article in the New York Herald Tribune entitled "On Being Fair to Ourselves:" Several months ago when Mr. Lippmann was in the office of the Herald Tribune in this city I met him when he was on his way to the White House to keep an appointment. Before I had an opportunity of introducing myself he said: "I know you, Mr. Dwyer, and we have got to come to you on bimetallism. The only question is the ratio."

I might add that George L. Harrison, of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, when he appeared before the Senate Banking Committee said to me when I laid the cause of the world-wide depression to the demonetization of silver and the iniquitous banking and currency system, "You are more than 75 per cent right."

Since the Bryan campaign of 1896 Walter Lippmann, then with the defunct New York World and more recently with the New York Herald Tribune, has aroused the ire of the writer with his cryptic phraseology in defense of the fetish called the gold standard—rather bank credit and usury—and it was not until today that he unmasked his true feelings in his article, "On Being Fair to Ourselves," when he takes issue with Mr. Sprague and shows beyond a doubt that it was the Labor Party of Great Britain which forced that country off gold.

That was more than fifteen months ago when it depreciated the pound sterling and since that time the United States, which owned, and still owns, a large share of the world monetary gold, saw the banking currency system of the country collapse and its export trade vanish to practically nothing, throwing millions of men out of employment with their purchasing power destroyed.

Mr. Lippmann very properly says: "Now it is perfectly true that Britain was forced off the gold standard. But what forced her off? It was not, as is usually said, her foreign creditors. It was the British working class which would not submit to a reduction in wages."

Right, Mr. Lippmann, and it was the same class, plus an iniquitous banking and currency system, which forced the United States off the gold standard.

Now, Mr. Lippmann, since you admit the fallacy of gold monometallism which has been scrapped for all time, isn't it patently evident that the United States must come to Bryan and bimetallism? I know what your answer is, but will the ratio between gold and silver be 16-to-1 or 20-to-1? That would be a pertinent subject to discuss, and since the world is practically off the gold standard it must come to save itself from bankruptcy to Bryan and bimetallism.

WILLIAM J. DWYER.

He Argues That Citizens Must Protect Themselves.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In answer to Mr. Ulmer, I feel Gov. Rolph, in his statement, assured the people of the United States that he, as many others of high political influence, did not believe the courts of our country in the past enforced punishment severe enough to discourage such crimes as were lately recorded in California.

Mr. Ulmer insinuated that because the muderers of Brook Harte were self-confessed, they should not have been lynched, and asserted that no innocent person was safe from mob violence when it was upheld by the highest official of any State.

I request that Mr. Ulmer explain to us if the courts of our country are not capable of discouraging such criminals, then how are our citizens to be kept safe from the kidnapers and murderers and other blackguards who take thousands of innocent lives each year?

Bouquets for Mr. Robey and Mr. Bargeron.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In today's (December 18) issue of The Post, there are two howls or protests of discord by Messrs. Allan R. Freeman and Solomon D. Atkins, which indicate a very efficient program has been mapped out by Mr. Ralph West Robey in his clear and forceful analysis of the experimentation that is now being thrust, jammed and crammed down the American people's throats by the present Administration.

In reply, I wish to state that I very much appreciate Mr. Robey's articles and especially call attention to today's article in which he so forcibly shows that a "dole," and nothing else but a dole, is being smeared over America by one of the alphabetical soups, as Al Smith calls them. Yes, I indorse R. W. Robey 100 per cent.

I also indorse Carlisle Bargeron's article "Along the Potomac." Today in a very clear and unmistakable style he calls attention to the "thinking fool."

Both these writers are on the right track and it will pay anyone well to follow their observations from day to day and thereby get a clear vision of the stupendous burlesque now being enacted in Washington.

C. G. DEGMAN.

Gold Buying.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: If you had a pool containing 150,000 gallons of sugar sirup and you added 14 gallons of water, the man in the street could not taste the dilution.

When you buy $21,000,000 of gold and pay $35,000,000 of paper for it you are throwing $14,000,000 of "water" into a pool of 150 billions of wealth. The man in the street can not notice the dilution.

All this inflation scare is a hoax; a hoax calculated to scare the widow and orphan into spending their savings to help business.

You can not inflate by buying gold; there is not enough for sale. To buy gold is conservative. In these days, no paper, not even the notes of the R. F. C., is as good as gold.

Can it be that the hoax is for the benefit of Senator Thomas and his inflationists? DR. S. P. KRAMER.

Appreciation.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Please permit me to personally thank you and your publication for the cooperation given the National Aeronautic Association in its attempt to bring about a proper observance of the thirtieth anniversary of the first flight of mankind.

Although this occasion was generally celebrated throughout the United States and definite programs arranged in more than 50 cities, I am unable to find any place where the cooperation of the press was as generous as in the city of Washington.

That the occasion was successful is due in a very large measure to the cooperation of your publication. Considerable of this, we believe, is due to the efforts of Mr. Whitney, of your editorial staff, and we are deeply grateful to him and to the other members of your organization. I trust the time will soon come when I can, by some act, reciprocate in part.

A Man Contemplates the Marital State in These Days.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: To the man contemplating marriage in these troublous times, I would suggest that he stop, ponder and think it over thoroughly. Times have changed. The new feminism prevails. The new deal for women is now in action. An honest, sincere, home-loving wife is a blessing, but of course she is not the up-to-date, modern type.

The up-to-date married woman really gets no kick in going out with her husband. In fact, I venture to say that deep down in her heart she feels somewhat ashamed of him. When her bothersome half is sick for a couple of days she cleverly reminds him that the hospital is the place for a sick man and not the home. You see a sick man clutters up the house and this interferes with social activity.

The nonintellectual type of married woman usually wants bridge parties, dances, seashore vacations and sensual diversions which she refers to as "having a good time." Even all this can not ward off boredom for the modern everyday woman.

The more a wife has in herself the less she'll want from this so-called society. This is the reason why a high degree of intellect tends to make a person appear unsocial.

PHILIP EBERT.

You Can't Blame a $40 Horse If a $5,000 Horse Outruns Him

By Robert Quillen.

Now that the football season is over and the frenzy of patriotism is ended, the losers may find consolation in recounting the faults of the victors.

In the old days, when Grassville and Hicktown struggled for supremacy in baseball, each team was composed of home-town boys. The sting of defeat and pride in victory were intensified by the fact that most of the spectators were related to the players.

But there came a time when one town, too long humiliated by defeat, took up a collection and hired a professional pitcher. After that both teams hired as many players as they could afford and defeat indicated nothing more than a short purse.

A generation ago a college football team represented the college. The players were not home-town boys; but they attended the college of their choice without other inducement than the desire for an education, and chance alone made them available as football material.

Typical American eagerness to win soon changed the method of obtaining winners.

The Carnegie Foundation's investigation revealed the fact that victory rewarded the longest purse.

One great university with no reputation for athletic prowess had suddenly appeared on the horizon with a team nobody could beat. In one season it made itself famous.

But it wasn't a product of chance. It was composed of high school and preparatory school stars who had been attracted by the offer of a free scholarship and $5 a week for spending money.

When publicity resulted in withdrawal of the subsidy, the school promptly lost its rating in football and never again developed a winning team.

It isn't true in every case, for chance may send stars to a school unknown to fame. But as a rule the best team "belongs" to the school that is most liberal with scholarships and other inducements.

Doubtless that is legitimate. The baseball club with the most money to spend buys the best players; the richest turfman owns the best horse.

But you shouldn't feel ashamed of your school or berate its coach because a rival institution has a longer purse.

Along the Potomac

With

Carlisle Bargeron

IF there is one thing I wish the Administration would go ahead and do and quit threatening to do, it is to appoint Eddie Dowling to the Radio Commission. Eddie is the court jester and while placing him on the Government pay roll will be a luxury that previous Administrations have not enjoyed, something must be done with him, soon or late, so the sooner the appointment is made and got over with the better it will be.

BARGERON.

Personally, it is the periodical threat that gets on my nerves and I assume there are other taxpayers who must feel the same way. One of the first of the New Yorkers to bob up on the scene after Mr. Roosevelt's election was Eddie, and the word was passed around that he was to go on the Radio Commision. From time to time since then the same word has been passed around. It is out again now and in print, with an air of authoritativeness, too.

* * * *

IT may be that by tracing the source of the most recent story one would encounter Eddie himself. But I am inclined to believe that the White House has decided that after the appointment of Bob Gore as governor of Puerto Rico and Guy Helvering as collector of internal revenue, the people will not make any great protest against anything. And maybe the story about Eddie this time is just another threat, that there is really no serious intention of giving him the radio job. Yet if the threat is to be held continually over our heads, I, for one, would much rather they went ahead and gave him the job.

Of course, no real radio administering would be expected of him. He would not have the time from his entertaining of the Administration crowd. It is an every night job.

EDDIE has come to be a sort of added perquisite for the official crowd. Just as in the past it has been possible for those party-givers who were on the "inside" to get the Marine Band, mayhap, and surely, flowers from the Botanic Gardens, Eddie is now available to them. Of course, the White House has first call.

It was shortly after Mr. Roosevelt's election that Washington newspapermen were given to understand that Eddie was a part of the official entourage. They made arrangements to entertain Mr. Roosevelt as he passed through on his visit to Warm Springs. With him, of course, were the members of his official party, Jim Farley, Col. Howe, &c. Then those in charge of the entertainment were informed that it was necessary to include Eddie.

The result was that the hundreds of us who attended that night were surprised, very much so, indeed, to see that we were not only giving a dinner in honor of the President-elect and Jim and the colonel, but Mr. Eddie Dowling himself. He was one of the five or six names, in fact, on the menu as the guests of honor.

* * * *

He will be loads of fun on the Radio Commission. It may be that his probable appointment is with a view to sharing him with the country, though at a radio commissioner's salary he comes right high. He is always getting off the funniest jokes you ever heard of. When Jim Farley and the rest of them were at Miami that time, waiting for Mr. Roosevelt to return from his cruise with Vincent Astor, there was a story in the papers that Eddie had pulled off the best joke yet—that he had called up some prominent man by long distance at 6 o'clock in the morning and made as if he was Mr. Roosevelt. Gosh, that must have been funny.

The question arises, though, why they don't put Eddie on the radio air instead of the commission.

Daily Talk About Books and Authors.

A few years ago this ever-living novel was dramatized again, and attracted considerable interest on the legitimate stage, though I did not think it particularly successful. But the present version in the motion pictures is so remarkably well done that it makes a deep impression on the audience. It is indeed difficult to account for the extraordinary emotional effect; I had a lump in my throat, and when I came out after the two hours of the play, I heard a woman say, "I cried all the time."

This story, originally published in 1868, is exactly the kind of book that one might expect would be ridiculed by our sophisticated critics of today. But as a matter of fact, there is such intense reality in the narrative and in the characters, that it is an imperishable classic, in spite of its being absolutely mid-Victorian. The four daughters, Jos, Meg, Beth and Amy, are sharply individualized, and to all readers they are positively real people.

I have not opened this book for nearly 60 years, but I remember vividly overwhelming disappointment when Jo did not marry Laurie, and when she became engaged to that professor, who seemed to me ready for the graveyard. Also my disgust when later Laurie and Amy were rowing and the boat moved so smoothly that they decided to keep up the partnership for life.

Now, in the picture, the make-up of the professor is so admirable and the actor who takes that part so clever, it seems after all the right solution for Jo.

Buyers Asked To Aid Virginia Tobacco Men

U. S. Farm Officials Confer With Them to Seek Higher Prices.

(Associated Press.)

Across a conference table, Farm Administration officials asked buyers of Virginia dark fire-cured tobacco yesterday to do their share toward bettering conditions among the growers.

J. B. Hutson, administration tobacco chief, said the buyers conference brought no immediate agreement, but that another would be held next week after reports are in on the crop reduction contracts.

As the conference convened, administration officials said they were awaiting with interest reports of the number of dark-fired growers who sign up to reduce their output 25 per cent in 1934.

Higher Price Is Goal.

The agreement of the growers to the crop reduction program is the first step in the Government's plan to promote higher prices on the southside Virginia dark tobacco markets. The second is to bring the buyers into an agreement to pay a higher price for the low tobacco grades.

The minimum price proposed for the lower grades by growers at a meeting here last week was 3 cents per pound. Growers' representatives said some dark fire-cured sold for as little as half a cent a pound while Virginia markets were open last week. They were closed by Gov. Pollard after a growers' protest against low prices.

It was pointed out that approximately 4,000,000 pounds of low-grade tobacco is in the hands of the growers. It was pointed out also that more than half the dark fire-cured crop is exported, and buyers may pay 40 per cent more in dollars for the tobacco without increasing the price to foreign consumers under the present exchange.

The buyers in yesterday's conference were George W. Suhling, of Suhling & Co., of Lynchburg; W. C. Bumstead, of George W. Helme & Co., of Lynchburg; W. M. Dunnington, of Dunnington Tobacco Co., of Farmville; W. C. Thomas, of W. C. Thomas & Co., of Lynchburg; J. F. Clark, of Clark Bros., of Bedford; James E. Beach, of Petersburg; B. J. Carlton and W. B. Ballou, of Imperial Tobacco Co., of Richmond; T. M. Anderson and A. B. Brascher, of Export Leaf Tobacco Co., of Richmond; W. E. Sawyer, of Petersburg; W. A. Crutcher, of Cameron Dunlop, Drakes Branch, and a representative of G. Stahling & Co., of Lynchburg.

Heavy Gunfire Rocks Havana

Outbreak Comes on Eve of Display Against Platt Amendment.

Havana, Dec. 20 (AP).—Widespread shooting broke out in Havana tonight. Snipers perched on roofs and gunmen in speeding automobiles began shooting at soldiers.

The soldiers answered the fire and pedestrians and automobile traffic fled from the streets.

The shooting was particularly heavy around the presidential palace, and witnesses said was directed first at men erecting signs inviting the public to a demonstration scheduled tomorrow against the Platt amendment.

The intense firing died down after about 30 minutes, but scattered shooting continued in various parts of the city. The army played searchlights on rooftops from Cabana Fortress.

Plans for tomorrow's demonstration, laid by the Grau San Martin government, moved Cuban-American relations into the forefront of discussion.

U. S. to Purchase Cheese Surplus

Bids to Be Opened Here December 30.

Needy persons are to receive a lot of cheese, Harry L. Hopkins, relief administrator, announced yesterday. Approximately 4,500,000 pounds are to be bought by the Federal Surplus Relief Corporation.

Bids on the huge order will be opened here December 30. The purchase will be split between the three principal cheese-producing areas, with New York getting a quota of from 595,000 to 1,372,500 pounds.

Purchase of 2,857,500 to 3,681,000 pounds will be made in the West, and 224,000 to 300,000 pounds will be bought in the West Coast area.

Just Folks.

By Edgar A. Guest.

Envy.

We know not just what shadows fall
Beyond the castle wall,
We see the king ride by
But never hear his sigh.

Burdensome seem our own affairs.
We count our daily cares,
Feel them and know their weight
Is wearisome and great.

Once in a bitter envious hour
I saw a man of power
And thinking him care-free
I wished that I were he.

I would have worn his medaled coat,
The ribbon at his throat,
But not the cancer grim
Which sapped the life of him.

Envy is limited of sight,
It sees the mantle bright,
Gay plume and laural wreath
But not the pain beneath.

National Museum Receives Old Fire Engine Today

Post Staff Photo.

"Vigo County, Ind., Pumper Fire Engine No. 2," used in Terre Haute as far back as 1854, will be presented to the National Museum today by Representative Virginia Jenckes. Marjorie Wurtzbaugh (left) and Madeline Lavezzo are inspecting the ancient machine.

She Sets Nira's Spirit to Music

Miss Bertha Gordon, 18, of District, Gives Recovery a Rollicking Air and Pleases Messrs. Roosevelt and Johnson.

The National Recovery Administration was definitely on the road to bigger and better things yesterday, for after all these dreary months it finally has acquired a satisfactory anthem.

Shame on Irving Berlin, Sigmund Romberg, George Gershwin and the whole troupe of song writers for leaving this vital job in the recovery program to a slender slip of an 18-year-old girl, Miss Bertha Gordon of this city, author of the "NRA Anthem."

Let us make it clear that this anthem is a smash hit.

President Roosevelt says so; Gen. Hugh S. Johnson says so, and Hans Kindler, director of the National Symphony Orchestra, says so. All have written letters to Miss Gordon, and just try and keep her from showing the letters to you.

Dashed It Off in Week.

It seems she dashed off the anthem in about a week, both words and music. There also seems to be no way to give you the music, but here is a sample of the words:

"Uphold the spirit of the NRA.
Be loyal to your cause, day by day.
For Uncle Sam is with you in your plight.
Relies on you to win this fight.
Hip, hip hooray.
No more unemployment,
What a great enjoyment!
Clouds are disappearing,
Skies are clearing,
No more traces of sad faces
Hip, hip hooray!

Well, President Roosevelt saw the song and he told his secretary, Marvin H. McIntyre, "take a letter to Miss Gordan." Here's what it said:

"The President asks me to acknowledge receipt of and thank you for your letter inclosing the NRA Anthem. He appreciates your thoughtfulness in sending it to him and fully understands the sentiment which prompted you to write it. At his request I am sending it along to Gen. Johnson so that he, too, may appreciate it."

Because We're in a War

Johnson no sooner saw the anthem than he said "take a letter to Miss Bertha Gordon," and here's what it said:

"I enjoyerd reading your NRA Anthem and appreciate your keen interest in the recovery program."

Miss Gordon said she wrote the anthem because she figured that we were in a different kind of war—a battle against you know what. And if we're going to win we ought to have an anthem. This is her first anthem, but she has dashed off a couple of popular pieces called "What Is Life Without Love?" and "Sweet Sixteen."

When informed that the NRA Anthem probably would make her famous, Miss Gordon replied:

"Hip, hip, hooray!"

Eclipse to End One Day Earlier Than It Begins

Pasadena, Dec. 20 (AP).—An eclipse of the sun which will end, paradoxically, a day earlier than it begins, will be visible on the North Pacific Coast in February.

The moon will come between the earth and the sun about noon, February 14, causing a total eclipse visible of the coast of Borneo, Prof. Alfred H. Joy, astronomer of the Carnegie Instutitution's Mount Wilson observatory, said today.

"Its path will travel northeast, crossing the international dateline shortly after noon February 13, and the eclipse will end off the coast of Alaska at sundown," he said.

"Only a few small islands owned by the Japanese lie in the path of the full eclipse, but a partial eclipse will be visible just before sundown from San Francisco to Alaska."

Loan Chiselers Draw Warning

Neglect of Private Debts for Federal Aid Attacked.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board served notice yesterday it will not consider applications from persons who have stopped payments to building and loan associations to qualify for mortgage loans.

John H. Fahey, chairman, announced many persons have suspneded payments to loan associations and have applied for Federal loans.

The result has been serious interference with the business of building and loan associations.

Fahey said in some instances payments had been stopped through a misunderstanding of the purposes of the act, while other cases had been deliberate.

The work of the Home Owners Loan Corporation is shifting to the second stage of resurveying, supplementing earlier findings and shifting personnel. A different method of treatment of applications is necessary in rural and urban communities, he explained.

A CODE FOR SANTAS.

In the interest of the profession, for the promotion of illusion, and preservation of childhood faith, the following code is hereby applied to govern department store and street corner Santa Clauses:

1. No man shall impersonate Santa unless he is above 4 feet 9 inches in height.

2. No man shall impersonate Santa who weighs less than 115 pounds, without the use of weights.

3. It shall be required of all street corner, department store and parish Kris Kringles that they look as little like Turkish bandits as possible.

4. It shall be required of all impersonators that they understand and subscribe to the notion that Santa Claus looked at no time in his career like a Singer midget, a living skeleton or a bad actor on a spree.

5. All false whiskers used by such impersonators must look like whiskers and not like floor mops, petrified spaghetti, whitewashed birds' nests, a piece of horse mane or the innards of a cotton blanket.

6. The said whiskers shall be worn as near the face as possible and never on the forehead, chest or left ear.

7. Every Santa Claus shall be entitled to a suit that fits him, to a belt that doesn't look like a cast-off razor strop, and to a pair of boots that any 4-year-old child would not identify as fake at first glance.

8. The use of face paint by anemic Santa Clauses shall be required, and in cases where the impersonator has a nose like a buzzard, swordfish or South African anteater, it shall be compulsory for him to use a little face putty or a false nose.

9. In order that the legend of Kris Kringle may be perpetuated in the minds of the young, not more than one Santa shall be impersonated in one store, and the practice of several Santas standing in groups on street corners shall be and hereby is prohibited.

10. No department store Santa Claus shall carry on any prolonged chat with a child. The kids are suspicious enough.

11. No father shall be asked or expected to play Santa Claus to his family when the youngest child is older than 12 years.

12. Any father impersonating Santa shall be the best judge of when he has gone far enough.

NRA Approves Fixed Standard On All Goods

Committee Report Urges Labels to Protect Consumers.

The NRA consumers' advisory board yesterday adopted a committee report urging compulsory maintenance of fixed quality standards in the manufacture of merchandise, to protect buyers from unscrupulous concerns offering shoddy goods as a means of underselling competitors.

The report, resulting from a two-month survey by a group headed by Robert S. Lynd and sponsored by the board and the A.A.A. Consumers' Counsel, contends labels especially are necessary to protect purchasers of childrens' shoes, gasoline and razor blades.

"Legitimate industry, eager to end wage cuts as a means of underselling competitors, has achieved this end through uniform wage scales in NRA codes," the committee reported. "The next step is to make certain that unethical producers can not undersell the market by reducing the quality of their products.

"Such reduction of quality without frank acknowledgment and a corresponding reduction in price, tends to deceive the public."

Because of fancy advertising and the development of substitutes, the committee reported, the consumer is unable to judge the quality of the product he is buying, and should be given the benefit of tested merchandise.

The report recommends organization of a staff of technical experts on clothing, furniture, toilet articles, fuel and heating equipment, foods, leather and electrical goods to distribute accurate quality information.

An advisory committee, with representatives of eight bureaus of the Federal Government now working on standards, would coordinate the use of present facilities for scientific testing.

Cabinet in Paris Backed on Budget

Senate Gives Confidence Vote on Economies.

Paris, Dec. 20 (AP).—The cabinet of Premier Camille Chautemps hurdled another obstacle today when the Senate approved a budget-balancing bill, 206 to 57, after the premier made the issue a question of confidence.

The bill provides for economies totaling 4,632,00,000 francs. It now returns to the Chamber, which previously had approved the major bone of contention, a proposal to cut the pay of government workers.

Three previous ministries in the last year have been defeated on similar budget-balancing and franc-protecting programs.

BAKER.

"All the locals throughout the country are reporting substantial gains. In addition to these increases among the old locals, several new local unions have been formed this month," Miss McNally stated.

"In connection with these new locals, it is important to bear in mind that the N. F. F. E. does not charter a new union until every reasonable assurance is given that the new unit will function effectively and efficiently. These, therefore, are not mere 'paper' locals."

Emergency Relief Division, Board of Public Welfare, Local No. 498, has been chartered, representing approximately 100 workers. Other new charters include Local No. 495, Boston, with more than 100 members; Local No. 496, East Bay, Oakland, with more than 50 members; Local No. 497, Steilacoom, Wash., with more than 75 members; and Local No. 499, Buzzards Bay, Mass., with more than 75 members.

The total number of N. F. F. E. locals now is the largest in the 16-year history of the organization, Miss McNally said.

President Extends NRA Rule To May 1, Asks All to Help

terms, will end on December 31. At that time permanent codes of fair competition will apply to approximately 70 per cent of all employes who will eventually be covered by codes.

Warns "No Let Down."

"In the midst of winter and with many persons out of work, it is essential that the new year should not bring with it any let down in the recovery program in the trades and industries which at that time have not come under approved codes and to which, therefore, only the President's reemployment agreement applies.

"I am, theerfore, inviting every employer in those trades and industries to join with me in an extension of the President's reemployment agreement for four months. By that time it is expected the process of code making will have been virtually completed.

"I urge all employers in trades and industries not covered by codes to cooperate by continuing to maintain higher wages and shorter hours. The need for their help is still great.

"Employers joining with me in this extension of the President's reemployment agreement may continue to display the Blue Eagle as a symbol of their cooperation, and those few employers who have not heretofore signed the agreement may sign it as extended, and, upon delivering a signed certificate of compliance to the postoffice, may obtain a Blue Eagle.

Display Means Acceptance.

"Display of the Blue Eagle on or after January 1, 1934, by an employer whose business is not entirely covered by an approved code will be treated as an acceptance of the extension of the President's reemployment agreement and a representation that he is complying with it for that part of his business not covered by approved codes."

Although 168 codes had been signed through yesterday—including most of major industries—several hundred more are in varying stages of formulation. The NRA hopes to complete 75 more by the end of the year. Hearings have been held on more than 200 others and from 200 to 300 remaining agreements for minor businesses are being scheduled.

The President's reemployment agreement, which put into effect minimum wages and maximum hours, September 1, originally covered the bulk of American industry. Giving way gradually to permanent codes, which place businesses under self-regulating authorities, it is constantly shrinking in importance and eventually the Blue Eagle will be discarded.

Other emergency phases of the recovery program are undergoing an overhauling for simplification under the Emergency Council. The President feels there has been too much crossing of lines and overlapping of functions, which has led to the establishment of a single organization, through which all field functions of the NRA, A.A.A., Farm Credit Administration, etc., will be carried out.

Another Census Started.

Meanwhile the Administration has embarked on another census of business, to be completed by February 25, the Associated Press reported. Although the NRA census handled by the Federal Census Bureau has not been completed, the Civil Works Administration will conduct a canvass of 2,400,000 retailers, wholesalers and others not in manufacturing, construction, transportation and farming. This survey, employing 16,000, will cover 1933.

Criticism of the NRA by small business, on the claim it has operated to the advantage of large industries, has found some support from returning senators, strengthening the belief it will be on this front attacks in Congress might be expected. The Associated Press reported several senators have been tentatively invited to serve on a new NRA board which would consider such complaints—which would carry out Gen. Johnson's practice of bringing into the NRA its critics, as a means to conversion.

NRA Yields, Price Cut Given Cleaners

that difference in cost was due to "scamped" work rather than to any saving in the "cash-and-carry" method, and ordered the horizontal 20 per cent reduction. His statement follows:

"Evidence at the hearing indicated prices fixed by the code authority and approved by the Administrator are fair and reasonable compensation for that quality cleaning which the public has a right to expect. The evidence clearly shows the differential in cost as between the so-called cash and carry and the so-called call and deliver cleaners is not, in general, due to any saving by the cash and carry method.

"It is clear, from the evidence, that the existing wide differences in prices are accompanied by wide differences in the quality of the work, and that there is some demand for scamped work.

"The evidence leaves some doubt as to how far the volume of work might be increased by maintaining prices below a level that would represent adequate cmpensation on the basis of the present volume.

Special Eagle Authorized

"It is definitely recognized that these prices are less than fair minimum prices for high quality cleaning. To meet these circumstances, the following is promulgated:

"(a) There will be a horizontal reduction by substantially 20 per cent of the minimum fair prices approved by the administrator under date of November 22, 27 and December 4.

"(b) To encourage and identify members of the industry who are prepared to maintain higher qualities of service, the President will enter into an agreement with an individual, or groups of individuals, wherein they will agree to maintain a higher standard of service, which will be established and announced by the Code Authority, and to maintain a higher standard of prices which will for the present be the prices approved by the administrator under date of November 22, 27 and December 4. To each person who enters into this agreement, NRA will issue a Blue Eagle with a service quality insignia of appropriate design to indicate to the public that he has agreed to maintain higher quality and higher prices.

"(c) There will be set up immediately a special board in the industry whose duty will be to study continuously the effect of the plan hereby promulgated. In any local area where more than 50 per cent of the cleaners shall petition for a review, the board will arrange for an immediate hearing.

"(d) It is recognized that in some cases, where the cleaning is done on the premises of the member of the trade, there may be an increased cost involved in delivery and that the minimum prices hereby fixed are so low that in such circumstances the delivery charge is justifiable and should be accepted by the public without complaint."

U. S. Unfair With Pay Cuts, Says Babcock

Subsistence Costs Raise Slash for 18,000 to 23%, He Claims.

Pay cuts ranging as high as 23 per cent, instead of the 15 per cent authorized by the economy act, have been enforced against 18,000 Federal workers, E. Claude Babcock, president of the American Federation of Government Employes, charged yesterday.

The employes' leader wrote a protest to Representative Clifton A. Woodrum, chairman of the independent offices subcommittee of the House Appropriations Committee, in behalf of workers required to accept salary deductions for quarters, subsistence and laundry. Among those involved, he said, were more than 1,100 nurses and attendants in local institutions.

Babcock cited a ruling of Comptroller General McCarl that there could not be any reduction in charges by the Government to employes living where they worked.

"In other words," Babcock contended, "pay was cut on the theory that living costs had been reduced, yet the Government retained the same scale of charges for that part of the living furnished by the Government.

"Under the economy legislation, 15 per cent of the gross salary is deducted from the cash payment, so the employe has received a reduction of 23 per cent in his income, which unjust discrimination was certainly not the intention of Congress."

Babcock asked restoration of the pay cut.

Army Posts' Highway Contracts Awarded

Federal Gas Tax To Decrease Jan. 1

Extra Half-Cent Levied June 17 to Pass.

Acting Secretary Morgenthau formally notified internal revenue collectors yesterday that effective January 1 the Federal gasoline tax drops from 1½ to 1 cent a gallon, says the Associated Press.

The extra half-cent was levied beginning June 17 as one of the extra taxes designed to service public works borrowings.

Its termination was made effective on the first of the year after prohibition repeal.

High Tide Floods St. Nicholas Crypt

Priests Save Furnishings of Church in Italy.

Bari, Italy, Dec. 20 (AP).—The sea today invaded the crypt of St. Nicholas, traditional original of Santa Claus, forcing a hurried removal of urns and ornaments.

The inundation was caused by a tidal wave which flooded St. Nicholas Church. Firemen carried in two priests on their backs through waist-deep water, enabling the priests to remove furnishings of the church in safety.

The waves followed a heavy storm which caused considerable damage at the waterfront. Three deaths were reported from other parts of Italy from cold.

Coast Guard Keeps Status

Merger With Navy Would Not Affect Personnel, Says White House.

Coordination of the Coast Guard with the Navy, now being considered by President Roosevelt, would mean continuation of its present functions under the Treasury Department and no change in its system of promotion, it was learned at the White House yesterday.

Under the plan, the Coast Guard would be established as a corps of the Navy, similar to the Marine Corps. This would involve mutual use of stations and is counted on to result in some saving and certain advantages.

The Coast Guard would provide an opportunity for many graduates of Annapolis, now forced to return to civil life, while the Coast Guard Academy at New London, Conn., would be used as a postgraduate school. The guard, however, would be officered by the same personnel and not otherwise deterred from its present function of preventing smuggling.

President Roosevelt discussed the plan with officials Tuesday, but no decision has been reached.

Oil Independents Fear War Renewal

Leader Blames Members of Congress as Misled.

(Associated Press.)

Harold B. Bell, executive vice president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, in a statement yesterday asserted that protection given independents against price cutting raids by the large companies might be jeopardized by attacks on the proposed pooling and marketing agreement by members of Congress, the Associated Press reports.

Such attacks, he said, would come from members of Congress "uninformed concerning the true facts of the case, or else misled by those opposed to any stabilization program for this vital industry."

Treasury Puts 750 Dry Agents On Rum Front

Bootleg Force Borrowed From Department of Justice.

(Associated Press.)

The Treasury augmented its bootleg combat unit yesterday by borrowing from the Justice Department 750 prohibition agents.

The decision to loan the services of the agents to the Bureau of Internal Revenue was reached at a conference between Acting Secretary Morgenthau and Attorney General Cummings.

A statement said "certain important questions" remained to be worked out relative to liquor control and liquor tax collections, but that in the meantime the agents would assist in enforcing revenue laws.

Will Protect Borders.

The combined force would protect the borders and coasts against rum runners, and in combatting moonshine operations and transporting liquor from wet to dry States, made illegal by prohibition repeal.

The 750 agents, it was explained, were not transferred from the Justice Department but were equipped, by commissions, with authority possessed by the revenue officers.

The complaints of Health Commissioner Wynne of New York City that several classes of legal liquor—naturally distilled, blended and "imitation"—were not properly labeled, resulted yesterday in arrangement for a conference tomorrow between Wynne and Dr. James S. Doran, supervisor of the distillery code authority, which may result in distillers' labels being printed to conform with Wynne's ideas.

Hungary Seeks Quota.

During the day, Hungary joined the queue of nations seeking to get wines and liquors into American markets. The deadlock between France and the United States over trade conditions to govern increased importations of French wine continued, despite a renewed conference btween the French commercial attache, M. Garreau-Dombasle, and the Federal Alcohol Control Administration.

Baron Paul Schell, secretary of the Hungarian Legation, discussed with the Administration the possibility of getting a quota for Hungarian wine. A suggestion was made to the diplomat that the United States would consider a quota of wine in exchange for American rice.

Rent Survey Starts Dec. 26

CWA Tabulators Receive Orders Today; Job Ends in Three Weeks.

A small army of C. W. A. tabulators, selected to assist the Public Utilities Commission in gathering data for its rent survey, will receive final instructions today and begin its survey of all residential property December 26, James Ring, special rent investigator, said yesterday.

Experts from the Department of Commerce will give the 518 workers instructions, as the data will be correlated with similar information collected in 60 representative cities.

The Capital has been divided into districts corresponding to those in the 1930 census, Ring said, and the job is expected to be completed in two or three weeks.

Investigators will collect information on the number of houses and apartments, the amount of rent paid, condition of the property and the size of the residence, on which the commission will report to the Senate District Committee in January.

Defers Naming Departure Date in Athens.

Athens, Greece, Dec. 20 (AP).—Samuel Insull, former Chicago utilities operator who has been ordered to leave Greece on January 31, indicated today he will not make his plans until after the holidays.

It was reported he was advised to appeal to the state council and seek a new decision regarding an order which calls for his departure from Greece upon the expiration of his police permit.

Concerning his health, Insull said "I feel none too good" and "the doctor has ordered me to remain quiet." He will spend Christmas in his flat here and will entertain several young friends at a Christmas tree party.

Eagle Forfeit Follows Ouster Of Union Men

First Such Instances Part of Federal Policy to Enforce NRA.

The Administration's determination to enforce the labor provisions of the recovery act on all fronts became doubly apparent yesterday when the NRA ordered surrender of the first Blue Eagle for alleged discharge of employes because they belonged to a union.

Simultaneously, the new deal for labor was strenghthened in the motorbus industry when its code authority decided upon immediate establishment of 11 regional industrial relations boards to settle complaints between employes and employers. The boards will function in the same manner as the local boards of the National Labor Board, and have both capital and labor membership.

The Blue Eagle withdrawal was considered important in that it follows the President's executive order strengthening the National Labor Board and the latter's move to obtain an injunction against the Weirton Steel Co. for its alleged coercion in an employes' election.

The J. J. Martin Co., of West Roxbury, Mass., was the concern hit by the Blue Eagle order. Charges that it had discharged employes because of union affiliations were filed with the West Roxbury compliance board by the International Brotherhood of Teamsters and Chauffeurs.

Planning Body Session Faces Varied Agenda

Bridges, Street Widening and Other Matters Up for Tomorrow.

The National Capital Park and Planning Commission will open its December meeting tomorrow morning, confronting a crowded one-day schedule of business.

John Nolen, jr., city planner, will report that the commission is giving employment to 40 persons on civil works projects, more than half of whom are conducting a social and economic survey of the Capital's blighted areas or gathering data on real estate.

The Fine Arts Commission's recommendations that future Federal building expansion be west of Seventeenth street will be considered.

Removal of the F street "bottleneck" between Seventh and Ninth streets, a problem which has agitated citizens associations and business houses for years, will come up again.

The agenda also includes approval of a proposed site for High Level Bridge, which will replace Chain Bridge; approval of the Magruder Bridge over the Anacostia River; landscape treatment of the Mall's cross-axis, centering around the new Archives Building; relocation of the Takoma Playground swimming pool following protests by residents; location of a proposed colored boys' club; decisions on the Agriculture Department's experimental farm at Beltsville, Md.; a report on the housing and slum clearance program; widening of Fifteenth street through the Monument Grounds, and adoption of new subdivision regulations by the District Commissioners.

New Bus Line To Open Office In Alexandria

Merger of 12 Companies Combines Routes in 14 States.

Operating headquarters of "America's largest centrally controlled bus line" will soon be established in Alexandria.

Consolidation of 12 major bus lines in 14 States, under a charter granted by the State corporation commission in Richmond, to the Atlantic Greyhound Line, Inc., was announced yesterday, the Associated Press reports.

The new organization, officials said, will cover the Eastern seaboard south of Pittsburgh, and from Cincinnati southward. It will be the biggest centrally operated line in the United States, they declared.

The company will control properties valued at between $5,000,000 and $10,000,000. F. H. Sullivan, of Charleston, W. Va., vice president and comptroller, said that headquarters and business offices will be established immediately in Alexandria.

Mr. Sullivan said the project is "a move toward corporate simplification" and does not involve any stock sale or purchases of bus lines. While there may be bus systems embracing more territory and more lines, he said, the new company will be something new in that it will be operated as one unit.

Besides Sullivan, officers of the company are A. M. Hill, of Charleston, president; H. C. Grosmann, of Pontiac, Mich., secretary, and C. T. Lineback, of Winston-Salem, treasurer.

Ruling Brings Veterans Gift Of 20 Millions

170,000 to Benefit, Result of Decision on Law by Bureau.

(Associated Press.)

Christmas greetings of a monetary sort will go to some 170,000 World War veterans as a result of an opinion approved yesterday by Frank T. Hines, Veterans Administrator.

Unofficially it was said the former service men would benefit by $20,000,000 to $30,000,000.

The opinion was an interpretation of the Independent Offices Appropriation act, and veterans involved are those in receipt of compensation for service-connected disabilities on March 20, 1933.

The Administration found that there was a conflict between the Independent Offices Appropriation act and the War Veterans act of 1926. Under the latter veterans whose disability had halted were entitled to compensation at either regulatory or statutory rates. As a rule the statutory rates were the higher.

Under the new regulations, after ten years of complete arrested disability no rate of pension is provided. From the provisions of the economy act of the last Congress, the Administration was in doubt as to the status of these veterans.

The solicitor decided that the statutory rate should prevail. Contrary interpretation would have meant a considerable cut in the payments during the year.

The LUXURY of ROOM

PEOPLE like room. There is no doubt about that. They will pay money to get it, at a hotel, on a ship, in their homes. It is a luxury.

Man likes crowds but hates to be crowded. He wants room — elbow-room — hip-room — leg-room.

General Motors has designed its entire line for 1934 to provide MORE ROOM. This applies to Chevrolet, Oldsmobile, Pontiac, Buick, La Salle, and Cadillac. More room on the back seat—more length. More room for bags, packages, golf clubs. Room for a child to squirm or for larger persons to shift about.

With this great and simple improvement are combined two others — one which was the outstanding advancement of 1933, Fisher No-Draft Ventilation; and the other, which will be the most-talked-of development in 1934. Engineers give it a very technical name, but we have termed it "giving the car Knee-Action Wheels." If you will look at the diagrams on the right you will understand why we use this simple phrase.

The effect of this revolutionary change is apparent in your first trip; every muscle in your body has a grateful sense of its value.

The bounce and the jar and the bumps — these the soft springs of the Knee-Action Wheels have banished. Shimmy and shake are out of the wheel; the car clutches the road with a faithful grip, and moves with a smoothness beyond belief. The word ride has always connoted a certain degree of unavoidable effort and discomfort. In our 1934 cars you will glide.

HOW KNEE-ACTION WHEELS WORK

Your present car is stiff-legged. An I-beam front axle is joined to the frame by stiff front springs. So when you hit a bump the front of the car bounces, the rear pitches, and you are jarred.

See how gracefully a man meets a bump. One knee bends easily, lifting its leg. The other leg is not affected; equilibrium is undisturbed. The knee, not the body, takes the jar.

Now, 1934—no more I-beam axle, no stiff springs. The wheel assembly, flexibly mounted on its own soft spring, rises and falls like a knee to soak up the shocks, while the car glides on.

An interesting booklet is available describing in more detail the fundamental principle of this new, independent front-wheel spring suspension. Simply address General Motors Corporation, New York or Detroit.

16 Bound Over To Grand Jury In Oyster Raid

Charged With "Scraping" as Result of River Battle Monday.

After hearing only two witnesses, a Charles County magistrate's court at La Plata, Md., yesterday held 16 alleged oyster pirates for the grand jury. They were charged with "scraping" oysters and failing to have Federal numbers on their boats.

Two others, who identified themselves as residents of Virginia, were returned to jail for delivery to Virginia authorities. All were arrested Monday in a battle with Maryland State police on the lower Potomac.

Bond for those held was set first at $500. When Defense Attorneys John Mudd and Philip Dorsey announced they would seek a habeas corpus writ, it was reduced to $300.

This was furnished by a delegation from the Eastern Shore, including L. Ellwood Dize, C. D. Marshall and Archie Marsh. The accused men live on Smiths Island, 3 miles off the Eastern Shore.

Try to Recapture Boats.

Simultaneously came reports from Popes Creek, Md., of what was believed an attempt to recapture the "pirates'" nine boats, held by police.

Five sheriffs' deputies, headed by Leo Hayden, said two boatloads of men were discovered tampering with the confiscated launches. A volley of shots sent the intruders fleeing in the darkness.

The Eastern Shore delegation, however, gave a different version of the possibility of further trouble. Many of the men, they said, had wives and children "on charity" because of the failure of local oyster beds. They declared the men wanted only a chance to make a living.

Two Officers Testify.

Deputy Sheriffs Bruce Wilmer and Hayden testified they saw the defendant's fleet of boats dredging in the Potomac off Popes Creek. They said from 10 to 20 bushels of oysters were found on each boat.

Hearing in the shooting of Ashton L. Evans, alleged to have been shot by State Policeman Wade L. Smith during Monday's battle, was suspended indefinitely. Evans was charged with "resisting arrest."

All the cases will come before the May session of the grand jury. State's Attorney Edward Edlam declared.

Duke Demands Original Writs Of Rum Trial

Lawyer in Disbarment Suit Asks Production of U. S. Exhibits.

Production of the 104 "exhibits" used by the Government in its prosecution of 13 members of a rum ring conspiracy last year was demanded yesterday by Jesse C. Duke, who is defending himself in a disbarment case in District Supreme Court.

He also requested that the 18 "prayers" granted for instruction of the jury at the behest of the Government be produced in original form. Duke said he wanted to see what penciled notations had been made on the papers by Trial Justice F. D. Letts of District Supreme Court.

Before a court consisting of three justices, Duke yesterday cross-examined Capt. Harold W. Orcutt, who prosecuted the rum conspiracy. Capt. Orcutt, assistant United States attorney, was on the stand for three days explaining the manner in which he made up a "bill of exceptions" in the trial of the conspiracy.

This bill is the basis for Duke's present trial. He charged that United States Attorney Leo A. Rover and Justice Letts had deliberately sent up a "false" bill of exceptions.

The grievance committee of the District Bar Association has charged Duke with prejudicial conduct.

Site Is Purchased For New Theater

Connecticut Avenue Land Sold to J. M. McDonald.

Another motion picture theater for Connecticut avenue was forecast yesterday in an announcement from the Cafritz Co. The company reported the sale of 20,000 square feet of ground on the west side of Connecticut avenue between Newark and Ordway streets as a site for the project. J. M. McDonald is the purchaser, at a consideration understood to be $40,000.

The site, zoned as first commercial property, was formerly a stone quarry. It has a frontage of 200 feet on Connecticut avenue and an average depth of 100 feet.

Construction work is expected to be started soon. Plans contemplate use of the Connecticut avenue frontage for erection of stores with the rear of the lot used for the theater with an entrance and lobby on Connecticut avenue.

Coage's Report Asks Fee Rise

40-Year Old Scale Leaves Deficit Every Year, Recorder Says.

Substantial increases in his office fees were recommended yesterday by Jefferson S. Coage, recorder of deeds, in his annual report to the District Commissioners.

The present scale of fees has been in effect 40 years, and the income is insufficient for expenses of the office, he says. A deficit has accrued every year since the appropriation system was established in 1927.

Coage said that when the present scale was adopted, the office personnel was paid on a per diem basis. The cashier and receiving clerk's salary since then has increased from $900 to $2,000.

The recorder also cited inconveniences and condition of his office at 412 Fifth street northwest, and urged early building of the Municipal Center.

Jury Declines To Cite Warring In Club Death

Police Unable to Locate Witnesses to Identify Nally's Slayer.

The District grand jury yesterday failed to indict Charles R. Warring for the slaying of Joseph F. Nally, in the Wunder Bar Night Club, Tenth nad U streets northwest, November 7.

Police testimony disclosed that Nally was shot while he sat at a table watching a floor show. At the time there were many patrons in the place.

Warring was arrested when investigators learned that he and Nally had held a conversation shortly before an "unidentified" man shot Nally.

With Warring, police said, were Donald K. Wallace, 1907 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, and Victor Juliano, 2105 Fourth street northwest. Both were originally held as material witnesses.

Police were unable to locate any witnesses who could identify the assailant.

Nally was known as a "strong arm" man for a local gambler.

1917 Courage Asked in Crisis

Depression Struggle Like War, Woodring Tells Young Democrats.

The courage of 1917 is necessary to lift the Nation from the "chaos of economic depression," Assistant Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring declared in an address at the Willard Hotel last night before the District division of the Young Democratic Clubs of America.

"After all," said Mr. Woodring, "the whole situation may be likened to a state of war. The Nation has been challenged and our heritage of free institutions has been attacked. And while there are no armed foes at our gates, there are forces just as destructive."

Mr. Woodring discussed in detail the Administration's recovery plan.

Cold? Now 'Way Back in '73—

Weather Bureau Expert Reveals That Winters Warmer Than Those of Grandad's Day Due to Warm Cycle.

Are our winters growing warmer, as some of the old folks insist?

"Granddad was not so far wrong in his statements about the exit of the old-fashioned winter of his boyhood days," admits oseph B. Kincer, chief climatologist of the Weather Bureau, to the Associated Press.

The country generally has been having a cycle of mild winters since a series of seasons colder than normal around Civil War days.

That of 1855-56 was the coldest on record for more than a century. The warmest in more than 100 years here in Washington was that of 1931-1932. Granddad, or even dad, probably recalls winters of the cold cycle, officials say, when he says they are not what they used to be.

Recent winters are in marked contrast to those of granddad's early days. Of those from 1854-55 to 1872-73, 14 were colder than normal. Here in the Capital, 18 of the last 21 have been warmer than normal.

In New Haven, where records run back to Revolutionary War times, the last 10 have averaged above normal, as have 18 of the last 21, and 33 of the last 45. Thirteen of the last 15 in St. Louis have averaged above normal.

Astronomically, winter doesn't arrive this year until 1:58 a. m., Eastern standard time, Friday, but the weather men, who do things meteorologically, figure it began December 1 and ends March 1.

Earthquake Study Planned With Federal Relief Funds

Jobless Engineers Will Get Geodetic Survey Jobs.

(Associated Press.)

Less danger from earthquakes, greater safety for navigators and aviators, aid to prospectors for oil and minerals and speeding up surveys needed as a basis for irrigation and reclamation, flood control, road building and other engineering works will be some of the results of work planned by the Coast and Geodetic Survey with recovery funds.

A total of more than $10,000,000 will be spent under the survey's direction, according to present plans, to advance regular work of the survey and supplements for individual States.

More than 15,000 men, about one-third of them unemployed engineers, will be given work with $4,000,000 provided by the Civil Works Administration to do surveying in all the 48 States this winter. Many more will receive work during the next two fiscal years on regular projects if the need for relief continues.

Relief funds are scheduled to be spent in the next two years chiefly for pushing the task of surveying the entire United States in one unified system and for making modern charts for safe navigation in the inland waterway which extends from New York to Key West on the Atlantic coast and over most of the Gulf coast in addition.

About half the United States has been covered by Coast and Geodetic Survey parties laying out a complete system of points for a basis for all surveying in the neighborhood.

The inland waterway survey is said to be badly needed because no up-to-date charts are available for these waters.

Some of the terrors will be taken out of earthquakes with part of the recovery funds, which will be spent by the survey on installing more of the new machines that record movement of the ground on the spot where an earthquake takes place. Records made by these machines are used in designing buildings to resist shocks. Such records were obtained at Long Beach, Calif., last March.

A magnetic map of the United States, to be issued in 1935, will be completed with some of the recovery funds. Such a map is essential to navigators of ships and aviators who travel by compass, and to prospectors and geologists.

Baby With 13 Mothers Lives According to Science Rules—Except for a Few Caresses

New Compacts Light Weight And Colorful

Filmdom's Stars Now Have Their Faces in Jig-Saw Patterns.

By Ruth Anne Davis.

New Christmas gifts are still coming in. Last minute shoppers can brave the maddening crowds and have their venture rewarded by novel catlin compacts fresh on the counter yesterday.

The Thirteenth street shop featuring them vows and declares they've never sold such satisfactory compacts before. These are exceedingly lightweight and beautifully designed with scenic miniatures. Some have colored rims with contrasting tops. A particulary attractive one has a carved white border and a glistening black lid. It's to be a merry Christmas in a compact way!

Movie fans and jig-saw addicts will have a thing or two in common when they get together on the new game featured in the basement of a store on G street. Pictures of filmdom's stars cut in intricate jig-saw patterns are guaranteed to banish tedious hours. Three large cards, each one with six pictures, come nicely wrapped in a neat little box.

Baffled shoppers wearily eye the counters loaded with gift suggestions. A wealth of novelties, a glorious display of fascinating trinkets—which to choose? What to choose?. Finally, restless eyes alight on the hosiery gift box and shoppers breathe a sigh of relief, for here, here for a certainty, is a package bound to please! Mother, sister, daughter, aunt, or cousin, will appreciate a hosiery wardrobe.

An F street shop is selling the finest quality hose, three pairs boxed together at three different prices, in three new shades. There are chiffons, silk from top to toe, sheer services with cotton feet and welt for long-time wear. Others are adjustables, appropriate for short and tall alike, or those super chiffons, fine as a spider's web.

A throng of customers, "ohing" and "ahing" like children in a toy department, were crowded around the counter of a store on G street. A new novelty was the center of their enthusiasm and wonder. In this day and time it takes something very unusual to thrill the shopping crowds. This one was a camera, much too small for a vest pocket, looking frightfully expensive, but selling for 39 cents.

The husband who fusses about his wrinkled tie and the wife who says she can't press it will both be interested in the new necktie presser. At first glance it looks like a long, tall, thin book with an electric wire fastened to the back. Close inspection reveals it to be a folder with padded linings. The tie is slipped over an aluminum tongue, and inclosed in the folder. One side is slightly dampened, the electric wire is plugged in, and the heat, pressure and moisture combined take away the wrinkles and make an old tie look like new. The presser carries 110-115 volts on AC or DC current.

It is so small and light it can be carried in a brief case on a trip or used on the bureau. It makes a practical and unusual gift for those hard-to-please men!

You may be celebrating repeal, and so may your next door neighbor. That we claim is a matter of course. But when the jewelry department in a downtown store does the same thing, it's news! Sure enough, they've stocked up on repeal jewelry. There are the fanciest bracelets, made of slender chains with little glass bottles in wine shades dangling in all directions. And clips looking all of their 2 inches like cocktail shakers.

A toast to the girl of today—wine bottles around her wrists, cocktail shakers on her clothes—repeal jewelry wherever she goes! P. S.—Author unknown.

A lucky somebody is sure to fall heir to the lovely satin nightgown and bedjacket ensemble featured by a local shop this week.

Any woman will lose her heart to the dainty little jacket matching the nightie. Full sleeves are lavishly trimmed with alencon lace like that forming the vest of the nightie. The set is available in blush, magnolia or misty blue.

Gifts for women who furnish their homes in antiques are among the hardest to choose. But an F street gift shop has some little whatnots which are ideally suited to fill in a bare corner and to harmonize beautifully with the general scheme of things. They're available in maple, walnut and mahogany.

Some of them are large with ornate designs. Others are plain with simple "cut out" work on the base. Aside from being corner catch-mealls, they're delightful little telephone shelves.

Call Ruth Anne Davis, of The Washington Post, National 4205, Extension 105, for further information. Or write, inclosing a stamped, addressed envelope.

WHERE ARE MY OTHER MAMAS?

Hood College's Youngest Member Is 9 Months Old

Rosy-Cheeked Virginia Fay Strawn Gets Milk and Naps and Everything Else on Time, But She Comes in for Occasional Hugs Out of Season.

By Elizabeth Perrow.

Imagine, if you please, being just one small bit of a baby, with 13 mothers to hug you and pet you and feed you gruel and tell you not to stick your thumb in your mouth, and wonder whether you'd be a famous painter or a sculptor or an aviator or a dress designer or a lawyer, when you grew up.

You just can't imagine it?

All the same, it's absolutely true.

All except the petting, perhaps.

The rosy cheeked baby girl, one Miss Virginia Fay Strawn, aged 9 months, who makes her home in the academic atmosphere of Hood College, at Frederick, Md., and has 13 pretty young ladies all learning how to be scientific mothers by practicing on her, has to take her squeezings and bouncings in the air surreptitiously, like those midnight fudge parties in dormitory rooms. For hugging and kissing are absolutely not included in Miss Virginia Strawn's curriculum.

The caresses she does receive are regulated by the clock. For girls have to be seniors before they can practice being mothers at Hood; and by that time they have learned that Father Time is the most important person in a baby's life. His reign is undisputed and sedate college professors and young girl mothers alike obey his commands.

Mustn't Be Wakened.

Yesterday President Appleton, the white-haired head of the college, begged that the baby be awakened to have her picture taken for The Post. Her guardian firmly refused.

"Virginia is asleep. She can not be awakened before 2 o'clock," she said.

"She might wake up a little early," the president pleaded. "Babies sometimes do, you know."

"Not this one," replied the scientific mother. College president, newspaper photographer, and reporter looked at eacn other with mute resignation.

"We will wait," said The Post representative. Two hours later, her nap completed, Virginia appeared, sleepy-eyed, but smiling, surrounded by her 13 pretty "mothers."

"She may stay for half an hour," they said. "Then she must have her lunch and go out for a ride."

For half an hour baby posed before the camera and received with gurgles of approval and laughter the compliments heaped upon her. She showed not a sign of fright at the strange faces, and only an amused interest at the loud noises made when the pictures were taken.

Has Social Poise.

"She has a great deal of social poise," some one observed.

"That is because she leads such an active social life," replied several of the girls with typical maternal pride.

"Virginia is the most popular person at Hood. No other girl on this campus has so many admirers. The remarkable thing is that she is not at all spoiled by all the attention. That is because she is so carefully trained.

"Yesterday she was guest of honor at a tea. You should have seen her. She was adorable in a white nainsook frock. She was in a gay mood and dispensed her favors graciously. The other guests pretended not to notice that she drank only milk and that she had to leave a little early in order to be in bed at 6 o'clock."

Said another proud mamma:

"Why, Virginia is a most unusual young lady. She fully appreciates the dignity of her position and never cries at social functions as some babies do. She knows that her mothers have to have their beauty sleep, too, and never cries at night. Midnight floorwalking is unknown in this house.

Goes for Outing.

At this point Virginia departed for her afternoon airing, rosy cheeked, smiling, bundled up in blankets in her baby limousine, her chauffeur a collegiate miss any young man would be proud to take to a prom.

Virginia's thirteen mothers are leaving today for their respective homes. They have decorated a big Christmas tree for Virginia, and Santa Claus is on his way with many presents for her. But Virginia prefers human affection to bright toys. She turns from the festive tree and gives her sweetest smiles to her girl guardians. She follows them with adoring eyes as they move about the room. No one can doubt that this very small baby has quite enough love in her heart to repay the affection which her 13 "mothers" lavish upon her.

Gray Lady Plays Godmother To Humblest Sick People

Junior Leaguer Goes Among Hospital Beds Cheering Occupants, Finding Needs of Their Families and Giving Many Kinds of Aid.

A tense, expectant atmosphere pervades the wards at Walter Reed Hospital just before 2 o'clock every Wednesday afternoon. The men, swathed in bandages, keep their eyes glued on the door and strain their ears for a familiar step. After what seems hours, a young gray-clad figure enters the room. She flashes a jolly, heart-warming smile and says to the nearest patient, "Hello 'John! How did your little girl come out in the spelling contest?"

John grows expansive and confidential under the warmth of that smile, and before the "Gray Lady" has left his bedside she has written a letter to his wife and children in another State. John's hands have been so badly burned in an explosion that it will be a long time before he is able to write to his family.

After she has finished the letter the "Gray Lady" moves on to the next patient, and then the next and the next, until she has visited every man in the ward. Other "Gray Ladies" visit other wards so that each man has some one to confide in, some one to talk with, at least once a week.

Among the "Gray Ladies" is Mrs. Earle L. Warren, member of the Junior League. In addition to doing "ward duty" every Wednesday afternoon from 2 to 5:30, she directs 14 other Junior Leaguers who wear the gray uniform and veil. These young women visitors work in conjunction with the Red Cross. They received the name "Gray Ladies" from their nun-like uniforms.

"We look after the sick men's mental and spiritual needs just as the nurses take care of their physical ones," said Mrs. Warren yesterday in telling of her work at the hospital.

"Sometimes the new patients are a little wary of us but as soon as they learn that our interest in them is sincere, they tell us all their troubles. In most cases we are able to help.

"Not long ago one of the men in my ward seemed terribly morose. He finally told me he was worried about his wife and four children in a neighboring city. He was afraid they were without food and that they were suffering from cold. I got the address of his family, gave it to our branch of the Red Cross which then advised the Red Cross in the neighboring city.

"The next time I visited the ward I could tell that man that his family had been made comfortable. You should have seen the difference the good news made in his physical condition. He began to improve at once."

Mrs. Warren, in addition to writing letters for the men, reads to those who are blind, and shops for those who need toothpaste and other small articles. If the patient has no money she makes out a list of his needs and then has the list filled by the Red Cross. In the course of a Wednesday afternoon she laughs and talks with 66 men who regard her visit as the brighest spot of the week.

"My work isn't as depressing as it sounds," she said yesterday afternoon as she was preparing to enter her ward. "Sometimes amusing things happen. The thing that impresses me most is that the patients are all so interested in each other's welfare.

"Last week one man called me over and said, 'Lady, can't you do something about the chap across the aisle? He hasn't been eating enough to keep a canary flapping its wings. Didn't even touch his tray this noon.' I told him that would be glad to do something and asked the man if he could suggest anything.

"'Well,' he said, 'he ought to have food that would slip down easy—like oysters.'"

Mrs. Warren saw to it that the chap with the poor appetite got a tray with cold consomme and raw oysters. He ate them with gusto.

Read about the work of another Junior Leaguer in tomorrow's Post.

Harris & Ewing.

Each patient at Walter Reed Hospital has a young woman, known as a Gray Lady, call on him once a week to listen to his troubles, do his shopping for him and read to him. Mrs. Earle L. Warren, Gray Lady and Junior Leaguer, brings cheer and a bit of laughter to 66 men at the hospital every Wednesday afternoon.

Linen Returns Again to Rule Fashion Roost

Smart Resort Wardrobes Show Which Way Wind Blows.

Linen, which practically ruled the fashion roost last spring, is showing every sign of returning to that position of glory this year. Swagger suits of this material are now being shown for resort wear, which is practically a sure sign that they will be worn here within the next few months. The smart resort wardroble also includes linen ensembles, dresses, separate jackets and coats. The ensembles are in two colors or in plaid and monotone combinations.

An extremely heavy, natural-colored linen, reminiscent of "dusters" worn in the infancy of the automobile, makes interesting suits. The coats are usually three-quarter length, fitted above the waist and flared below. Belts are missing from this type of coat. The skirts are in two styles for the most part—straight and slim or gored and slim. Both permit room for comfortable walking but do not encourage an athletic stride.

Blouses to be worn with these suits are in gay plaids or deep, dark shades. Raspberry and blackberry hues are carried over from the winter mode and will look cool on hot summer days. Fine handkerchief linen is used for these blouses, which have fairly high necks and cape sleeves. Most of them are tuck-ins although some of the plaid ones are cut on tunic lines.

A fairly light weight of linen makes neatly tailored frocks. With few exceptions they are accompanied by small shoulder capes or short, fitted jackets. The capes look especially well with large-brimmed straw hats.

Bride Told What To Buy In-Laws

The answer to the bride's question: What shall I give my in-laws for Christmas? is answered fully in the December Home and Field. Here are its suggestions:

For father-in-law, if he voted repeal, she advises with a wine merchant whose reputation is comparable to Cartier's, and buys a few precious bottles, right year, right shipper, right everything.

For Uncle Will, who likes fishing, she buys a new book on fishing, for the fisherman's only out-of-season consolation is reading about fishing. For Uncle Charles, the dapper man who has everything in the world, she buys the best umbrella she can find.

For mother-in-law, who rates something on the feminine and slightly impractical side, she gets a scarf, designed in Paris, made of tulle and very smart, indeed! For Aunt Helen, who is a bit of a gadabout and fairly critical, she buys a pair of the most diaphanous stockings. For Aunt Mary, who was a great belle in the '90s, she buys the new sachets, perfumed oblongs of pink flannel which exude their sweetness in the bureau drawer or the suitcase, for years and years.

Tours Europe to Find Success in New York

New York (AP).—Russell Johns, of Chillicothe, Ohio, with his musical peccadillos upon the piano, has Broadway gasping with delight at the moment, but it took a tour of Europe to get him there.

His giant stature and broad shoulders make him look like anything but a stage entertainer, which isn't surprising, for he did play football for the University of Ohio.

Then he went abroad, played for the Prince of Wales, Prince George, the then King of Spain, the Prince and Princess of Monaco and the Duke of Connaught. That was all he needed, and Broadway sent him a summons to come on home, that all—whatever it was—was forgiven.

Secretary Perkins Asks Bar On Child Labor; Minimum Wage

Better Working Conditions for Women and Children Sought in Ten-Point Program Advocated for Workers' Relief.

Chicago, Dec. 20 (AP).—Permanent limitation of hours of labor was advocated tonight by Secretary Perkins of the Labor Department in presenting a ten-point program for improvement of the condition by wage earners.

Speaking before the Railway Labor Executives Association, Miss Perkins suggested that efforts be made to induce States lacking such laws to consider legislation on these additional points:

Prohibition of child labor; standard minimum wages for women; requirement of safe and healthy working conditions; provision for aged workers; some form of unemployment reserves; adequate workmen's compensation laws; free public employment bureaus; stronger administration of labor laws, and steps to make permanent improved labor conditions.

Miss Perkins said general adoption of such a program in her opinion would help all wage earners and be of real value to employers and the communities as well.

Health Dividends.

"It would pay dividends in production and in health and satisfaction to the individual workers," she said, adding that the vast internal market being created under the recovery program promised a more even prosperity for the next decade.

In calling for unity in meeting depression problems, Miss Perkins said:

"I am willing to take a chance on the average American citizen. The great majority have lived up honorably to the spirit of the recovery program.

"I will admit that there are a few chiselers—we have Gen. Johnson to thank for that expressive word—but you will remember that Moses laid down a certain code and although there have been chiselers against the Ten Commandments ever since there is no doubt that the code of Moses still controls the world."

"By shortening hours, millions have been put back to work on the present scale of production," she said, in citing gains reported by her department since last March.

Regulates Price.

"By setting a minimum living wage a bottom has been put in the suicidal fall of prices. By a combination of these two a $2,000,000,000 wage earners' market has been built up in the United States in six months. By putting men at public works on a $3,300,000,000 program, industry is being stimulated along many lines with work widely spread. By the ingenuity of Civil Works Administration men and women are being taken off the relief roles and are again working for wages. By housing construction the plans are being laid to revive the building trades.

"The railroads will benefit directly through this, for they will carry more freight and passengers with a resultant increase in revenues and employment. They in turn will buy more equipment and improve their shops and roadbeds, joining the cycle that should spell improvement for their workers."

Tea Will Honor Jean de Sibour

Viscountess de Sibour has issued invitations for a tea on Sunday from 5 to 7 o'clock at her home in Georgetown, in honor of her son, Mr. Jean R. de Sibour.

Feather Muff Bags Are New For Evening

Curled and Uncurled Ostrich and Coq Feathers in Favor.

Chicago, Dec. 20 (AP).—Santy is used to letters from little girls asking for a muff with a pocketbook in it, but now the chances are, if he reads minds, he is aware of similar requests from feminine grown-ups this Chirstmas.

For muff bags are among the new smart accessories.

Muff bags can be had for daytime and evening wear. They are developed in furs, fur-like fabrics, feathers and fabrics, either litlitarian like wools or dressy like velvets.

Most of the new styles in daytime bags are not discernible as a muff, resembling instead a moderate sized pouch bag, which closes at the top with a zipper, clip or tricky fastening. The muff is in the fullness of the pouch.

The little evening muffs of feathers are the darlings of fashion right now. They were seen in several styles and in the range of this season's popular after-dark colors.

Some were uncurled ostrich feathers. Others were of satin trimmed with ostrich. Still others are of coq feathers, and one alluring number had coq feathers arranged in a cascading fashion.

One variety hinted at an old-fashioned party bag with self-colored drawstrings closing the bag top. Others were fastened by zippers snuggling down among the feathers.

These little feather bags are effective complements to feather-trimmed frocks or to feather capes.

Young Woman Who Painted 'Ideal Roosevelt' Goes to White House to Meet the President

Norma Bernstein Gets His Autograph on Portrait That Won Prize.

"Mr. President, this is your 'ideal portrait.'"

Well, no—Pretty Norma Bernstein did not say precisely that when she met the President yesterday at noon. She was a little too modest, perhaps.

All the same, the painting she had made and which she had brought to Washington to have him autograph, had been awarded the prize offered by the Art Students' League of New York, for the "ideal portrait" of Franklin D. Roosevelt. It won the award among 750 entries.

Bearing the President's signature, it will hang in the New York Public Library, in a position of honor.

Yesterday Miss Bernstein, who seems very young indeed for such an honor, but who is already regarded as one of America's up-and-coming painters, told The Post reporter of her artist's career, which literally began when she was a high school girl.

Pupil of Romanovsky.

"I think I was born with a paint brush in my hand," she laughed. "When I was graduated from high school at 16, I entered the New York School of Applied Design. There I had the good fortune to attract the attention of a great artist, Romanovsky, who has been my most important adviser and teacher.

"Later I went to Paris, for a year at the Julians Academie and the Academie de la Grands Chaumiere.

"Paris was wonderful, and I adored it. But I want to say right here that I believe the best teachers of art today are right in America. I got the most of my knowledge of technique in this country."

Which is saying a great deal, for Miss Bernstein, although so young, is considered one of the up-and-coming artists of America today. At 18 she had opened her own studio in New York, and was earning her living doing portraits.

Her technique, wherever she acquired it, is marked by versatility and imagination, the critics say.

"That must be because I look for my material everywhere," she said. "I have dabbled in Chinese types, in etchings, and in flower paintings. But whatever I try, I come back to faces—and to color. They hold my interest above all things.

A Real Adventure.

"Sometimes my desire for new material has almost got me in serious trouble. One day in New York, watching the youngsters come out of a public school, I noticed a tiny colored girl whose face was beautiful, whose eyes were just wonderful. I went home with her and asked her mother if I might have her for a while to paint.

"The mother consented—but no sooner had we got out of sight than she raised a great commotion and had her whole neighborhood out to find us again. She had just happened to think I might be a bad bold kidnaper!"

Of course, it all came out all right in the end, and Miss Bernstein later exhibited the portrait of the little colored child among other paintings at the Independent Artists' Exhibit at the Grand Central Palace in New York.

"Oh, but I must tell you this," she confided yesterday, as an afterthought. "When my 'ideal picture of Roosevelt was awarded the prize, the first person to telegraph me was that wonderful man who played "De Lawd' in 'Green Pastures. I painted him once, you know.

"De Lawd said now I had done Roosevelt, he was well pleased at the thought that his own portrait was by 'a painter of precedence.'"

Underwood & Underwood.

Dr. Allen Defends School Fund Plan

North Carolina Institutions Supported Out of State Treasury.

Raleigh, N. C., Dec. 20 (AP).—"The State-wide eight months school term supported out of the State treasury without the imposition of an ad valorem tax is a new departure in school maintenance," Dr. A. T. Allen, State superintendent of public instruction, declared yesterday.

"It is still in the experimental stage so far as its operation is concerned. The foundation, however, on which it rests seems to be substantial and permanent. Its establishment prevented a total collapse of the rural system this year.

"It is a masterful achievement for a State to keep open the schoolhouse door in every district throughout a financial disturbance such as we have had in this country.

"This accomplishment is all the more impressive when we consider the fact that the money for its support was set up in the midst of the greatest money debacle in our history, with the banks all closed and business at a complete standstill.

"No man could see a day ahead, yet we took a chance and won.

"The great purpose of the public school is to keep liberalism alive in the world, and to minister to what Jefferson called the 'illimitable freedom of the human mind.'

"The premier of Italy says liberalism is dead. If the public schools of this country, without a struggle, permit the spirit of liberalism to pass in America, then they will not deserve to live."

No End of Books

A Christmas Gift for All the Young-Hearted, Stephen Vincent and Rosemary Carr Benet's, "A Book of Americans."

"She had the Appleton mouth, it seemed,
And the Appleton way of riding.
But when she sorrowed and if she dreamed
Something came out from hiding . . .
And the love they had was as bright and brief
As the dance of the gilded maple leaf."

Very little poetry in our times has equaled the intense and peculiarly American magic of "John Brown's Body." This fingerful of lines, very simple as they are, holds something as precious as the remembrance of a fine day's journey as a boy, or of first love. Stephen Vincent Benet can create personal nostalgia. Perhaps that is the spring of poetry.

But looking into "A Book of Americans" (Farrar & Rinehart, $2) one must not expect that same quality. It was written with a totally different intention. Mr. Benet and his wife, Rosemary Carr Benet, have merely "done over" a number of American historical characters and incidents into verse, for the ears of children and all adults capable of the child's point of view. With flowing, cheerful and often humorous rhymes they catch the memorable aspects of most of our heroes from Columbus to Woodrow Wilson. Pocahontas, Miles Standish, Capt. Kidd, Washington, Jefferson, Franklin, Lincoln, Lee, Grant, Roosevelt—these one might have expected. But one comes with surprise, and a kind of enlarged pleasure that they should be the subjects of verse, upon Cotton Mather, J. J. Audubon, the bird lover; Crawford Long and William Morton, the first men to operate with anesthetics; Daniel Drew, grasping financier of the time of Gould and Fisk; Walter Reed, and the Wright brothers. Yet these men are part of American history, and a child should learn of them. In so pleasant a fashion as the Benets bring them forward, this will be a delight.

The book is neatly gauged for the young. The last verse about David "Damn the Torpedoes" Farragut, runs this way:

"And while 'damn,' as you know,
Is a word to eschew—
He knew when to say it—
So few people do."

But the verses are by no means burdened with parental admonitions.

I said that the book lacked the poetic quality of "John Brown's Body"—and justifiably. Yet the poem about "Negro Spirituals" is full of the true Benet spirit. And another is worth quotation:

Nancy Hanks: 1784-1818.

"If Nancy Hanks
Came back as a ghost,
Seeking news
Of what she loved most,
She'd ask first
'Where's my son?
What's happened to Abe?
What's he done?

"'Poor little Abe,
Except for Tom,
Who's a rolling stone;
He was only nine
The year I died.
I remember still
How hard he cried.

"'Scraping along
In a little shack,
With hardly a shirt
To cover his back,
And a prairie wind
To blow him down,
Or pinching times
If he went to town.

"'You wouldn't know
About my son?
Did he grow tall?
Did he have fun?
Did he learn to read?
Did he get to town?
Do you know his name?
Did he get on?'"

That, in its simpler way, should stand with Edgar Lee Master's lines on the mother of Lincoln.

The book is profusely illustrated by Charles Child. Some of the drawings seem a little rough and florid. Exuberantly overdone, they follow the tradition of the Harvard Lampoon. Mr. Child was one of its best artists around 1927. Other drawings, notably the portrait of Clara Barton and the sketch of John Quincy Adams swimming in the Potomac followed by a boatload of astounded Supreme Court justices, are just about perfect.

"The Book of Americans," filled with gorgeous color and narrative, makes me wish I had a hundred copies to give to all the young-hearted people I know.

THEODORE HALL.

What Today Means

"Sagittarius."

If December 21 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 1:15 p. m. and from 7:35 to 8:35 p. m. The danger periods are from 9:30 to 10:45 a. m., from 2:45 to 3:15 p. m. and from 10:10 to 11:20 p. m.

People generally will resent the authority of others and will go out of their way to buck them. If you feel that the only way to get things done is by forcing them through, it would seem advisable to wait until another day; too much antagonism would be stirred up otherwise and would prove injurious in the future.

If December 21 is the date of your birth, you are more than likely a person who will live and love wisely and well. The best of everything will seem to gravitate your way and people will go out of their way to do you a good turn. You are not one to overplay your good fortune, and your success is due very largely to the fact that you are always striving to accomplish good and to do what is right. Regardless of what line of work you are in, you will place more emphasis on the human relations that exist therein than in the actual work itself. Nothing is of importance to you unless it offers the opportunity to come in contact with other people, and as you go along through the day there is hardly a moment but what you make life more pleasant for someone else.

Born on December 21, you are a hard worker. You devote much time to your duties and you are thorough in all that you do. You are alert and seldom do you fail to meet every situation in its entirety. You are a thinker and when an emergency occurs, you are invariably the one to meet it. You go about your work in a quiet and modest manner, quite unassuming, but you accomplish much. You treat all people alike and this regardless of their sex.

Cranberries Blossom Into Candy Class

As Christmas Confection They Make Garnish or Gift.

Have you ever tried making candied cranberries as a Christmas confection? They look something like candied cherries when they're finished, and can be used in aobut the same ways. On winter desserts they make an attractive garnish, and also in sauces and salads. Or they can be eaten as a sweet just as they are, or packed in a decorative box for a Christmas gift. When properly candied they should be bright, firm, plump and semitransparent. The secret of making them so lies in heating them and cooling them in sirup three different times. Be sure to use a saucepan large enough to allow 'all the berries to float on the surface during cooking. And be sure to heat the berries very gradually in the sirup so the skins won't burst before they absorb the sirup.

For each pound of cranberries use 3 cups of sugar and 2 cups of water. Select large, firm, perfect cranberries and wash and drain them. Then make two or three slits in each berry with the point of a paring knife. Boil the sugar and water together until it is clear. Then let the sirup cool. Add the berries. Bring the sirup slowly to the boiling point. Remove from the stove and let the berries stand again in the sirup overnight. They'll absorb sirup as they stand. Next day drain the sirup from the berries and cook it down until it is thick. Let it cool. Add the berries and again heat the mixture slowly. Cook gently for three or four minutes. Then allow the berries to stand in the sirup for two hours or more. Finally put the saucepan on for the third time and cook slowly for five minutes. Let the berries stand again overnight in the sirup. Next day warm the mixture just enough to let it pour easily. Drain the berries from the sirup. Spread them on a rack covered with cheesecloth to dry. Store them in a tightly covered jar.

You can use the drained sirup to accompany pancakes or waffles, as a pudding sauce or as a sweetener for fruit drinks.

How to Keep Well

It seems probable there is a method of treatment of Buerger's disease that relieves the pain and spasm in the leg muscles, makes possible more walking and other leg work, and prevents attacks. There is evidence that it can cure some cases. The indications are good that it is superior to other methods. This new treatment consists in injecting a specially prepared sterile solution of pancreatin. The amount injected is about 45 drops, designated by physicians as 30 units.

This method of treatment is especially valuable in those cases in which the spasms and pain in the muscles of the lower leg are the outstanding symptoms. In a series of clinical tests by Dr. G. M. Roth and associates it was found that an hour or two after taking an injection of pancreatic extract a person subject to intermittent claudication could walk a fair distance without spasm or pain.

The treatment, given daily for some time, appeared to cure, in a sense, one case. The theory is that in intermittent claudication the muscles make more waste than the blood and lymph vessels can promptly drain away. The presence of this waste is responsible for the cramping. The pancreatic extract makes it possible to keep the muscle cleared of waste.

If it is true, as seems likely, that the cramping stage in Buerger's is seldom reached until after the blood vessels of the lower leg have been badly damaged, the remedy promises more by way of relief of attacks and easing pain than by way of cure.

It is well to recall that heat cramps resulting from excessive sweating are prevented or cured by the use of salt by injection or added to drinking water. Night cramps due to cold feet and legs might be benefited by the pancreatic extract injection.

This pancreatic extract used for the relief of spasms of intermittent claudication is not the only pancreatic substance in use as a remedy in diseases of the group to which Buerger's belongs. One called kallekrein, was found to be capable of reducing blood pressure and dilating small blood vessels. A related product is called adosan or adosan phosphoric acid. These may find a place in the treatment of Raynaud's disease, frostbite and sensitization to cold. There may be a field for it in high blood pressure.

Boy Seeks World Unity Through Art

Denver, Dec. 20.—A Nebraska youth whose talent for dancing and painting led to three world tours as partner of the immortal Pavlowa and a portrait sitting by Mussolini plans to pursue his artistic career abroad as soon as he can sell one of his collections.

Born near Rushville, in the northwestern part of the State, Hubert Stowitts lived later in the back hills and then in California, where he was educated. His father was a Government agent on the Pine Ridge Indian Reservation near Chadron, Nebr.

In Denver to exhibit 150 of his paintings of India, Stowitts told of his ambition to "create a closer relation between the nations of the world through art." To this end he would like to spend 20 years in other countries, traveling first to the almost inaccessible region between Tibet and India.

Stowitts' collection of India paintings in the Milwaukee Art Museum has been valued by some experts at $500,000.

The dancer-painter's terpischorean talent first attracted notice, he said, when he appeared in the music box revue in New York.

Wise Woman Plans Ahead This Week

Otherwise Christmas Day May Find Many Things Undone.

This is almost certainly the busiest week in the whole year for the housewife. Three meals a day—last minute shopping, wrapping and mailing and forehanded preparation for Christmas dinner and perhaps a party or two fill every minute.

Since there are three fast days this week it will be easy to fill in the week's menus with some of the many appealing fish and seafood dishes which this week's market makes possible. Why not serve oysters at least once? Some people like an oyster stew, some fried or escalloped oysters, some creamed oysters in short cake or patty shells and some plain panned oysters.

To help Santa Claus fill Christmas stockings there are shiny red apples, juicy oranges, yellow bananas and loose skinned tangerines. These fruits, together with grapefruit, emperor grapes and nuts and possibly a spiny topped pineapple will also make a gay fruit centerpiece for the table.

When you are serving fluffy white mashed potatoes a colorful second vegetable helps to make your dinner service more appetizing. The outstanding green vegetables available are spinach, broccoli, green beans and peas and Brussels sprouts. Carrots, rutabaga turnips and winter squash come in shades of yellow and orange and beets offer a warm crimson.

At present tomatoes are relatively scarce and expensive. Lettuce is cheap, so that you can serve your family hearts of lettuce with a dressing which combines chili sauce or catsup with salad dressing and chopped olives for a pleasant change. Celery is fine in quality and plentiful. The relish dish of celery and olives deserves a more frequent place on your dinner table than Sundays and holidays, but is never omitted on Christmas if one can judge by market demands.

Mushrooms are not important from the standpoint of nourishment but they add greatly to the flavor and attractiveness of many dishes. Sauteed whole or sliced they go perfectly with steak if you do not insist on onions instead.

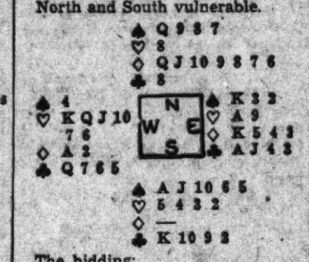
Saving Partner a Guess.

A strong Contract player will not only make the correct plays and correct discards in defending against opposing contracts, but will also play the defense in such a manner as to make his partner's play much easier. Whenever one partner is in a position to know from his own hand the winning line of play, he should then direct the line of defense and do everything ethically possible to make the line of play evident to his partner. In today's hand, South capitalized on a slight slip by Declarer and carefully outlined the subsequent defense so that his partner could not possibly go wrong.

West, Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.



The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1♡	Pass	2NT	Pass
3♡	Pass	3NT	Pass
4♡	Pass	Pass	Pass

North, with an almost hopeless-looking hand, quite properly decided to open his singleton club despite the fact that he held only one trump, figuring that a ruff was probably the only hope. Declarer distinctly erred at this point in not playing the hand safe for four-odd by going up with the Ace of clubs; instead he played low from the Dummy, South winning the trick with the King.

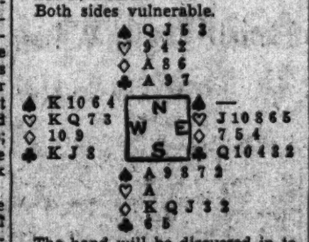
South could now, of course, be fairly certain that his partner had led a singleton club. From the bidding, however, he was able to reason that his partner probably had but one trump and therefore could be given one ruff only. To defeat the contract, he realized that he would have to get a ruff of a diamond. If he immediately returned a club he knew North would now have no guess whether to lead spades or diamonds. Either lead, of course, would put South in again immediately; but South further decided that if his count on the hand was correct, he would not be able to give North a second ruff, and unless a diamond was returned, only three tricks could be taken.

South, therefore, before returning a club, made the very fine play of laying down his Ace of spades, setting up the King in Dummy. He now returned the club, which North trumped with his singleton heart. North stopped in turn and took thought. Obviously, from the bidding, South's spade Ace could not have been a singleton. Why, therefore, should South play this card, setting up the King in Dummy, unless he wished to convey a very definite message to his partner? North quite properly decided this message as indicating that South wanted a diamond lead. He laid down his Queen of diamonds and South ruffed for the fourth and setting trick. One foolish move by Declarer had proved fatal, due to South's careful play.

Tomorrow's Hand.

How should West defend this hand against a contract of six spades by South?

South, Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.



The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

Washington Women in Welfare Work

Mrs. Reginald S. Huidekoper Devotes Full Time to Community Chest.

"Mrs. Huidekoper is not in. You can probably communicate with her through the Community Chest." Such is the information that greets anyone who telephones Mrs. Reginald S. Huidekoper any time after the annual organization meeting of the special gifts unit of the Community Chest at campaign time. She is one of the Chest's most indefatigable workers because, as she explains, "I am really interested in all the 60 organigations in the Chest and I feel that I can best help them all by devoting my time to the Chest, which finances them."

Mrs. Huidekoper has had varied interests in welfare work in Washington and has been a member of a number of boards, but her welfare work at present, through the year, is as a member of the board of directors of Emergency Hospital, to which she gives all possible time.

"As a member of the board of directors of Emergency Hospital, it is natural that I feel it very essential that the Community Chest should make its quota," she says, "but my interest does not stop with that hospital. I have been on the boards of Children's Hospital and Instructive Visiting Nurse Society. My interest in them and in every member organization of the Chest is as keen as for Emergency.

"Because I can not give the time to working for each of the organizations in which I am interested, I group them together in doing what I can, as a Community Chest worker, to help Washingtonians fill our chest, without which the organizations can not continue to operate."

Gifts of Smart, Smaller Rugs Both Practical and Luxurious

Directed by Amos Parrish

Rugs of the type described below are available in Washington in all the better-class shops.

New York, Dec. 21.—Practical gifts are a good idea all right. But the practical gift which is also a luxury is perfect. And small rugs are like that. Practical, certainly, for filling empty spots and for making a contrasting accent over a plain carpet. But a luxury, too, since it's large rugs most folk buy first.

One of the newest ideas is to have rugs made up in special designs expressive of one's own ideas. This is accomplished by ordering a rug in one of those weaves which can have pieces cut out and contrasting pieces inserted and still look as though it had been woven that way.

These are splendid for odd shaped spaces or for bathrooms, dressing rooms or a room where a special color scheme is wanted.

For Bathrooms.

A bathroom rug can be a very welcome gift. Much in fashion are the rough, deep-pile, handhooked wool rugs in off-white, henna, rose, brown, blue and modern shades.

Washable cottons may be had in any of the pastels and with many types of designs suggestive of bathroom decoration.

"Scatter" rugs can be given for practically any room. The aristocrats of this type are, of course, the real orientals in Persian designs.

Cozy Fur Rugs.

A most unusual rug gift . . . and one which has many possibilities . . . is the fur rug in white or black. Its usual resting place is before the fireplace or cozily beside the bed. But it makes a grand soft rug for the nursery. And in black has a sturdy masculine look appropriate for a man's den.

Real hooked rugs and rugs made of carpeting which looks handhooked are a popular gift type for bedroom or Colonial living room. And for boys' and girls' rooms they are ideal.

Smaller children have their rugs, too, with fascinating nursery rhyme figures performing upon them. One is illustrated and the other sketches show a hooked pattern, a Persian scatter rug and a fur rug.

If you feel in the rug-making mood (not for Christmas, of course, but for afterward), let us send you our popular directions for making a crocheted rug which looks like an old-time braided one. Done with crepe paper (and it wears like iron!) it makes an inexpensive bit of decoration. The coupon and requested enclosures will bring you the directions.

Connie Bennett Cool To New York Critics

New York (AP).—Criticism of the spotlight tactics of first nighters brought an incident two seasons ago which created a diplomatic breach between Constance Bennett and the Manhattan press.

Attending one premiere, the blonde movie star made such a late and dramatic entrance that it drew the attention of the audience entirely away from the play. The Broadway reporters were not too kind in their remarks about Miss Bennett in their columns the next morning.

She has never quite forgiven them for their criticism.

Woollcott Complains Against "Young Women"

New York (AP).—Alexander Woollcott's complaint is that the theater is too full of young women. "Of course," he goes on, "there is nothing more beautiful than a young woman, but these have been young too long."

One of the new mystery "horror" plays has eight murders in its three acts. As one critic said, "Corpses passed back of the footlights at a speed of eight knots."

Cottons Gather For Attack on Fashion Front

In Laces and Prints, They've Already Taken the Southern Resorts.

Dark cottons with light all-over designs, cotton laces, India prints, chintzes, seersuckers and chambrays, already in the style swim at various fashionable Southern resorts, show every sign of traveling northward in the springtime. Yellow, in shades ranging from lemon to pumpkin, is scattered all over the landscape. This would not be surprising a little later in the season when women have acquired a sun tan. But this is the first time in a number of years that yellow has put in such an early appearance.

India prints are used mostly for sports clothes. Their interesting colors and exotic designs make especially attractive three-quarter length coats and pajamas as well as delightful straight-line frocks. Chintz is at its best in short jackets to be worn over monotone dresses. Other gay little jackets are made of printed cottons that have been quilted. This quilting makes it possible to achieve trim, tailored lines.

The majority of the cotton laces are woven in large, rough patterns, many of them having pique-like ridges. These are used extensively for dresses and blouses.

Seersucker, in novelty weaves, makes plastrons to be tied around the waist and fastened about the neck with a cord. Matching seersucker hats have large floppy brims and fairly high crowns. Chambray is also used for hats, usually the straight-brimmed sailor type. Some are trimmed with old-fashioned ticking bands or applique in geometric designs.

New Stage Act Tentative for Week of Jan. 5

Doris Kenyon Earle Star; Van Dyke Xmas Legend; Austria Protests.

Whatever pause may be observed in the procession of brilliant attractions across the screens and stages of the Capital's theaters during the Yuletide lull, the coming of the New Year will mark a resumption of the the "big parade" of notable offerings.

With the National's plans slightly confused by the petulant withdrawal of Joe Cook in "Hold Your Horses" by the Shuberts, in retaliation for what they deem the "smart aleck" transgressions of an afternoon contemporary, there still are stage stars in the offing who will enlist the eager interest of a majority of theatergoers—and for widely variant reasons. Two of the foremost of these, by an odd chance, are booked for simultaneous appearances the week of January 5—one at Loew's Fox, the other at the Warner Brothers' Earle.

Max Baer, foremost contender for the heavyweight pugilistic championship of the world, and the one dimpled Adonis the ring has contributed to the stage in recent years, is the tentative attraction for the January 5 week at the Fox. Doris Kenyon, one of the most charming and most versatile stars of the cinema and concert stage, is the artiste coming to the Earle.

Baer Bulling the Market.

Having made an overnight hit—and a most unexpected one—in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's production of the "The Prizefighter and the Lady," with Myrna Loy, Walter Huston and Otto Kruger, Baer is now appearing with equal success in a stage skit, with songs and dances, on the Loew time in New York. City Manager Carter Barron, of the Loew interests in this city, having already been on the long distance wire with New York in an effort to secure the "Jewish Valentino," as he has been dubbed by an imaginative sports columnist, it is a matter of reasonable assurance that he will be here on the January date mentioned.

Miss Kenyon, widow of Milton Sills, one of the screens most popular heroes, and herself an artiste equally at home before the cameras and microphones, on the concert stage as both singer and pianist and on the dramatic stage as an actress of serious roles, for her tour of personal appearances has chosen to offer what she terms "Lyric Silhouettes."

Unique Repertoire.

Her repertoire is reputed to cover a wide range of delicately etched characterizations presented in a half-dozen or more foreign languages and dialects. Her costumes are exquisitely fashioned creations—according to the handsome brochure which precedes her to the Capital—making each of her numbers a vivid, living portrait, whether it be the romantic lace and frills of "Columbetta," the roguish tatters of "Jean Bete," or the sensuous tight-fitting waist and skirt of the Harlem belle in "That Soothin' Song."

And speaking of Walter Huston, as we were indirectly in connection with Master Baer, the Thespian-fisticuffer, current grapevine report has it that he will trudge along to the National in due course—meaning some time in February, probably—in a Sidney Howard dramatization of Sinclair Lewis' novel of "Dodsworth," in which it is being bruited about Fay Bainter also will appear. This will be the first appearance of either of them on a local stage in many, many months—barring Mr. Huston's brief personal appearance at RKO-Keith's during the recent filming of "Rodney" at Fort Myer—and will be proportionately welcomed by an avid, drama-hungry populace.

So now you know something of the silver lining of the present theatrical cloud.

Jed Harris, pleased with the present state of perfection of his production of "The Lake," starring Katharine Hepburn, with Blanche Bates and Frances Starr in support at the National, and elated by its warm reception in the National Capital, left Washington for New York last evening at 7. After a hurried errand or two not wholly unrelated to the forthcoming engagement of "The Lake" on Broadway, Mr. Harris will return to this city late today.

The Van Dyke Legend.

For the past eight years Dr. Henry Van Dyke's legend of the Christmas season, "The Other Wise Man," has been given here at Luther Place Memorial Church during the holiday season as part of the Capital City's celebration of the Yuletide. It will be presented again this year on December 27, 28 and 29, at 8:30 each evening, with practically the same players as have taken part in previous productions.

The opening episode of the drama, laid in the dwelling of Artaban, the Median—wherein he sees the "sign in the sky" and departs on his lifelong journey to find the King—is enacted by the men who have played in it for six years—Irving L. Koch, as Abgarus, the father of Artaban; Herman P. Riess, as Tigranes; Dr. Clifton P. Clark, as Abdus; Frank A. Burger, as Marsena, and George W. Gates, as Rhodaspes.

The leading role of Artaban will this year be assumed by George Farrington who has come to the city to appear in this role, from Charlotte, N. C. Mr. Farrington will follow in the footsteps of such well-known actors as Walter Beck, Denis E. Connell and Maurice Jarvis, in the part of the "other wise man" in the Van Dyke legend.

Notable Local Cast.

Thomas M. Cahill, prominent in many important drama events in the city, will appear in the role of the Hebrew rabbi, for the second year; Robert Walten, one of the newcomers in Washington's drama circles, will appear as The Voice, in the drama's climax at the Damascus Gate in Jerusalem; Carl Carlson, of the Washington Community Players, and other popular groups here, will be the Hebrew Exile, who tells Artaban where to look for the Christ-Child.

The role of the Roman captain will be played by Edeard Eberly, who has appeared in this part in every presentation; and that of the Parthian Slave Girl, by Judy Lyeth, who created the role in 1925, when it was first played here.

Bess Davis Schreiner, who arranged the Washington version used each season, is general director.

As is the annual custom, the public is invited to attend the presentations. The church doors will be open at 7 o'clock each night.

If the week of January 5 is too far to look ahead for diverting entertainment, it might be of interest to know that M-G-M's 14-star production of "Dinner at Eight," will be available at regular picture house prices the week of December 29, and that Julia Sanderson and Frank Crumit, at Loew's Fox, will be in competition with Ben Bernie and all the boys, on the stage at Warners' Earle the same week.

"Dissolution in Vienna."

Under a Vienna date line, it became known in this country yesterday that the Austrian government has placed an embargo on all Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer films until that company's picturization of Robert E. Sherwood's play of "Reunion in Vienna" has been withdrawn from the screens of the world.

The portrayal of the Hapsburg prince in the American film company's picture was described as offensive to Austrian sensibilities.

The film was produced some time ago when any one in Culver City or Vienna could "kid" the Hapsburgs—former ruling house of Austria—without limit. In fact, to ridicule the Hapsburgs was the favorite amusement of socialist Vienna newspapers then.

But times have changed, with vague references recently to the possibility of the govrnment's veering toward a monarchy, and it is popular now to kid the Republican government of Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss.

Ban to Be Lifted?

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer officials said yesterday they expected that the embargo will be speedily lifted.

At the office of Arthur Loew, head of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer foreign department, it was said the difficulty started in Rio de Janeiro. The Austrian envoy to Brazil saw the film there, officials said, and protested to the film company.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer officials in Rio de Janeiro discussed the matter with the envoy, it was said, and agreed to his request for certain changes in the film.

The envoy now is completely satisfied, the film company said, but apparently his message that the matter had been adjusted has not yet reached his superiors in Austria.

Fortunately, there is no ban on any of the following:

Paramount Has "Alice" Ready For Christmas

For the holiday week, commencing Saturday, Warner Bros. Metropolitan will offer "Alice in Wonderland," the filmization of Lewis Carroll's immortal fantasy with Charlotte Henry in the title role. Paramount's film version is an exact reproduction of the two famous fantasies, "Alice's Adventures in Wonderland" and "Through the Looking Glass."

The picture contains seven scenes from "Alice" and seven from "Looking Glass." For the purposes of the film they are woven into one complete story, but the characters and their antics are kept just as Carroll wrote them.

From "Wonderland" are the Rabbit Hole, Hall of Doors, Pool of Tears, Duchess' House, Mad Tea Party, Croquet Game and the Mock Turtle's Story. From "Looking Glass" are Stepping Through the Looking Glass, the Chessmen, Tweedledum and Tweedledee, the Sheep, Humpty Dumpty, the Crowning of Queen Alice and the Banquet.

All of Lewis Carroll's original dialogue is kept in these 14 scenes.

Charlotte Henry, whom Paramount selected from among more than 6,800 applicants for the part, has the title role. More than 40 important Hollywood stars play the parts of the strange people of Mr. Carroll's unique conception.

Among them are Richard Arlen, Roscoe Ates, Gary Cooper, Leon Errol, Louise Fazenda, W. C. Fields, Skeets Gallagher, Cary Grant, Raymond Hatton, Edward Everett Horton, Roscoe Karns, Baby LeRoy, Mae Marsh, Polly Moran, Jack Oakie, Edna May Oliver, May Robson, Charlie Ruggles, Alison Skipworth, Ned Sparks and Ford Sterling.

The program will be completed by a "Popeye the Sailor" comedy cartoon; a Borrah Minnevitch musical novelty and the latest issue of the Paramount Sound News.

A New Borzage Film Comes to Keith's Screen

"Man's Castle," coming to RKO-Keith's tomorrow, has been called "The Seventh Heaven" of talking pictures.

"Seventh Heaven," as will be remembered, was, and still is, hailed as the greatest production of the silent screen. It was directed by Frank Borzage, made stars of Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell, and was counted by the country's critics as one of the ten best productions of 1924.

"Man's Castle" features Spencer Tracy and Loretta Young, already listed among the finest players of the screen. In addition, Mr. Borzage has had years more of experience since he made the silent picture. It is safe to predict, therefore, that "Man's Castle" will do for talking pictures what "Seventh Heaven" did for the silent screen.

In addition to the stellar pair, the cast of "Man's Castle" includes such capable players as Marjorie Rambeau, Walter Connolly, Glenda Farrell and Arthur Hohl.

The new Keith bill also is featuring the first of the Meyer Davis musical shorts, "Hizzoner," which has Bert Lahr in the leading role.

A New Musical And Mr. Lugosi At Loew's Fox

"Sitting Pretty," with Jack Oakie, Jack Haley, Ginger Rogers and Thelma Todd leading a merry-go-round of laughs, music and girls, is the holiday screen lure beginning tomorrow at Loew's Fox Theater.

On the stage, Nate Brusiloff and his orchestra and Bela (Dracula) Lugosi, noted picture mystery man, share the spotlight, along with the Three Sailors, comedy stars of Earl Carroll's "Sketch Book," and Al Gordon's comedy dogs.

Brusiloff is a Washington boy, who has earned wide renown both on the stage and over the radio. Lugosi is that gifted portrayer of gripping characterizations who first stirred the Nation with performance in "Dracula."

"Sitting Pretty," in addition to its talented stars, boasts 80 of Hollywoods prettiest girls, and ten distinct song hits that were composed by the ace team of Harry Revel and Mack Gordon. One of the numbers originally written for the picture, "Did You Ever See a Dream Walking," is the most sensational melody to capture the public imagination this year.

Jack Oakie and Jack Haley are seen as a pair of songwriters who can write good tunes but who have a tough time selling their compositions. They ultimately sell a hit and then crash Hollywood where they encounter endless girl trouble and difficulties of all kinds. The Pickens Sisters, Arthur Jarrett, the Beverly Hill Billies, Gregory Ratoff and Lew Cody are prominently cast in support.

Phil Lampkin wields the baton over the Fox Orchestra in a special holiday overture. News events and short subjects complete the holiday week's entertainment.

Screen Comedy And Four Acts Bill at Earle

A joyous holiday program has been arranged for the week commencing tomorrow at Warner Bros. Earle Theater, with Joe E. Brown, wide-mouthed comic, on the screen in "Son of a Sailor" and a stage show headed by Charlie Ahearn and his Millionaires, a 20-minute laughfest.

"Son of a Sailor" is said to be the most laugh-provoking vehicle ever assigned to Joe E. Brown. It is a comedy of Navy life which carries its hero from his sailor's hammock aboard an aircraft carrier of the Pacific Fleet, to misadventures in a wealthy home ashore, and back again to the decks of the warship. Quite by accident, "Handsome" Callahan, played by Brown, wins not only personal triumphs during his brief and eventful shore leave, but saves from alien conspirators the plans of an epochal aircraft invention. His shore leave ends in triumph for this humble gob, even though he is convinced that he is headed for the brig and a bread and water diet.

The star's supporting cast for "Son of a Sailor" is led by such screen notables as Johnny Mack Brown, Thelma Todd, Jean Muir—the new First National "discovery"—Frank McHugh, Sheila Terry, Kenneth Thomson, George Blackwood and Myrna Kennedy.

Heading the holiday stage activities are Charlie Ahearn and his Millionaires, supplemented by Harry Ross and Eddie Edwards, with Johnny Convey, in "Delirious Moments;" Four Mullins Sisters, Harmony Beauties, Virginia Bacon and her High Hat Boys, in "The Dance of the Hours," and Audrey Sieber, mistress of ceremonies.

The program will be completed by newsreel and a special overture, "Yuletide Memories," by the Earle Orchestra, with Freddie Clark conducting.

Yuletide Bill At the Palace Widely Varied

Marion Davies and Bing Crosby flash new and appealing screen personalities in that gay, sparkling musical comedy "Going Hollywood," which is the yuletide week's attraction, starting tomorrow, at Loew's Palace Theater.

"Going Hollywood" is a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, directed by Raoul Walsh, from an original story by the picture colony's highest paid writer, Frances Marion. Donald Ogden Stewart, a humorist of National renown, wrote the screen play.

It is a story of a vivacious school teacher of a girls' seminary who becomes terribly smitten with a voice she has heard over the radio. In quest of love, life and this enthralling voice, she journeys to Hollywood, where she experiences all sorts of amusing adventures.

Miss Davies has never been more beautifully photographed and is given an opportunity to display a variety of talents, while Bing Crosby not only is heard singing five appealing new melodies, but exhibits an ease and a new personality that he has never before known on the screen.

Five songs have been especially written for this lavish entertainment by Nacio Herb Brown and Arthur Freed.

Fifi D'Orsay, Stuart Erwin, Ned Sparks and Patsy Kelly add comedy with their supporting antics.

"The Night Before Christmas," one of the most colorful and tuneful of Walt Disney's Silly Symphonies; "Goofy Movie," a novelty subject, an M-G-M comedy and a newsreel are added.

Elkins City Hall Planned.

Elkins, W. Va., Dec. 20 (Spl.).—The erection of a new city building in Elkins with Civil Works Administration funds is being considered by a joint committee of the city council and the American Legion.

C. W. A. grants for public works of this kind are made with the stipulation that 80 per cent of the Federal funds be paid for labor, and 20 per cent may be used for the purchase of materials.

Kidnap Racket Subject of an Exciting Film

Filmdom's first attempt to reveal the inner workings of the kidnap racket is dramatically brought to Loew's Columbia screen tomorrow in "The Mad Game," which features Spencer Tracy, Claire Trevor and Ralph Morgan.

Spencer Tracy portrays the part of a former gangster who is double-crossed by former associates and is railroaded to prison for a five-year term.

During his stay in the "stir" his former aides terrorize the country with a new racket—kidnaping. Tracy is released from prison to assist the Government in wiping out the new dread. His intimacy with the underworld enables him to secure the evidence with which to convict the kidnapers and rescue the ring's latest victims.

"The Mad Game" is a dramatic, pulsating picturization that Irving Cummings directed for Fox Film from the original screen play by William Conselman and Henry Johnson.

John Miljan, J. Carrol Naish, Howard Lally, Matt McHugh, Kathleen Burke, Mary Mason, Willard Robertson, Paul Fix and Jerry Devine are in support.

Paramount News, a novelty short subject and a two-reel comedy are added features on the Christmas week program.

Manhole Spouts Sparks, Flames and Smoke As Short Circuit Disrupts Rush Hour Traffic

A short circuit in an electric conduit at Connecticut avenue and I streets northwest last night sent flames and smoke billowing high in the air. Firemen are shown in the upper photo battling the fire with sand. Below, power company employes pour sand into flaming manhole.

6,510 Volts Run Wild, Stall Trolleys, Put Homes in Darkness.

Traffic was disrupted, homes and business establishments were plunged in darkness and hundreds of spectators were attracted to Connecticut avenue and I street northwest last night, when an electric conduit short-circuit sent spurts of flame high into the air. Four cables carrying a total of 6,510 volts were shorted.

Vehicular traffic was rerouted and street cars on both Connecticut and New York avenues were halted more than 20 minutes. An extra flow of heavy electric voltage, thrown into house wires throughout the section, damaged electric refrigerators at the Army and Navy Hotel.

The blaze was discovered by a passerby. As manhole covers were removed flames leaped into the air and heavy smoke settled over the streets. Firemen and power company employes battled nearly half an hour to control the fire. Pressure of burning gases blew a manhole cover several feet into the air. Sand was used to combat the flames, while emergency cables were used to supplement burning lines.

Power on the Connecticut avenue line was off between Dupont Circle and Seventeenth street, and cars crowded with home-bound passengers were backed up from Seventeenth street to Fourteenth, until buses were provided to take the passengers across the gap. Street lights for a block around the manhole were out.

Sand and chemicals were used in attempts to extinguish the fire, but it burned until current had been cut off. Officials of the power company immediately began to lay emergency cables. Origin of the short-circuit was unknown, but electricians thought it might have been due to faulty insulation of the cables.

Traffic Police Probe Assured By Committee

Chairman Thomas States Judge's Charges Will be Investigated.

A thorough inquiry into the charges of Judge John P. McMahon that Washington's motorcycle and automobile patrol police are not active enough in enforcing traffic regulations was promised yesterday by Edward W. Thomas, assistant corporation counsel, appointed chairman of a special investigating committee.

Thomas will be assisted by Maj. E. W. Brown, superintendent of police, and Stanley De Neale, assistant corporation counsel.

Commissioner Melvin C. Hazen said he will favor any improvement of traffic conditions.

Judge McMahon, in a memorandum to the Commissioners, stated that within 14 months the 50 motorcycle policemen and the 38 auto patrol men had made the following average daily arrests:

Speeding cases, 15; drunk driving, passing a street car, bad brakes, and leaving the scene of collision, less than 1 each; lack of driving permits, 5; reckless driving, 2.

These policemen draw salaries aggregating $150,000, said the judge, in asking what citizens of Washington are getting for this expenditure.

"It is common knowledge," he said, "that there is more speeding on our streets today than ever before."

Woman Indicted in Slaying.

A charge of first degree murder was placed yesterday against Sarah Wims, colored, 32, after the District grand jury had indicted her for the killing of Mabel Snyder, also colored, at 909 Sixth street southeast, last month.

$500,000 Slash Likely in D. C. Electric Rates

Commission Will Begin Public Hearing Here on January 18.

The Public Utilities Commission yesterday scheduled its annual public hearing on electric rate reductions to begin January 18, with expectation that consumers may save close to $500,000 in 1934.

Despite the fact that rates charged by the Potomac Electric Power Co. have been reduced steadily for the last nine years under a sliding scale arrnagement, the company has continued to make extra profits. These have been divided between the company and consumers.

This year the householder who uses electricity rather generously is likely to benefit more than ever, as the commission is inclined to make rate slashes where they may count most. It is likely that the initial rate of 3.9 cents for the first 50 kilowatt hours monthly will be cut little or not at all, but the higher brackets in household rates may be reduced substantially.

The household schedule above 50 kilowatts is now 3.6 cents for the second 50 kilowatt hours, 2.9 cents for the third 50 and 2 cents an hour for all in excess of that amount.

Householders will receive a larger share of the excess profit this year as there will be no repetition of the reduction in street-lighting rates. This took $150,000 of the $500,000 fund last year.

Transfer of the 3 per cent Federal tax from consumer to the power company, effected last fall, will cut into the excess profits only slightly this year, but more substantially next year. It is estimated at $200,000.

Just what effect the street railway merger will have on the power company's earnings is problematical. Revenue from the sale of power to the railways will be increased, but the Potomac company's overhead expenses also have risen slightly.

Auto Driver Cleared In Death of Woman

The District grand jury yesterday exonerated Lloyd Van Kirk of the charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of Eugenia Donohoe, 80 years old, who died after being struck by Van Kirk's automobile November 3, at Third street and Pennsylvania avenue southeast.

Death House in Packed Jail Becomes Mess Hall for 200

Congestion is so severe at the District Jail that inmates are obliged to eat meals in full view and within a few feet of the spot in which condemned men are executed.

The so-called "death chamber" is not a separate apartment, but a part of the mess hall, flanking the cell block for prisoners charged with lesser crimes. The impression left by the electric chair is clearly discernible on the cement floor at the end of the hall, a few feet from the edge of the table. The transmission lines for the death chair can be seen against the wall.

On execution days, men in the cell block are removed to another part of the jail. The electric chair is brought in and attached to the floor and wall fixtures. This usually takes place between breakfast and lunch. As soon as the execution is over, the chair is removed, the tables are put back in place and laid for the midday meal and the prisoners are returned to their cells.

An average of 200 prisoners have their meals every day in this mess hall. The arrangement is unavoidable because of lack of space in the jail, according to Supt. Thomas H. Rives.

Murderers will continue to be executed in the mess hall until the jail is enlarged or a new one built, the superintendent said. An application has been made to the Public Works Administration for $1,200,000 for a new jail.

Doctor Takes Court Stand In Death Trial

Street Explains Cancer Salve, Says It Cured Hundreds.

Disputes State Experts on Tests to Find Out Disease.

A defense of the use of a "cancer salve," which the State contends caused the death of a patient, was made yesterday by Dr. Harry R. Street, 69, of Washington, on trial in Rockville on a manslaughter charge growing out of the death of Mrs. Cora Britton, of Mays Landing, N. J.

The preparation has cured hundreds of patients with tumorous growths, Dr. Street testified, adding that the use of zinc chloride in the treatment of cancer is recommended by medical textbooks.

In fact, he said, some medical books recommend a solution of 50 per cent zinc chloride, while his preparation contained only 33 1-3 per cent.

Studied Salve Long Time.

The salve was perfected, he said, after a lengthy investigation of medical works and by prolonged experimentation. Healthy tissue, he said, is irritated by the compound, but in his treatments he shielded the healthy skin with a protective covering.

Dr. Street, who is charged jointly with Dr. Sherwood Ferris, of Chevy Chase, admitted he did not know the appearance of a cancer cell. Neither does he have a microscope nor an X-ray, he said, adding that the microscopic test for determining whether a growth is cancerous "has not proved satisfactory to him." This test was described by State medical experts as the "only positive test."

Under cross-examination by State's Attorney Stedman Prescott, Dr. Street contended Mrs. Britton had all the required professional treatment, but said her removal from his sanitarium when she was suffering from pleurisy was a grave mistake.

Other Deaths Related.

The physician admitted he had treated Mrs. Ida Cooksey, of Takoma Park, for a growth and she died later. He also said Benjamin Quade, of Washington, died after a treatment.

Earlier the defense introduced eight witnesses, who testified that the salve had cured them.

Committee Delays Report on Traffic

Highway Count Summary Revision Ordered.

If you are interested in the number of vehicles using Bladensburg road on Sunday afternoons or the week-day traffic on old Alexandria pike, new figures are ready, but you will have to wait a while for them.

Information on these highways and all others within a radius of 20 miles of Washington, as well as other rtaffic data, is contained in the report presented yesterday to the Washington regional highway committee. It resulted from a 1932 survey made by the Bureau of Public Roads.

The committee, representing Maryland, Virginia and District agencies, decided revisions were necessary, so the report has been referred to the bureau for alteration. It will be made public early next year.

Peace

Ceasar, Anthony to Become One Before Minister.

It is almost 2,000 years since Caesar and Anthony had their famous disagreement, but the breach between the two families has finally been bridged, to judge from a marriage license issued here yesterday.

The license will permit Bright Caesar, 24 years old, of 511 M street northwest, to marry Margaret Anthony, 22, of Angor place northwest. The Rev. R. D. Botts has been chosen to perform the ceremony, the couple stated in requesting a license yesterday.

Huge, Rusty Safe at Capitol Guards Relics Until 1976

Post Staff Photo.

Old Iron Box Stands as Memorial to Idea of Philanthropist.

Rusty and almost forgotten, a big iron safe stands in a secluded place beneath the east portico of the Capitol. Neither money nor jewels ever have found a position behind its doors. Its contents always have been limited to an inkstand, a copy of a sermon, two pens, autograph albums and some photographs of men long since dead.

Few persons have seen the elephantine box since the beginning of the current century, and fewer are familiar with Capitol records which tell how it came by its present location.

Once it stood in Statuary Hall, but that was many years ago. Under terms of an act of Congress, it was banished from that historic chamber, later to be shunted to the exterior of the building.

The safe owes its existence to the pursuit of a novel idea by Mrs. C. F. Deihm, who gained some degree of notability 60 years or 70 years ago by her patriotic writings in New York.

Just before the United States reached its one hundredth birthday, Mrs. Deihm went to Peter Cooper, then famed for his philanthropies, and asked to provide funds with which a safe might be built to hold relics of that time in safety until the celebration of the 200th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. The funds were forthcoming and the safe was built.

On its way to Washington from New York, the oversize coffer and the motley array of objects bestowed to its interior were exhibited at the Centennial Exposition in Philadelphia. The inner doors, made of glass, were closed amid mild ceremony in Statuary Hall on Washington's birthday in 1879. Later the heavy exterior doors were closed. Perhaps they will be forced open in 1976, providing somebody happens to think about it.

Zoning Protest Filed By Property Owners

The proposed change of property on Wisconsin avenue northwest, near Jenifer street, from commercial zone to residential zone was protested in District Supreme Court yesterday.

Donald Woodward and Brainard W. Parker, owners of a lot in that neighborhood, told the Court such a change would rob them of the present commercial value of their property. They ask that the zoning commission be enjoined from effecting the reclassification. Attorneys F. A. Fenning, C. S. Baker and B. L. Tepper represented the petitioners.

Watson's Foe In Inquiry Told To Be Specific

Hazen Wants "Instances, Dates" From Attackers of Fire Chief.

More specific charges must be produced against Fire Chief George S. Watson by Paul E. Jamieson, attorney for the City Fire Fighters Association, if the District Commissioners are to sustain any of the allegations, Melvin C. Hazen, chairman, revealed late yesterday.

Following a conference with Corporation Counsel William W. Bride and his assistant, Edward W. Thomas, Hazen stated he would invite Jamieson to cite "instances and dates" to support his charges.

Hazen intimated the inquiry so far has uncovered nothing to support Jamieson's criticisms.

A report by Thomas, it is understood, accorded approval of Watson's administration.

Baby Car Swells His Trophy List

Wins Drawing Contest From 800 Entries.

Norman Bennett, of 4822 Seventh street northwest, apparently is favored by the goddess of luck.

To his present collection of trophies, which include a radio, a bicycle, golf clubs, and a wire-haired terrier, he yesterday added a junior size automobile.

This trophy came from the Hecht Co., which conducted a contest for the best-colored drawing of the automobile.

Norman's contribution was selected by judges from 800 entries.

Driver of Death Car Free Pending Inquest

Raymond Childress, of 201 Eighth street northeast, driver of an automobile that struck and fatally injured John Darcangelo, 9, of 219 K street northeast, Tuesday, was released in the custody of his attorney yesterday.

The boy died of a fractured skull and internal injuries a few hours after he was injured.

Acting Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald will hold an inquest soon.

D.C. Rum Tax Must Be Low, Senators Say

Bootlegging Flourishes Under High Prices, King Asserts.

Sane Regulation to Be Object of Levy, Not for Revenue.

District taxes on liquor must be held down, three members of the Senate District Committee which will consider the liquor bill now being drafted by the District Commissioners, said yesterday.

The three, Senator Robert R. Reynolds (Democrat), of North Carolina; Senator Patrick A. McCarran (Democrta), of Nevada, and Senator William H. King (Democrat), of Utah, said they based their demands for low liquor taxes on the grounds of temperance and elimination of bootlegging.

Senator King, committee chairman, went farther than his colleagues and said he believed State and local governments should not levy taxes on liquor sales, but should depend on license fees for their revenue. He said a part of the Federal tax might be turned over to States which legalized the manufacture and sale of liquor but did not impose special taxes. He referred to the inheritance tax law and suggested return of 20 per cent.

The committee chairman, however, modified his statement of opposition to District taxes on top of the Federal taxes by saying whatever was decided as a National policy should be applied in Washington.

Should Have Local Tax.

"If other States and local governments impose taxes on liquor in addition to the Federal taxes then it probably would be wise to have a District tax, too," he said.

"Whatever is done, the problem should be approached from the viewpoint of temperance and not revenue. If we seek revenue solely we will have high taxes, which may bring back the bootlegger and speakeasies. There should be no local gallonage tax."

Senator Reynolds declared that the Federal taxes which had been proposed before the House Ways and Means Committee were entirely too high. The proposed $1.10 local tax was too high he said.

"If the taxes are made too high, prices will be too high, and buyers will go elsewhere or turn to the bootlegger," he said. "It's no use to fool ourselves about the matter. People of Washington are used to drinking Maryland rye and other illegal liquor from nearby sections.

Communities Face Losses.

It may sound funny for a Senator from North Carolina talking about making legal liquor accessible at reasonable prices. But the same thing which will apply to the District is going to apply to my State.

"Considered solely on the basis of resulting revenue, high taxes are going to cost money to the communities imposing them.

"Selling legal liquor isn't going to create more drinkers. Prohibition increased the number of drinkers. Legal liquor, eventually if not immediately, is going to reduce the number of drinkers and the amount drunk.

"High taxes and high prices will mean hundreds of thousands of automobile trips into lower priced States both from my own State and the District.

Senator McCarran said the Federal tax should not be more than $1.85 a gallon and if a District tax were imposed the latter should be much less. He fixed $3 per gallon as the maximum for combined Federal and local taxes.

"The standards of our laws should not be based on the intemperance of the minority, but on the temperance of a majority, the Senator said.

"I would much rather see alcoholic beverages drunk openly at the table in a hotel dining room than to see a cocktail party in some cloistered corner."

Safeguards should be provided in the local liquor law against monopoly and control of retail outlets by manufacturers and wholesalers, Senator McCarran said.

Consideration of the local liquor bill will be begun by the committee as soon as he is able to get a quorum together, Senator King said.

Good morning! Let us tell you a stage secret. Our store is especially gay looking at this season because of the many imported gifts which are on display here. Imagine what gayety these gifts can impart to a man's life. If he enjoys a drink, it would amuse him to pour it from a porcelain boxer. If he enjoys a game, he will enjoy playing it from a gold stamped leather case.

'Hunk' Anderson, Sought as N. C. State Coach, Asks 3-Year Contrac

Former Irish Tutor Waits Answer

Leaves for Durham for Talks With Heads of North Carolina U.

Reynolds, Rich Young Tobacco Man, Joins in Conference.

RALEIGH, N. C., Dec. 20 (AP).—It appeared tonight that Heartly "Hunk" Anderson, former Notre Dame mentor, might move to Raleigh to become head coach of football at N. C. State College.

The man who led the famous Irish team for the last three seasons submitted a definite proposition to the School's athletic council at a meeting here today and left Raleigh saying he expected to be back.

He wants a three-year contract, but did not give his figure. Richard J. Reynolds, jr., young Winston-Salem tobacco millionaire, was present when Anderson made his proposal and accompanied the visitor from the council meeting.

Accord Not Reached.

T. S. Johnson, acting chairman of the council, said "matters" were talked over with Anderson, but no definite agreement was reached. Another session of the council was called for January 3, he added, and between eight and ten other names are still under consideration. A total of about 40 applications has been received for the post.

Anderson, who came here unheralded last night, left here tonight for Durham, where he said he expected to see Dr. Foy Roberson, a member of the athletic council of the University of North Carolina, which also has a coaching vacancy.

Will Return Home.

From Durham he said he would head back toward South Bend, Ind., his home, passing up a proposed trip farther south to Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn, Ala., where another coaching vacancy exists.

"I want to be home for Christmas," he said.

Discussing possible assistants at State in the event he takes over the coaching duties, Anderson said he would like to have two but probably could make out with one, a back field coach.

Frank Reese, back field coach at State under John P. "Clipper" Smith, who was ousted as head coach last week, drove Anderson to Durham.

Rudolph, Ponzi Tie For Title Cue Lead

Former Beats Caras; Decisive Match Tonight.

Chicago, Dec. 20 (AP). — Erwin Rudolph, of Cleveland, Ohio, a former champion, changed the tie for first place in the world's pocket billiard championship tournament tonight when he defeated young James Caras, of Wilmington, Del., last year's runner-up, by the score of 125 to 39, in ten innings.

Rudolph soon took the advantage position over his opponent when, at the end of the sixth inning, after his high run of 39, he led 65 to 26. From then on it was Rudolph's game. The victory sent him into a tie for first place with Andrew Ponzi, of Philadelphia. The final and deciding game will be played tomorrow night between Rudolph and Ponzi, the winner of which will take the crown worn so long by the defeated champion, Ralph Greenleaf, of New York.

The Wilmington boy's defeat sent him into a three-way third-place tie with William Mosconi, of Philadelphia, and George Kelly, also of Philadelphia.

Mosconi, the youngest player in the tournament, defeated Charles Seaback, Astoria, N. Y., veteran, 125 to 107, in 34 innings in the afternoon match.

Bailey Improves, Has Even Chance

Case Surprise to Doctors; Recognizes Friends.

Boston, Dec. 20 (AP).—The slight but progressive improvement that Irvin (Ace) Bailey has made since his relapse of Monday night continued tonight and, for the first time since the Toronto hockey player suffered his skull fracture on December 12, his physicians expressed hopes of his recovery.

Dr. Donald Munro, who twice operated on Bailey's brain, gave him an even chance for life.

"His chart is essentially normal and he is really better," Dr. Munro reported today. "He responds easily to stimuli and has an even chance of pulling through. He has been taking nourishment through the mouth."

Later the surgeon again looked in on his patient, whose tragic accident stirred the sports worlds of two nations, and reported that he had held on to his surprising gain.

Bailey's case, it was said at the city hospital, has created a furore in medical circles. He has remained alive a remarkably long time for one with such serious brain injuries and if he recovers, it will be a case for the medical records.

Football Drill For Lions at St. Louis

Columbia, En Route to Bowl Game, Stresses Forward Passes.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 20 (AP).—The Tournament of Roses-bound Columbia Lions stopped off for five hours here today, went through a brisk workout under the watchful eyes of Coach Lou Little and his aids, and tonight resumed their journey westward.

Midwestern football critics, viewing the workout, decided the Lions will have to give away much weight in their New Year's Day clash with the powerful Stanford Indians, but Coach Little brushed the idea aside. "We won't be outweighed too much," he said.

While giving every indication of optimism, Coach Little said he almost had given up hope for Joe Ferrar, star tackle, might become scholastically eligible for the annual East-West classic at Pasadena.

May Lose Ferrar.

"It doesn't look now like Ferrar will be eligible," Little said between shouts to his players to "Get that ball and keep going! That play won't work unless you make it wide!" and "Look at your man—don't just throw the ball into the air."

While assistant coaches worked with the various groups of players, Little moved about the field shouting orders. He gave special attention to the passing of Capt. Cliff Montgomery and Al Barabas, indicating the Lions will take to the air if they find the going too tough on the ground.

In addition to Montgomery and Barabas, Ed Brominski and Bill Nevel worked in the first backfield.

Tony Matal, short but powerful, and Owen McDowell, captain of this year's Columbia basket ball team and a regular on the baseball club, were at end; Paul Jackel and Joe Richavich, tackles; Steve Dzamaba and Larry Pickney, guards, and Newt Wilder, center.

While these eleven men came in for the chief attention, Little said he was not ready to anounce his startling line-up against Stanford.

First in Two Weeks.

The workout here, on the Walsh Memorial Stadium field, home of the St. Louis University Billikens, was the first the squad has enjoyed outdoors in two weeks, Little said.

A handful of admiring alumni were at Union Station when the Columbia special rolled in early in the afternoon. Little and Capt. Montgomery were whisked away to an alumni luncheon, while the rest of the party visited Jefferson Memorial to view the Charles A. Lindbergh trophies.

Stanford Bans Norgard, Star Wingman

Ineligible Against Columbia for 2 Minutes '29 Play at St. Ignatius.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 20 (AP). On the eve of Stanford's departure to meet Columbia in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena in the New Year's Day football game, Al Norgard, first-string right end of the Palo Alto eleven, was declared ineligible today for having played two minutes as a substitute with St. Ignatius College, of San Francisco, in 1929.

The announcement was made by Prof. William Owen, Stanford faculty representative in the Pacific Coast Conference.

Prof. Owen said he went into the matter thoroughly after Norgard's eligibility had been questioned, first by Santa Clara and later by the University of California.

At St. Ignatius in 1929.

His investigation, he said, developed that Norgard had registered at St. Ignatius, now the University of San Francisco, in August, 1929, and later had withdrawn and entered Menlo Junior College. He registered at the latter school September 16 of the same year.

Norgard first told him, Prof. Owen said, that he had not played football at St. Ignatius. Owen, however, checked San Francisco newspapers for September, 1929, and found Norgard's name as a substitute in the game against a submarine naval base team.

Questioned further, Prof. Owen said Norgard admitted he had played two minutes as a substitute.

Norgard was regular end for Stanford during the season just closing and played in practically every game.

Prof. Owen stated the matter of the player's ineligibility would not affect Coast Conference standings. Stanford finished as cochampion in a tie with Oregon and an equal percentage of wins with Southern California.

Otto Bluege Goes To Phils in Trade

Is Swapped by Reds With Jeffries for Koenig.

Philadelphia, Dec. 20 (AP).—The Philadelphia National League club announced today it has acquired Otto Bluege, short stop, and Irvine Jeffries, second baseman, from Cincinnati in a trade for Mark Koenig, second baseman, who recently came to the Phils.

Koenig was part of the deal for Chuck Klein, who went to the Chicago Cubs for cash, and also Harvey Hendrick, infielder, and Ted Kleinhans, pitcher.

Bluege is a younger brother of Ossie Bluege, Washington third baseman.

Freddie Miller Wins.

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 20 (AP).—Freddie Miller, of Cincinnati, Ohio, featherweight champion, defeated Sammy Levine, of Chicago, here tonight in a ten-round boxing contest. It was an overnight nontitle match. Miller weighed 127 and Levine 127½.

Anent Alumni Luncheons

By Paul Gallico.

ST. LOUIS UNIVERSITY STADIUM, St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 20 (Spl.). The argonauts of Columbia University are on the field of this charming little cameo stadium, running, passing, kicking, blocking in their first workout since leaving New York City for high adventure on the Pacific Coast.

Rain and storm cleared away as the train backed into the shed. The team ducked the alumni lunch and went right out to the field. Cliff Montgomery and Lou Little made a 10 minute appearance at the athletic club, but partook of no grub. Ye correspondent ate a trifle, not because he was hungry, but because he thought he ought to do it for his paper. He still feels all right, but will not in a very few moments when he begins to work out.

And so the sky turned that light Columbia Blue and the sun came out and the football players shook the kinks out of their limbs. The 22-hour ride had taken an immediate toll, apparently, because the boys looked pretty bad. They were slow getting out of their cleat holes, slow getting down under passes. And the passers, Barabas and Montgomery and Brominski, were sending up wobblers or out-throwing their ends.

Had my first look at Tony Matal. A red-head built like a safe, with a nice smile off the ball field, but oh, a bad, bad man when his mind is on football. They say when he goes in to tackle that he wants to kill the man with the ball. One of those off-shade redheads. You know the kind. Very bad boys to start an argument with. Cliff Montgomery looks like Herb Pennock, and isn't much bigger. A slight, slim boy with a sharp face. They say he has tremendous drive in his legs.

After about half an hour of very messy mucking about Signor Louis Little suddenly appeared in a pair of baseball pants and baseball cap and began to holler. He hollered for pepper, for speed and for precision, and, by George, he got it. The passes began to click and the squad took to looking more like a big league football team, as the first and second back fields broke into the different pass combinations. Some of the local newspaper boys came out and were not impressed. They said the team looked small.

Brominski, Barabas, Montgomery and Neville, the Number 1 back field, put in a half hour defending against Stanford type passes. Little knots of correspondents stood around on the field with their heads cocked to one side. The air was bracing and everybody felt swell. At 6 o'clock the Argosy was under way again headed South for Dallas, Tex.

"If we can whip these alumni lunches, we can whip Stanford," said a member of this gay but determined troupe early this morning. For obvious reasons, I shall not name him, but he is a veteran of many campaigns of the luncheon boards, he has eaten '03 lunches, class of '98 lunches, faculty lunches, Rotary lunches, Lions Club lunches, Advertising Club lunches, "in-honor-of" lunches, "welcome-home-to-our-old-pal" lunches, victory lunches, in fact, every kind of lunch ever given. His sole duty on this trip is to sit with the team at the various alumni lunches that will be thrown for the boys at every stop and give them the benefit of his experience. Naturally this makes him Dr. Louis Little's right-hand man and the most important cog in the victory machine that the Doctor is grooming for the most sensational upset in football history at the Rose Bowl, on January 1.

One ill-advised filet-mignon, one helping of size ought eight, 12-gauge peas and the work of a year is undone. Small wonder then that most of the news, interest and excitement of the trip to date centered around this important personage who for the sake of this article I will call Smith, though that is not his name.

Smith has one bit of advice that he never ceases to hammer into his boys as he calls them. "Stay away from the consomme or the vegetable soup and you'll never be in trouble at an alumni luncheon. That's the beginning. They weaken you. The next thing you know you've eaten the chicken and peas or the filet mignon and peas, the hearts of lettuce and the brick ice cream and you're done for. Look at me, boys! I was once a fine athlete and a normal man like yourselves until I started to go to alumni lunches. And listen to me. I don't want to catch any man here touching one of those rolls you will find at your plate. Understand? Not ever. They're made especially for alumni lunches out of papier mache, laundry starch and varnish." Old Dr. Little nods his head solemnly and approvingly and says, "Listen to Smith, boys. That's what he is here for. There are some very tough lunches ahead of us before we get to California. Pay attention to what he says. I can give you football, but Smith can give you the chance to play it. Tell them about the alumni lunch broilers, Smitty. We'll be running into a lot of those."

Pasadena Open Starts Today; 200 to Vie

$4,000 in Prizes Offered; Representative Field Seeks Wood's Title.

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 20 (AP).—The big push for California's winter golf gold gets away here tomorrow, the immediate objective, $4,000 in stakes, in the Pasadena 72-hole medal play championship and the qualifying field divided into two sections of about 100 players each.

Half the field will play 18 holes tomorrow over the Brookside Park course, the second half competing Friday for the 100 qualifying places in Saturday's second round. The field will be pared to the 57 low scores and ties for Sunday's final 36 holes.

Seek Wood's Title.

It will be a thoroughly representative field, with scores of the Nation's leading professionals training their big guns at the championship subpar 278 posted for the 72 holes last year by Craig Wood, of Deal, N. He topped the field in the inaugural year, 1928.

Leo Diegel, of Philmont, Pa., who recently won the California open and the Southern California open, has indicated that he will be one o fthe players to beat, as his first practice round of 69 on the broadside course was 2 under par. Johnny Dawson, Chicago amateur, toured the course in 68 in his first try, however, and Paul Runyan, of White Plains, N. Y., and Harry Cooper, of Chicago, turned in 69s.

First Day to Field.

Included in the first day's qualifying field are Dick Metz, of Deal; Archie Hambrick, of Bluefield, W. Va.; Fred Morrison, of Pasadena; Craig Wood, John Revolta, Menominee, Wis.; Al Espinosa, Akron, Ohio; Al Zimmerman, Portland, Oreg.; Mortie Dutra, Detroit; Charles Guest, of Deal; Runyan, Ben Coltrin, of San Francisco, and MacDonald Smith, of Nashville.

Denny Shute, British open champion; Harry Cooper, Olin Dutra, Horton Smith, Bill Mehlhorn, Dawson, Diegel and Ralph Guldahl are among Friday's qualifying field.

The winner will get $1,000 and the other $3,000 will be distributed among the next 29 places.

Giants' Feat Voted Best For 1933

Princeton Eleven Rated Second Among Team Achievements.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20 (AP).—The feat of William Harold Terry and his team of destiny, the New York Giants, in winning the National League pennant and the world series today was voted the outstanding team achievement of the year by sports editors and writers balloting in the Associated Press third annual sports poll.

Despite the intervening smoke screen of a sensational football season, the thrilling dash of the Terrymen to the pennant and their smashing victory over Washington in the world series remained vivid enough in the minds of 63 of the 198 experts voting in the poll to cause them to so mark their ballots.

The Giants thus gain two top positions for the year, as the same experts voted Carl Hubbell, Terry's sensational southpaw, the outstanding individual of topsy-turvy 1933.

Princeton Eleven Second.

Princeton's undefeated young football team ran second to the Giants, 43 votes going to Fritz Crisler and his Tigers, while the British Davis Cup team, upset conquerors of the United States and France in international tennis play, were selected for highest honors by 27. The fine Michigan football team, champion of the Big Ten, completes the Big Four with 14 votes. The remainder of the votes were scattered among 16 other combinations.

The feats of the gridiron were the most widely recognized, 7 of the 20 teams figuring in the voting being football elevens, among them the two Rose Bowl contenders—Columbia and Stanford. The Lions were picked by three and Stanford by just twice as many.

The complete results of the balloting:

New York Giants, world baseball champions	68
Princeton's undefeated and untied football team	43
British Davis Cup Tennis Team	27
Michigan, football	14
West Point, football	6
Louisiana State, track and field	6
Stanford, football victory over U. S. C.	5
Oregon State, football "Iron Men"	4
Western All-Stars, polo	4
Columbia, football	3
Washington, varsity rowing	3
Washington Nationals, baseball	3
Iowa, football	2
New York Rangers, hockey	2

One vote each, for following: Harvard Varsity Crew, Chicago Bears (pro football), British Ryder Cup Golf Team, Michigan State Cross-Country Team, Yale Basket Ball Team, and Tulsa Oilers, basket ball.

Wife of Ruth Denies He Will Quit Yankees

New York, Dec. 20 (AP).—A report that Babe Ruth would ask for his release from the New York Yankees to devote all his time to teaching youngsters the game was emphatically denied today by Mrs. Ruth.

The Babe himself was not available, but Mrs. Ruth said any report that he was planning to retire from active play was not so.

Mandley Rolls 190 Game to Set New Record for Season in Recreation League

Four Strikes In Row Aid In Feat

Former D. C. Champion One Pin Short of Morgan's Mark.

Quacks Win 3 Games From Smyser's Team in League Race.

CRASHING the pins for four strikes in a row, Brad Mandley, former ranking duckpin bowler of the Nation, last night rolled a 190 game for the Quacks of the Recreation League, the second-highest game in the District this season.

Mandley, twice ranked the No. 1 bowler in the District, broke the Recreation League season record of 185 established by Hokie Smith, and fell only one pin short of the 191 game of Reds Morgan, which stands as the supreme effort of District bowling during the present campaign.

The Recreation League claims the highest game ever rolled in the District, a 203 performance by Joe Overend several years ago. Eddie Keith scored a 197 game last season.

Take Three Games.

Aided by Manley's maple shooting the Quacks took three games from Mmysers Pharmacy.

Bearcats maintained its position in first place, winning three from the Printers. Eldridge Mayo starred for the leaders with a 401 set. Sims Music Studio held on to second place by sweeping its set with Patent Attorneys, Abe Beavers, of the victors, turning in a 160 game and 393 set. Erwin Simon also aided the winners with a 380 set. Joe Freschi's 388 set led Sol Herzog's odd-game win over Kris Delicatessen, the latter connecting for high team set of the night with 634. Sims Music Studios led with a total pinfall of 1,807.

Capt. Lorraine Gulli put her Lucky Strike team on the top of the Ladies' District League at the Lucky Strike drives last night, rolling a 363 set to sweep its match with Petworth. Rendezvous, former leader, although tied in games won and lost, is in the second-place position due to the Lucky Strike team's greater total pinfall, and its odd-game defeat by Arcadia.

Betty Hoffman, Columbia captain, held her team in third place, rolling a 133 game to sweep its match with Bill Wood. Convention Hall took the odd game from Meyer Davis, and Recreation downed Georgetown two games.

Rendezvous annexed high team game honors with 558, and Lucky Strike had a total pinfall of 1,567.

Bowling true to form, the leading Fruit Growers Express team whitewashed the last place Stephens Warner crew to increase its lead in the Takoma League at the Takoma alleys. Colorado Service Station upset Goode Tinning, taking three games to advance to third place and close to the heels of the losers who retained their hold on the runner-up position by the slightest margin. Youngblood Hardware pushed Takoma Postoffice closer to the bottom by sweeping their match; Pioneer Press bumped Dome Oil for three games and Old Colony Laundry took the odd game from Columbia Wall Paper.

Deffenbaugh, Old Colony Laundry, turned in a 161 game and 406 set to annex individual laurels and Columbia Service rolled a 587 for the best team set.

Chipouras, Steam Rollers, annexed individual honors in the Dynamite League at the Arvadia drives, pounding the maples for a 136 game and 353 set. Tornadoes' high team game of 539 and Steam Rollers' 1,550 set were the best team scores.

Norman Schroth (Marquette) scattered the maples for a 160 game, 387 set, to annex individual honors in the Knights of Columbus League at the Convention Hall drives. The game was the highest rolled at the hall last night and entitled Schroth to a free entry in the Evening Star tournament. Marquette's 613 game and 1,730 set were the best team effort for the night.

A 148 game by Clements and 376 set by Paul Brill were turkey winners in the Electrical League at the Convention Hall. Brill also had a 155 game, but was only eligible for one prize. His team, the Creel Brothers, annexed high game with 575, to share honors with Western Electric No. 1, who had a total of 1,649.

Continental Baking Co. smashed the Commercial League's high-team game record at the hall alleys, rolling a game of 623. Bachman's (Hopwood Furniture Co.) 150 game and 360 set were added to his team's total pinfall of 1,631.

The Iris team of the Hebrew Interclub League, set two all-time records for the league at the Convention Hall alleys, bagging 637 pins for a new team game mark and 1,795 for a new team set record. These scores were the highest ever rolled in the league's eight-year existence.

Norman Goldstein, who rolled a wicked ball, featured the high scores with a 394 set. The winners took all three from the Pals.

Eastern, Tech Alumni Meet On Court

Stars of Yesteryear and Today Occupy Spot on Reunion Program.

BASKET ball stars of the past and present will romp up and down the hardwoods of the Eastern High School Gym tonight. It is Alumni Reunion Day and the Eastern alumni are slated to meet the Tech Alumni in a merry tilt. The game is for 7:30 o'clock.

The line-up of stars expected to grace the respective alumni teams is truly appalling. In the Tech lineup which will be handled by Artie Boyd are such former star cagers as Bozie Berger, former All-America basket ball luminary from Maryland; Bill Werber, Washington's representative on the Boston Red Sox Baseball Team; Harry Councilor and Joe Croson, Duke stars of yesteryear; Carl MacCartee, captain of St. John's College, of Annapolis; Everette Russell, stand-out floor ace with this year's George Washington Frosh Team, and Freddy (Little Knocky) Thomas and Waverly Wheeler, basket ringers of Emerson Institute.

Eastern Line-up.

The Eastern line-up includes Bernie Lieb, Catholic University center; Bill Noonan, Barney Kane and Dallas Shirley of the George Washington yearlings; Bruce Kessler, former American University star; Jule Redice, late of the Maryland quintet; Al Waters, of the Terrapin frosh outfit; Jack Bayliss and Arthur Zahn, the spearheads of the G. W. varsity last year.

Following the alumni tussle, the Eastern varsity will play the Gonzaga Prep five. This embroglio is scheduled to get underway at 8:30, or immediately following the alumni game. Early this week it was reported that Orrell Mitchell, coach of the Gonzaga team, might ask to have the game canceled, but Jack Collins, of Eastern, informed The Post last night that the game would be played.

Movies, dancing and refreshments complete the Eastern festival.

The remainder of the basket ball slate for today is confined entirely to the surrounding territory. Washington-Lee and Hyattsville meet at Hyattsville; Herndon and Lee-Jackson clash at Alexandria; Mount Rainier and Rockville battle at Rockville and Bethesda-Chevy Chase plays its alumni team.

Western's Rally Beats Takoma Five, 26 to 14

Western High School exhibited its best form of the season in winning over the Takoma-Silver Spring five, 26-14, yesterday before 350 fans at Silver Spring.

Starting slow and trailing, 6-0, at the quarter, and 9-8 at the half, Coach Moore's boys put on full steam in the last 10 minutes for 7 straight baskets.

Western's all-round team play was the feature, although the performances of Corcoran and Hanley were creditable. Clark was high scorer for the losers, with 8 points.

Revolta is in line for the next Ryder Cup team because of his performances since he learned to play golf as a caddy at Oshkosh, Wis. He won the State championship twice.

G. W. Five Host To Geneva Quintet

Southpaw Battle Tomorrow Is Seen as Stein and Ginsberg Oppose.

A BATTLE of southpaw court stars may materialize tomorrow night when George Washington tapers off with Geneva in the H street gym. Hymie Ginsberg, Geneva forward, and Sammy Stein, the Colonial's nimble guard, are the pair involved.

Both are natural southpaws, usually a tremendous advantage for a basket ball player, but two left-handers rarely meet and the outcome of the collision is conjectural. Ginsberg is one of five veterans on Coach Ken Loeffler's squad, and a prolific scorer.

Geneva walloped the Eureka Stores quintet, of Winder, Pa., 48-15, in its opening game of the season Monday night, and Ginsberg sank four field goals and a foul, nine points, although he played only half the game.

Littel to Bear Watching.

Ed Littel, a substitute forward, came through with as many field goals, and went Hymie three better from the charity line for a total of 12 points. Together they may make matters interesting for the Colonials.

Coach Ted O'Leary yesterday found a sizable casualty list on his hands, and oddly enough the patients all hail from Washington. Barney Kane is still bothered with a bad knee; Bill Noonan is suffering with an infected throat, and Dallas Shirley "cut" practice because of a stomach disorder. All will be ready for duty tomorrow night, however.

Should Kane's injury continue to trouble him, it is possible that O'Leary will give him a rest and use Smith at forward with Howell. Smith has been treading on Kane's heels since practice started and is ready to step into the regular role at any emergency.

Jockey Sage Rides Four Winners Over Treacherous Charles Town Racing Oval

Three Horses Fall; Rider Injured

Gay Party, in Front of Field, Stumbles, Rolls Into Infield.

Only 500 Watch Card; $900 Bet on First Race at Course.

By Walter Haight
(Post Staff Correspondent).

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., Dec 20.—They still talk about that winter at Valley Forge but to let the jockeys tell it that period of the Revolutionary War was child's play compared to a winter in the saddle at this race track. Perhaps those who conduct racing here are satisfied that only 500 persons saw three heart-rending tumbles but not so with Jockey P. Sage. He was having his field day before the smallest crowd that ever saw a racing program within a race train ride of Washington.

Young Sage came bouncing home on four straight winners. He started the parade in the second with Forest Faun at a $16.60 mutuel. He rode The Gen, $6.60 in the third, Helen's Alibi at $7 in the fourth and Gloritone at $7.60 in the fifth. To top it off, Sage rode Fair Billy to the wire a length behind Barcelona Pete in the sixth.

Jockey Bardales Hurt.

Getting back to the falls, the most serious was that of Gay Party and Jockey Bardales in the fourth race. The horse, practically a co-favorite with Helen's Alibi, was leading the field by some four lengths when a situation that many had feared became a reality. Gay Party, hugging the rail, stumbled and horse and rider fell under the fence and rolled down the embankment into the infield a struggling mass. Bardales was carried from the track on a stretcher. His condition was thought to be serious but not critical.

Previously, Giggley Ann had fallen in the first race, with both the filly and Jockey O'Malley escaping injury. In the second, it was an even money favorite which bit the dust, or rather the mud. Beau Cavalier, with Jockey Palumbo astride, went down at almost the same spot as did Gay Party later on the program.

Palumbo, who is setting some kind of a record for walking back from horseback rides, again showed his courage. He hustled back to the jockeys' room, changed his clothes and went out on Flageolet, in the next race. Just to show that he was still in good riding form, he piloted Barcelona Pete to victory in the sixth race. Jockey O'Malley also returned to action.

The races were run over a heavy track and under heavy skies. The betting was little more than peanut money. On the first race only $900 was wagered. Mint Bud, which fought it out with Ragtown Belle, paid $30.80. This horse did not draw a single bet when she ran here last week.

Gloritone Takes Feature.

The feature race was the fifth, in which Martin Finn's Gloritone proved that her recent return to good form was no flash in the pan. Gloritone was opposed by a group of four of the higher-priced claimers here, and she followed the pace of Chatterfol to draw away after 6 furlongs and was home three lengths in advance of Integrity. Don Guzman was third, another half length away. March Step, the other member of the party, was last.

In India made a show of the field that marched postward in the final, winning by virtually a sixteenth of a mile from Rube Samuelson, a 76-1 shot, which saved the place money from Bubbling Out.

Jersey City Pair Sues Dodgers for $105,000

New York, Dec. 20 (AP).—Two stockholders of the Jersey City Baseball Club, Inc., filed a damage suit for $105,000 against the Brooklyn Dodgers in Brooklyn Federal Court today.

The suit is the outgrowth of the purchase in 1932 of three Jersey players by Brooklyn. The plaintiffs claim that the players were worth more than the purchase price and that the sale was negotiated without the knowledge of the directors.

The plaintiffs seek $90,000, the alleged value of the three players and $15,000 which Jersey City is said to have lost because of the loss of the players' services.

James Jordon, William Outen and Ray Lucas are the players involved.

Sonny Workman on Air.

Raymond (Sonny) Workman, one of the greatest jockeys of this era, tonight will be the guest speaker over the weekly sports broadcast sponsored by Station WOL.

Workman will be interviewed informally between 7:45 and 8 o'clock. He will discuss his outstanding experiences on the turf and also touch upon other timely subjects pertaining to the race track.

Bladensburg to Open.

The Bladensburg A. C. will open its basket ball season tonight, meeting the Company F Reserves. The game will be played in the armory at Hyattsville and will begin at 7:30. All teams having gyms and wanting games in the 130 or 145 pound classes call Manager Dove at Greenwood 2682.

Grid Captain Elected.

Shepherdstown, W. Va., Dec. 20 (Spl.).—Roscoe Warner was elected captain of the 1934 Shepherd College football team at a meeting of the lettermen preliminary to the annual banquet at Miller Hall.

Strange as It Seems —By John Hix

Louis IX, humble King of France, believed himself unworthy of the task of ruling a nation. He expressed his humility in a number of ways—one day a week, Friday, he never laughed; only once a year he tasted fruit; he drew blood from his shoulder once a week throughout the year and three times a week during Lent. It was not uncommon for him to walk several miles through the snow in his bare feet to church.

He never resented criticism, and to insult him by reproach or sarcasm was impossible. A woman, pleading a cause before him once shouted, "It is a pity you are a King of France. You ought to be turned out." To this Louis replied: "You speak truly. It has pleased God to make me King; it had been well had He chosen some one better able to govern this kingdom rightly."

Rats are notorious carriers of disease. They are responsible for the spread of the bubonic plague and other fatal diseases which, by a conservative estimate, have been responsible for more deaths than all the wars of history. The property destroyed by rats and mice in the United States alone amounts to $200,000,000 a year.

Elmer Reavis, whose eyes failed him at 45 years, did not give up his work even then. He planned and built, unaided except for a friend who read the level for him, the stone house illustrated above. Stones that weighed three-quarters of a ton he swung into place without help.

Arcaro Rides Betty Farrell To Win

Is Easy Victor in Jefferson Feature; Josephine D. Returns $70.40.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 20 (AP). Betty Farrell, winner of four straight races before finishing out of the money two days ago, started another winning streak today at Jefferson Park.

The North Star III filly, racing for M. E. Costello, easily led home a half-dozen shifty sprinters in the Mandeville Purse, decided over 5½ furlongs. Eddie Arcaro was in the saddle and the combination held a length and a half margin at the finish wire over Kai Finn, which once raced for Harry F. Sinclair's Rancocas Stable. Capt. Joy was beaten two lengths for the place.

The long-shot players cashed in when Josephine D. stepped to the front in the mile, sixth event. The 5-year-old mare returned $70.40 for $2.

The Greentree Stable silks were borne to victory for the first time at the meeting when Cherokee Sal, a 3-to-1 shot, got up in the last few strides to beat Gold Pot by a half length in the opener. Mortise followed the pair home a length and a half behind.

Closed Armory Handicap at Alexandria

Twins Forced to Cancel Game; Lee-Jackson Busy Today.

ALEXANDRIA, Dec. 20 (Spl.). Alexandria High School will remain idle for the second time within the week because of no available playing floor. The Emerson game scheduled for last Tuesday was called off, while the Twins will have to cancel their game with Mount St. Joseph's, of Baltimore, unless arrangements can be made to use the Lee-Jackson gymnasium.

The Armory Hall, Alexandria's only basket ball court of regulation size, will be closed for the next two weeks. A shooting range is being constructed at the east end of the building, but it will in no was interfere with basket ball. The range is being installed for the National Guard and the Marine Reserves. Both of these organizations will use the new addition for target practice. The funds for the erection of the target range were raised through the C. W. A.

Lee-Jackson vs. Herndon.

Lee-Jackson High School quintet, victorious in its last start against the Charlotte Hall team, will line up against strong competition tomorrow night at its gym when the Herndon High School five will be encountered in a Fairfax County championship tilt. Jack Watt, coach of the Little Generals, has gradually brought his team to the front.

The Old Dominion Boat Club tossers went through a stiff workout tonight under Coach Cabell at the Lee-Jackson Gym. The Oarsmen were scheduled to tangle with the Arlington A. C. basketers at Armory Hall, but had to cancel when the hall was closed for alterations.

Lieut. Martin Delaney has secured the services of Eddie Gorman, veteran court star of this city, to coach the local Marine Reserves team. Gorman is facing a tough assignment because the members of the squad are inexperienced and must be instructed in the fundamentals of the game as well as in the finer points.

Prince Georges Teams Face Contests Today

Two Prince Georges County high school basket ball teams are slated for play this afternoon, one at home and the other away.

Hyattsville High's basketers will meet Washington-Lee High, of Ballston, Va., on the National Guard Armory court at Hyattsville at 3:15 o'clock. It will be the second test of the campaign for the Blue and Gold, which conquered Catonsville, Md., High by a single point last week on the latter's floor.

Mount Rainier High will visit Rockville for a game with the Montgomery High five at 3:30 o'clock. The Mounts have won two out of three starts so far this season.

Zuppke to Aid Miami For Duquesne Contest

Urbana, Ill., Dec. 20 (AP).—Bob Zuppke, University of Illinois football coach, left today for Miami, Fla., where he will assist Coach Tom McCann of Miami University in the Miami-Duquesne game on New Year's Day.

McCann, former Illinois football player, requested Zuppke to come down and lend moral support after his presence last year was regarded by McCann as an aid to the defeat of Manhattan College by Miami.

Charles Town Race Track, Dec. 20.

Dear Ernest:

Somewhere the sun is shining, but not here. And there seems little chance that this track will be fast again before Easter Monday. One system of selecting horses is as good as another. In fact, one of the few successful betters here has used a system which consists of $2 across the board on horses in Nos. 1, 2 and 3 positions. That bashful Bennings fellow had two winners today, for which he is duly thankful. The Gen, one of his choices, took the third race, leaving only the task of picking the winner of the first race to his public. Those who were successful had the winning daily double at $112.40. Sounds like trick photography to me.

BILL.

First race—A fast break from No. 2 post position will make Big Dipper hard to beat in this 5-furlong sprint. This filly is of the sturdy sort that can stand a lot of tough going. Bungalow is in well and the one to offer the chief contention. Lodorus for the rest.

Second race—Clear Knight hasn't run his race here as yet. Bred for the heavy track and favored by the short sprint, this one may get home at suitable odds. Noras Grace for the place. The sleeper in this field is Chloedair. Recent distance races have found this one well up at the start. May be primed for this hop, skip and jump.

Third race—I'm giving Ums one more chance. Might make full use of her inside position to steal a lead on this field. Benish Way hasn't been out for some time, but deserves consideration. Fair Clark loves the mud and is dangerous.

Fourth race—Water Lad turned in a good race last out over a muddy course. Must break from the outside tomorrow, but never was fast away from the barrier. Black Dreams won his last impressively and appears second best. Bokie B. prefers a route, but could show among this brand.

Fifth race—Let me inform you that Niggertoe can run in the mud. Furthermore, I believe that Niggertoe can take this race despite the appearances of several of the good sprinters hereabouts. Niggertoe has won twice for us. Let's make it three in a row. Forceful and Hoursend for the other awards.

Sixth race—Modern Times and Barcelona Pete, if the latter is sent back, should battle it out for the main end of this purse. Both are at tops. Light Breeze may take the show end. Sage could do nothing with Redcliffe today. Possibly, Jackson will take the mount tomorrow. Worth keeping tab on this old fellow.

Seventh race—No Mistake ran a fair second the other day. Our Jewell and Tremendous for the remainder.

Association Assumes Giants' Fund in Miami

Miami Beach, Fla., Dec. 20 (AP). Money and pledges in a $10,000 fund to bring the New York Giants here for spring training next year were ordered turned over to the Miami Beach Baseball Underwriters' Association today by the city council.

The action was taken after a heated discussion with Councilman William Burbridge, who charged that $5,000 of the fund was pledged by a man interested in gambling.

Ben Cohen, attorney for the donor of the $5,000, whos name was not metnioned, said his client, "a public spirited beach resident," had offered the money "with no strings and had asked nothing in return."

Cohen had asked that the $5,000 donation by his client be refunded, but this was referred to the corporation.

MINT BUD rushed into a forward position, responded strongly when put to a drive, slipped through on the inside of RAGTOWN BELLE at the stretch turn and came out during the final furlong. RAGTOWN BELLE, showing her best form, went into an easy lead, was steadied until challenged, but was unable to stay when put to a drive. TODY WEST forced a steady early pace and held on well. CANTROUD worked his way up on the inside and was gaining resolutely at the end. MINT MISSION broke slowly and was far back all the way. BROOMPLAIT was held safe. GIGGLEY ANN raced well up in the early stages. She floundered and fell during the stretch drive.

SECOND RACE—Six and one-half furlongs. Purse, $400; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 1:54. Off at 1:54½. Winner, E. E. Clemson's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—FOREST FAUN, $16.60, $5.60, $6.20; GERTIE R., $4.60, $4.00; JANE ELLEN, $3.60.

FOREST FAUN, away forwardly and showing a decided fondness for the going, took command at once, drew out into a safe lead for the entire trip and was going away at the end while in hand. GERTIE R., reserved from the early pace, responded readily when called upon, made up some ground, but was no match for the winner. JANE ELLEN, a forward factor throughout, held on well in the drive. JUSTA MOMENT raced evenly and closed well. MUSKODAY came from far back and stumbled when moving up quickly in the stretch. BEAU CAVALIER had good early speed while racing closest to the leader, but fell on the turn from the back stretch.

THIRD RACE—Six and one-half furlongs. Purse, $400; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:17. Off at 2:20½. Winner, G. Tenew's ch. h. Stocks Soften Under Lash of Heavy Selling Volatile Issues Are Blamed for Drop; Turnover, 2,173,518 Shares.

New York, Dec. 20 (AP).—An outburst of selling in a few volatile shares roused the stock market from its lethargy today and prices softened all around.

There was considerable recuperation from the lows by the rank and file, however, with the result that the average net loss amounted to about a point and a half, whereas at bottom the decline was substantially larger.

At the worst, several stocks were down 5 to around 10 points and the general list approximately 1 to 4. Among the weakest issues were those whose recent market gyrations had come under official scrutiny; professionals seemed anxious to vacate "pool" positions as quickly as possible and offerings became brisk around midday. The squall, lasting barely half an hour, was followed by a milder slump a little later, after which prices mended slowly. Sales totaled 2,173,518 shares.

Bag & Paper Tumbles.

The storm broke when Union Bag & Paper tumbled more than 9 points following a report that the exchange's business conduct committee was looking into its recent market history, among others. Celanese flopped 10 and Atlas Tack roughly 4.

Auburn, Allied Chemical, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, American Commercial Alcohol and U. S. Smelting cracked 4 to 5 before the shower was over. Industrial Rayon was another weak spot.

At the close, U. S. Steel, American Telephone, American Can, General Electric, Westinghouse, Chrysler, General Motors, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, National Distillers, Kennecott, Consolidated Gas and New York Central were off only fractions to something more than a point. Union Bag pared its loss to 5¼ net and Celanese finished 6 points down. Atlas Tack made virtually complete recovery.

Wheat Under Pressure.

The Wall street reaction helped put wheat under pressure, the May delivery losing better than 3 cents a bushel. Other commodities were irregular. Dollar exchange rallied more decisively after the Treasury had again held its gold price unchanged.

The decline in stocks was taken as a local matter, since nothing in the business news offered a motive. The market's technical position has been rather weak and when active offerings came out prices in many instances offered feeble resistance.

The comparative brevity of the break suggested presence of the professional touch; with the stock exchange apparently checking up on certain speculative activities, retreat became the order of the moment.

Trade News Encouraging.

Trade reports were encouraging. Iron Age placed current steel operations at 36 per cent of capacity, against 34.2 on Monday, though it was careful to point out that the last-minute rush of specifications against fourth-quarter contracts, which otherwise would die on December 31, made the rise "partly artificial."

What effect current tendencies will have later on the review said could hardly be predicted, but it thought December was "borrowing production from January and February."

Electric power production last week was higher than for either the week previous or a year ago, while further freight loadings statistics for last week indicated a rather marked counter-seasonal rise. It is readily enough recalled that a year ago the shoe was on the other foot for most business indices.

Foreign Markets.

London, Dec. 20 (A.P.).—With trading fairly active, a cheerful tone was registered on the stock exchange today owing to favorable revenue returns. Most activity was shown by industrials and foreign bonds, which improved. Oil shares and transatlantic issues hardened, while speculative stocks were dull. The market closed steady.

Paris—The rise in international issues helped toward a better tone on the bourse after a dull opening, enabling rentes and other French shares to advance slightly. The closing was steady.

Berlin—Trading on the boerse was inactive owing to the approaching holiday, but the price tendency was fairly firm, especially in regard to dye trust shares. The closing was sustained.

Wool Market.

Boston, Dec. 20 (A.P.) (U. S. Dept. of Agriculture).—Quite a strong demand is being received on some types of scoured wools, but greasy combing domestic wools are mostly rather slow. Mills are making numerous inquiries on the finer quality territory wools, but they are not purchasing sizable quantities. Asking prices are steady and fully firm compared with last week.

Goods Market.

New York, Dec. 20 (A.P.).—Cotton goods continued quiet with prices firm today. More business is being offered on rayon goods for spring. Wool goods are seasonally dull with prices firm. Silk goods for printing are firmer and more interest is developing on printed goods for spring. Burlaps were quiet and steady. First hands merchants feel confident of an active business early next year.

Robey's Review

New Plans for R. F. C. Indicate the Change Made in Scope of Organization Since Its Creation

By Ralph West Robey.

It long has been evident that the life of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation would have to be extended and that, unless much of the "recovery program" is brought to a sudden halt, the borrowing capacity of the organization would have to be increased. For some time, too, it has been known that plans along these lines were being formulated. There is, accordingly, nothing startling in the announcement that the corporation will ask for an extension of its life and the authority to borrow another billion dollars. At the same time, there is an excellent object lesson in this development.

When the R. F. C. was created it was, on the whole, a relatively simple organization. It had wide powers, it is true, but it was clearly understood to be principally for one major purpose. This was to hold the disintegrating financial system of the country together. Insofar as the immediate problem was concerned this meant coming to the aid of our commercial banks and indirectly to the support of institutional investors through helping the railroads.

Commercial Bank Failures Was Cause of Corporation.

The primary reason for the organization of the corporation, in fact, was the great number of commercial bank failures. An earlier attempt, it will be recalled, had been made to meet this problem by the creation of the National Credit Corporation. This first effort was at the end of 1931, and for a brief period there was a sharp drop in the number of failures. In only a few weeks, however, it became evident that no organization which was dependent as was the National Credit Corporation, upon private subscriptions would be sufficient. The upshot was that in February, 1932, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation replaced the National Credit Corporation and took over the task of saving the banks.

For a while it enjoyed marked success. Bank failures dropped to a point where the fears of the public were allayed and many people concluded that the problem had been solved. Closer students, nevertheless, knew that this was not the case. They knew that the most that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation could do was to make for a more orderly liquidation, not eliminate the necessity of liquidation. Again, in due time, therefore, evidences of insolvency began to appear and once more the public became concerned over the safety of its deposits. Once more there were runs on our banks with the result that failures began to increase. This led ultimately, of course, to the Michigan banking holiday in February and then to the complete suspension of the commercial banking business.

R. F. C. Limited Itself to Trying for Orderly Retreat.

Through all of this, nevertheless, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation remained as an organization simply atempting to facilitate an orderly retreat. Whether it was well conceived for this purpose is beside the immediate uoint. All I want to emphasize here is that it was a means for fighting continued deflation—an organization being operated, in so far as one on the outside could see, with a view of trying to stop the further deterioration of values in the hope that some workable equilibrium would be reached from which recovery would start.

At present, and since about last March, the corporation has become in contrast an organization for the purpose of forcing recovery. In the last several months it has not been a question of trying to protect existing values but of trying to establish new values. Through pouring funds into the economic organization at any legal available point it has become a positive inflationary force.

Necessarily such a change means a great increase in the amount of funds that will be needed to keep the corporation running. Under the old idea of the corporation the original lending power probably would have proved sufficient; under this new purpose it provides no more than enough to get a good start. Unless there is a change in the purpose for which the corporation is operated, accordingly, a mere $1,000,000,000 additional, it seems to me, must prove far from sufficient.

Prime Bonds Hold Steady; Others Drop

Trading Activity Dwindles; Sales Volume Cut to $10,157,000.

New York, Dec. 20 (AP). — While prime investment issues were fairly steady in today's bond market, secondary groups exhibited nervousness following the unsettlement of stocks, and sizable declines were scattered throughout the list.

Trading activity in all categories dwindled, however, and sales totaled only $10,157,000 against $12,935,000 in the previous session. The average for 60 domestic corporate bonds was again off three-tenths of a point.

The so-called, high-grade loans took some encouragement when the dollar rallied substantially in terms of leading foreign exchanges. The domestic gold price was again unchanged.

Federals Are Quiet.

United States Government securities were quiet, with the Libertys up 2-32 to 12-32 in the registered maturities. Treasury bonds eased 3-32 to 8-32 of a point.

Business and industrial news was still favorable to the market. Estimates of freight car loadings for the week ended December 16, to be reported Friday, indicated a counterseasonal gain.

Most carrier lines rallied to close with small fractional advances. There were a number down around a point, though, notwithstanding the late recovery. Cuba Railway issues were off 4 to 7 points on a small turnover.

Utilities and Industrials.

The utilities and industrials, as a whole, displayed a rather heavy tone. Losers in these divisions of 1 to around 2 points included some loans of American & Foreign Power, Armour & Co., Chile Copper, Colorado Fuel & Iron, Columbia Gas, Container Corporation, Houston Oil, National Dairy, Pennsylvania Power, Philadelphia Co., Studebaker, Union Oil, Utah Power, Utilities Power & Light and Western Union.

Obligations of European governments whose currencies reacted were a little soft.

Dutch East Indies 6s lost 3½ points and bonds of France, Switzerland, Germany and United Kingdom were down fractionally to as much as 2 points.

Curb's Prices Sent Lower Under Selling

Early Steadiness Is Lost as Turnover Mounts to 389,000 Shares.

New York, Dec. 20 (AP).—Active selling in various parts of the curb list carried that market to a lower close today. Offerings assumed brisk proportions around noon, after earlier dealings had been maintained on a fairly steady basis. A recovery movement in the late dealings pared extreme losses of 1, to around 5 points.

Specialties bore the brunt of the selling, losses in utilities, metals, oils and alcohols ranging only fractions to around a point.

Aluminum Co. of America reduced a 5½-point drop to 3. Other heavy stocks closing 2, to around 4 points lower, included Singer Manufacturing, A. O. Smith, Tubize Chatillon, Bohack, Safety Car Heating, Standard Oil of Ohio, Dow Chemical and Pan-American Airways.

Electric Bond & Share, Canadian Industrial Alcohol "A," Humble Oil and New Jersey Zinc eased major fractions to around a point, but Hiram Walker and Standard Oil of Indiana finished steady.

Transfers increased to approximately 389,000 shares, compared with 256,000 for Tuesday.

Bankers Plan To Comply With Segregating

New York's Investment Firms to Conform to Glass-Steagall Act.

New York, Dec. 20 (AP).—The first major change in organization of investment banking firms to comply with the Glass-Steagall banking act for segregating banking and security business was reported today.

Roosevelt & Son, investment banking firm, will reorganize at the end of the month, forming new partnerships that will divide the present banking and investment functions, and the stock exchange house of Boettcher, Newton & Co. will form a new company to take over its investment business.

The new company will be known as Boettcher & Co., and will have headquarters in Denver, Colo., while the stock business of the firm will be continued by the present organization with headquarters in New York.

Other large investment banking firms, including J. P. Morgan & Co., and Dillon Read & Co., were said to be working on plans for divorcing their banking business from their investment business, but would not complete the details before late in the spring.

The banking act forbids a firm which does an investment business from accepting deposits subject to check or other forms of withdrawal at the request of the depositors.

Cotton Sinks Again Under Scattered Sales

December Closes at 9.88 as General Market Drops 3 to 12 Points.

New York, Dec. 20 (AP).—Cotton was moderately lower today under a continuation of near month liquidtion and scattered selling promoted by the weakness in grain, the easier ruling of foreign exchange and the action of the stock market. March contracts sold off from 10.11 to 10.02, with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 3 to 12 points.

The liquidation of December and January contracts contributed to the light pressure which also reflected some Wall street selling in the late trading. December contracts sold off to 9.76 and May to 10.11 making net declines of about 15 to 16 points on active months, but closing quotations were a few points up from the lowest on trade buying and covering.

Evening up of January contracts in preparation for possible delivery notices on Friday was taken by the trade partly against sales of later months. The report of the Census Bureau showing ginnings of 12,356,769 bales prior to December 13, was considerel slightly below expectations but had little effect on the market.

Exports today 7,141 making 3,920,095 so far this season. Port receipts 23,220. United States port stocks 4,138,410.

Cottonseed Oil.

Bleachable cottonseed oil was weak today under increased liquidation and commission house selling promoted by the weakness of grains and stocks and the easiness of cotton. Final prices were 11 to 15 points net lower. Sales were 41 contracts, of which 8 were in the way of exchanges. British Rayon Export Trade Is Expanding

British export trade in cotton and rayon-mixed goods recovered in October some of the ground lost in preceding months, according to a report from the American consulate general, London, made public by the Commerce Department.

Total October shipments amounted to 4,230,947 square yards, a figure not only well above the monthly average for the year but 36 per cent higher than for October, 1932.

For the first ten months of the current year, aggregate exports of cotton and rayon-mixed goods reached a total of 35,540,595 square yards, a reduction of 2,743,578 square yards, or 7 per cent, as compared with the corresponding period of 1932. The ten-month figure, however, showed an improvement as compared with the nine months ending September, for which period the decline was 11 per cent as compared with 1932.

Exports of Grain Rise During Week

(Associated Press.)

Grain exports from the United States last week amounted to 1,325,000 bushels, against 490,000 bushels the previous week and 318,000 bushels in the corresponding week last year.

Commerce Department figures today gave the following comparisons between last week's exports and those of the week before:

Wheat, 1,240,000 bushels against 385,000; corn, 39,000 against none; barley, 40,000 against 41,000; and oats, 6,000 against none.

Canadian grain exported last week from United States ports amounted to 375,000 bushels, against 830,000 the week before, while last week's exports of North American wheat flour were 61,000 barrels, against 58,000 the previous week.

Puerto Rico Sugar Crop For '33 Reported Sold

New York, Dec. 20.—The total Puerto Rican crop of 1932-33 amounting to 826,926 short tons has been sold and there will be no carryover on that island on January 1, 1934, according to advices received by the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange.

769,044 tons or 93 per cent of the total came to the United States—658,062 tons in a raw state and 110,982 tons of refined figured at raw value. Home consumption of 57,382 tons accounted for the balance. The carryover on January 1, 1933, was estimated at 30,000 tons, which sugar has been sold in addition to the entire 1933 crop.

Atlanta Bank Clearings Climb 46.7 Per Cent

Atlanta, Dec. 20 (AP).—Bank clearings in Atlanta for the second week in December showed a 46.7 per cent increase over the same period a year ago and brought comment that the Southeast has enjoyed the best business of any section of the country since the bank holiday.

Clyde Williams, president of the Atlanta Clearing House Association, said reports for some time showed the Southeast leading the upward trend in business. Better commodity prices, especially the increase of cotton and the money paid farmers for plowing up acreage, were given as a chief reason for the increased business in this section.

Reserve Board Rules on Bank Law's Terms

Declares Stock Exchange Membership Allowed Officers, Directors.

(Associated Press.)

The Federal Reserve Board yesterday ruled that the provisions of the banking law enacted last spring prohibiting officers and directors of member banks from serving as officers, directors or managers of firms dealing primarily in securities does not prohibit such bank officials from holding membership in a stock exchange.

The decision was announced in the monthly Federal Reserve Bulletin, which also published a ruling prohibiting such bank officials from holding partnerships in securities companies, unless they have no control over the management of the partnership business.

The rulings were made in response to inquiries. In the first instance, the board said:

Applicable After January 1.

"By its express terms, section 32 (of the banking law) is applicable to the service from and after January 1, 1934, of an officer or director of a member bank as 'an officer, director or manager of any corporation, partnership or unincorporated association' engaged primarily in the business of buying, selling or negotiating securities. Since the statute refers only to an 'officer, director or manager' of an organization of the kind designated in that section, the mere fact that the directors of a member bank may be members of a stock exchange would not make that section applicable to such persons."

Regarding partnership, the board said:

"In regard to the second inquiry, it appears that the word 'manager' in section 32 includes any person who manages, controls or directs the business of an organization engaged primarily in purchasing, selling or negotiating securities, or who participates in such management or control, either at the main office or at a branch office, branch, &c., of such organization, and therefore it is the opinion of the Federal Reserve Board that it includes any general partner in a partnership principally engaged in such business.

Active Partnership Banned.

"This conclusion is supported by the reference in that section to a 'partnership' following the words 'officer, director or manager.' However, the provision in question will not be applicable to an inactive partner in such a partnership, if such partner shall have no voice in the management or control of the partnership business and if his liability shall be limited to the amount of his contribution to the partnership."

The board also was asked if officers and directors of a member bank could serve as employes of a securities house. Its reply was:

"It will be noted that section 32 does not contain a reference to 'employes,' and it is the opinion of the board that the section will not be applicable to directors of member banks who may be employed or associated with a stock exchange firm unless such persons may properly be classed as 'directors,' 'officers' or 'managers' of such a firm."

Bag and Paper Stock Sales Investigated

New York, Dec. 20 (AP).—The business conduct committee of the New York Stock Exchange, it was learned today, is inquiring into the recent market activity of the common stock of Union Bag & Paper Co.

The stock, which raced upward from $5.50 a share in January to $60 in July and has since undergone wide fluctuations, dropped from $52 a share last week to $45.75 yesterday and was weak again today.

While stock exchange officials declined to comment, pointing out that inquiries into the market action of individual stocks are frequent, it was learned that no general questionnaire had been sent to members of the exchange in reference to transactions in Union Bag & Paper Co. stock.

Earlier in the week the committee and the securities division of the State attorney general's office started an inquiry into the activity of the stock of Atlas Tack Corporation, which had recently undergone violent fluctuations. That investigation is still under way.

Railroad Debts Hit as Burden On Workers

Union Leader Asks U. S. Financing to Solve Carriers' Dilemma.

Chicago, Dec. 20 (AP).—A scaling down of the capital obligations of the railroads and the financing without profit by the Government of all credit needed for railroad operations was urged tonight by George M. Harrison, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, at the banquet of the Railway Labor Executives Association.

The more than 1,000 railway workers and labor leaders who attended also heard A. F. Whitney, chairman of the executives, declare the day might soon come when the majority of American people would be dependent on doles and charity unless shorter working hours were adopted.

Secretary Perkins Speaks.

Frances M. Perkins, Secretary of Labor, was another speaker.

Only the drain of a topheavy financial structure prevented the railroads from supporting their workers in decency, Harrison charged.

"There must be a scaling down of the capital obligations of the railroads, especially fixed charges on bonds that can not and shou'd not be met," he said.

Blames Errors of Past.

He suggested that the Government take over the job of financing by setting up a Federal railroad credit corporation, operated without profit. Such a corporation, he said, could raise the necessary funds through the sale of bonds at a low rate of interest and reduce the interest payments of the carriers one-half.

Harrison said the railroad problem was entirely one of finances, "a relic of unwise methods of the past."

"No industry that is mortgaged for 60 per cent of its capitalization," he said, "can meet its responsibilities to its workers."

Funds Asked to Expand Juvenile Court System

Efforts in furtherance of the prevention of dinquency by the extension of juvenile courts and probation was called for last night by Newbold Noyes in an appeal for funds for the work of the National Probation Association. A drive is being conducted in Washington this week.

Radio Waves and Ripples

EVERY now and then something happens to remind us that a skyscraper, after all, is only a skyscraper. "A good, old-fashioned earthquake," we then find ourself saying, "the kind they used to have back in 1906, along with cold winters, probably would wipe out every one of them. Then we'd see where all this high city living has been getting us. Right back on the farm with skyscrapers around our neck! That's where we'd be."

Imagine, then, how we felt when in a WOL press release we read:

"Next Wednesday night at 6 o'clock we are to meet and hear real life as it is lived by real people, who, after all, regardless of skyscrapers, airplanes, bank failures—or all the incidents of our advanced living—are the foundation and stable force of the Nation * * * *."

It made us glad mother never sold those 183 acres near Lansing, Mich., for one thing.

Whitecaps.

WRC—National Association of Manufacturers, President Robert L. Lund addressing the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce, "The Recovery Program From the Viewpoint of Industry," 1:30 p. m.; William Rhinelander Stewart, jr., interviewed by Helen Worden, New York presswoman, on "Christmas in Old New York," 4 p. m.; Concordia Singing Society, Christmas carol recital, 6:45 p. m.; Broadway Methodist Temple Choir, 45 mixed voices, Paul Whiteman guest artists, 10 p. m.

WMAL—Eastman Music School concert, arrangement of Gounod's "Hymn to St. Cecilia" for the flute played by students from the flute classes, 3:30 p. m.; "The Bishop's Candlesticks," drama and music, 7:15 p. m.; George Washington University Forum, "The Characteristic Elements of German 'Kultur,'" Prof. Edward H. Sehrt, 8:30 p. m.; dramatization of Dickens' "Christmas Carol," 11:30 p. m.

WJSV—Annual Christmas Carol Festival of Syracuse public school children, "Cantique de Noel," sixteenth century carol by Adolphe Adam, 2:30 p. m.; "Christmas in the Colonies," William Lyon Phelps on Voice of America, 8:30 p. m.; Edward Tomlinson broadcasting from the Pan-American conference at Montevideo, 11:15 p. m.

Slowly but surely the New Deal is making its influence felt in the matter of radio program presentation.

Agriculture Secretary Wallace and AAA Administrator Chester Davis are to give speeches over WJSV and Columbia December 28, probably the usual cut-down-hog-and-corn-production speeches.

But in the background will be heard the rumble and clank of one of the check-writing machines the Government is using to turn out millions to farmers who succeed in halting the hog production.

As evidence that the Christmas at the Dog Pound broadcast was real and without benefit of sound effects, WJSV cites the story of how Kingsey, omnipresent dachshund of the Dinkledorfers, reacted to all that yapping and howling.

Kingsey completely lost poise, dashed about the studio, yelped furiously.

Kingsey, the Dinkledorfers swear, never does that for a sound effect record.

Assistant War Secretary Harry H. Woodring and Assistant Navy Secretary Henry Roosevelt have been substituted for their superiors who are ill, Secretaries Dern and Swanson, on the Christmas-greetings-to-disabled-war - veterans broadcast Saturday afternoon. American Legion National Commander Hayes will be heard from Chicago, as announced.

Parade of Champions returns for a one-hour show Christmas afternoon with Helen Morgan, Harry Richman, Kate Smith, Jack Miller and Richard Himber. The time is 2:30 o'clock.

"Roses and Drums," Civil War drama serial, has been canceled this week for the Christmas tree lighting program with President Roosevelt Sunday at 4 p. m. The show returns December 31 with a dramatization of the Roosevelt family history.

Three hundred thousand Civilian Conservation Corps boys will be reached with a Christmas message from Secretary Wallace on N. B. C. Monday. An attempt will be made to put the Agriculture Secretary on the air at 1 p. m., while boys in 400 camps are at dinner with 400 radios turned on.

Both networks have received permission to put microphones on the floor of the House for broadcasting the opening of Congress January 3. The White House has decided against the President delivering his message in person. It will be read in the House and radioed to the Nation. Senate proceedings will be described by N. B. C. and C. B. S. announcers from committee rooms adjoining the floor.

A new version of the Dickens "Christmas Carol," effected chiefly by Ronald Dawson in the role of Dickens as narrator, is a Northern Dramatic Company presentation on WOL tomorrow night.

A determined looking young woman approached Hazel Smith, WMAL hostess.

"I have a good voice," she declared. "I know I could sing over the radio if only some one would give me a chance."

Miss Smith suggested the young woman come back some day when they were having auditions. That made the applicant more determined. She burst into song.

She sang ballads. She sang light classics. Fifteen minutes or so later Miss Smith, having become quite used to her, was able to go on about her work; but she gave the young woman a definite audition appointment, anyway, probably out of sympathy for her vocal chords.

Frank Crumit and Julia Sanderson, radio and stage veterans, appear for the first time on Capital boards the week beginning Friday, December 29, heading the vaudeville bill at the Fox.

Aside from being one of our earliest radio show teams, Crumit and Sanderson are one of the few broadcasters with commercial programs on both major chains. And in case no one has told you, Julia Sanderson is Mrs. Crumit.

Judge Defends Young Mother Who Stole Son, Scores Father

Jurist Ignores Warrant, Comforts Woman, Grins at Boy.

Chicago, Dec. 20 (AP).—A municipal judge lent aid and comfort today to a weeping young mother accused of stealing her 6-year-old son from her divorced husband and castigated, instead, the complaining father.

"Do you think I am going to wrest a child from a mother's breast?" demanded Judge Alfred O. Erickson of an assistant State's attorney who presented a fugitive warrant for Mrs. Ilo Blumenthal, 26.

The young woman is wanted at South Bend, Ind., for child stealing.

She did not deny it. Her attorney, Arthur H. Torme, said she had brought Jimmy Coleman, jr., home from his father's last Friday when she found him undernourished, eating a skimpy sandwich for luncheon. Torme said she started to take him back to South Bend the next day, but Jimmy cried at the railroad station and she hadn't the heart.

Judge Erickson, the same judge who befriended a Florida chain gang fugitive two weeks until he found the youth had a varied criminal record, was sympathetic.

He grinned at the boy across the bar.

Did Jimmy want to stay with his mother?

"Yes, I want to stay with my mamma," the tot said.

Mrs. Blumenthal complained she had been prevented from seeing the child in South Bend.

The attorney said he was unable to obtain Mrs. Blumenthal's personal effects after the divorce, Coleman declining to yield them.

Mad Scramble Follows Cranking of Car in Gear

Omaha, Nebr., Dec. 20 (AP).—Billie Young's car stalled at Sixteenth and Farnam streets, Omaha's busiest downtown corner, late today at the height of the shopping jam. Young cranked the car, forgetting it was in reverse.

The automobile began backing up, knocked down several men and women and sent a crowd of pedestrians fighting for cover. Young fled, but surrendered at police headquarters just as a search was being started for him.

U. S. Petitioned To Buy Tracts In Southwest

Roosevelt Urged by 500 Owners to End Delay in Capitol Area.

On behalf of nearly 500 property owners, the Washington Board of Trade yesterday presented a petition to President Roosevelt requesting the purchase of a large area of Southwest Washington adjacent to the United States Capitol, the House Office Building and the Botanic Garden.

The petition, presented at the White House by Robert J. Cottrell, executive secretary of the organization, asked that more than 2,000,000 square feet of property be taken over by the Government at an estimated cost of $4,000,000. The petitioners, who represent property in 26 squares, said they are willing to sell their holdings to the Government at "reasonable prices."

Titles Now Clouded.

Acquisition of the designated area was provided for in the public building act of 1926, but the depression prevented the program from extending to this point. The act of Congress setting aside the area for Government purchase has placed a cloud on the titles to the properties in the area and has made it difficult to sell or rent them to individuals or to renew mortgages or to place mortgages on properties that are at present free for encumbrances, the petitioners complain.

Value of the property is further depreciated, it is stated, by the inability of the Government to rent other property it has acquired at a lower rate than can be afforded by the Southwest petitioners. Some of the property owners in the area, after being notified that the United States would acquire their property, purchased property elsewhere and suffered serious financial distress, it is asserted.

Rerenting Suggested.

The petitioners suggest that the properties may be renovized or rerented to the present occupants, or to Government employes and other workers until the Government is ready to raze them. Besides providing low housing facilities, the renovizing work would give employment to many of the jobless, it is pointed out.

A copy of the petition was presented to Frederic A. Delano, chairman of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, and to members of the planning board of the Public Works Administration.

Jobs Multiplied By Thousands, Survey Shows

Relief Funds Provide Work All Over Country; No Gloom Found.

The huge sums allotted by Government, private and local relief groups are putting thousands of citizens to work, the Associated Press revealed yesterday.

While the word from some sectors was not glowing, nowhere was the story gloomy. All sorts of work, from playing a tuba in a beer garden to serving as special traffic policeman, are finding applicants.

Scarcity of tools for manual labor—picks, axes and shovels—has been found in North Carolina, where work for 81,000 men has been approved. Eleven thousand and forty-two person will be needed in Pennsylvania for a State-wide survey, where 323,000 men and women are being put to work. Jobs have been arranged for 131,000 Massachusetts citizens.

Secretary Perkins has noted that the Department of Labor figures show an industrial employment rise of 29.6 per cent. She estimated 2,500,000 more persons are at work than in March.

Secretaries of manufacturers' associations in Arkansas, Louisiana, Virginia and Tennessee report that employment, generally, had increased under the NRA.

Artists, musicians and "white collar" workers are receiving employment suited to their talents in many parts of the country. The motor bus industry reported wage increases of about 30 per cent.

Difficulties of fitting code requirements into local situations continued to claim the attention of NRA officials, and Gen. Hugh S. Johnson has found opposition from leading industrialists and criticism from many economists.

Sponsored by Gov. Olson, a "Minnesota recovery act" providing a system of recovery codes, is before the State Legislature.

Prison Plot

Convicts, Employes Are Accused of Smuggling.

Department of Justice announced yesterday that two prison employes, two convicts and a former prisoner at Lewisburg (Pa.) Federal Penitentiary have been charged with conspiracy in an extensive smuggling racket at the prison.

Justice officials said they smuggled letters, currency and merchandise in and out of the prison.

Robert P. Ettman, guard, and H. B. Blackburn, assistant engineer, were arrested. Ettman pleaded guilty and was sent to the Sunbury, Pa., jail. Blackburn is awaiting trial at Scranton.

The prisoners involved are George Baker and Ernest Smith. Sam C. Ford, who completed his sentence only yesterday, was rearrested as he walked out of the institution.

Auction of Ancient Estate Is Mourned

Was Gresley Family Seat 28 Generations.

London, England, Dec. 20 (AP). One of the few remaining links with the time of William the Conqueror was broken today with the sale at auction of Drakelow Hall, the seat of the Gresley family for 28 generations.

Even the auctioneer was moved to sentiment and described the transfer as the climax of a tragedy for which town authorities might be held to account by future generations if they allowed a place of such historic importance to be lost.

The estate, including a park, outside Burton-on-Trent, was sold in one lot for $62,500 to persons who, it was understood, sought it for speculative purposes.

Toledo Labor "Steal" Untrue Says Hopkins

Reports Groundless, CWA Aid in Ohio Asserts.

Reports that Toledo factory employes were quitting their jobs to take Civil Works Administration employment for higher wages were called untrue yesterday by Harry L. Hopkins, relief administrator, following an investigation.

Hopkins late Tuesday ordered Gen. F. G. Henderson, Ohio C. W. A. administrator, to determine if workers for the Gendron Wheel Co., the Toledo Metal Wheel Co., the Valve Bag Co., and the Spicer Manufacturing Co., all of Toledo, were deserting their regular employment. Published reports said these concerns had complained.

As an outcome of the investigation, which turned up only one instance of a worker quitting to take a C. W. A. place, Hopkins laid down the policy that laid-off workers who entered C. W. A. were to be dropped if offered their old jobs. Henderson reported several laid off workers in Toledo had taken C. W. A. places.

Georgia Front Quiet.

Meanwhile, all was reported quiet on the Georgia C. W. A. front, where Gov. Talmadge accused C. W. A. of stealing workers from farmers. Hopkins offered to withdraw the program from rural Georgia. C. W. A. officials said confidentially they thought the offer would end the matter.

Henderson's telegraphic report to Hopkins said the investigation disclosed that:

"Vice President Deiner, Gendron Wheel Co., with which Toledo Metal Wheel Co., is affiliated, states his company has made no complaint and is trying to find from whom this complaint came. Gendron Wheel Co. reports one man quit his job and was placed on C. W. A., but refused to give us his name.

Mr. Hartman, of Valve Bag Co., states his company has no complaint. Incomplete report from Spicer Manufacturing Co. shows some employes indefinitely laid off now are on C. W. A. through regular channels and have refused to return to company.

Complaint Boards Formed.

"Ohio C. W. A. has organized complaint boards in each county. All Civil Works Administrations are being examined for cases of unfair or improper employment.

Hopkins last night wired his Ohio administrator that C. W. A. should not continue employes who are offered bona fide jobs by employers operating under codes."

Memory.

"I can't remember," granddad cries, "just where I left my tile," and wearily the old man sighs, while younger people smile. "I have forgotten," granddad wails, "just where I left my shoes;" his memory so halts and fails, the old man has the blues. Old age imposes penalties which are quite hard to bear, including weakness, wobbly knees, dim eyes and falling hair. The patriarch, howe'er, endures such ills and does not mourn, for woes that haven't any cures were better calmly borne. But when his memory bogs down he thinks that life's a crime; he can't remember just what town he lives in at the time. He's always pulling funny tricks, forgetting this and that, forgetting gloves and walking sticks, his cork screw and his hat. The youngsters laugh and dance a jig when granddad combs the shack, to find his glasses or his wig, or last year's almanac. He can't remember where he left his patent hand-made teeth, or in what cranny, nook or cleft, he placed his laurel wreath. Poor granddad's always on the hunt for something he's mislaid, and every small, forgetful stunt, brings mirth from youth and maid. Old age must always stand the gaff in matters such as these; and it seems hard when youngsters laugh at failing faculties.

Shenandoah Apple Growers to Meet

Harrisonburg, Va., Dec. 20 (Spl.).—Apple men of the Shenandoah Valley, from Roanoke to Harrisonburg and Covington to Charlottesville, will meet in Staunton Saturday to discuss organizing a production credit corporation similar to the one formed at Winchester for northern Virginia and West Virginia a few days ago.

The meeting was called by W. S. Campbell, secretary of the Virginia Horticultural Society, following a long-distance conference tonight with Andrew Cohill, representing the Federal Government.

An attempt will be made to obtain Government loans to finance care and pruning of orchards.

WHEELAN "SPECIAL" — THE SLEEPING BEAUTY — PART FOUR
ONE OF THE SEVEN GOOD FAIRIES HID BEHIND THE CRADLE SO THAT SHE MIGHT UNDO SOME OF THE HARM WHICH SHE FELT SURE THE CROSS FAIRY WOULD SEEK TO DO —
AT ANY MOMENT NOW THEY WILL COME AND OFFER THEIR GIFTS TO THE BABY PRINCESS.
JUST THEN THE OTHER FAIRIES, INCLUDING THE BAD-TEMPERED ONE, ENTERED THE ROOM FOLLOWED BY THE KING AND THE QUEEN
I HOPE THAT THEY DO NOT NOTICE MY ABSENCE AT ONCE!
FOR I MUST REMAIN CONCEALED HERE SO THAT I MAY SPEAK LAST AND PROTECT THE CHILD AGAINST THE SPELL OF THAT WICKED ONE!!
SURROUNDING THE CRADLE, THE GOOD FAIRIES NOW BEGAN TO BESTOW THEIR GIFTS ON THE LITTLE PRINCESS AS THE KING AND QUEEN LOOKED ON.
I GIVE THEE BEAUTY!
AND I, WIT!
AND I, GRACE!
AND I, VIRTUE!
AND I, A LOVELY VOICE!
AND I, A SMILE TO WIN ALL HEARTS
AH, MY QUEEN, FORTUNATE, INDEED, IS OUR CHILD TO BE ENDOWED WITH SUCH BLESSINGS!
BUT AT THAT MOMENT, THINKING THAT ALL THE GOOD FAIRIES HAD SPOKEN, THE ILL-TEMPERED ONE APPROACHED THE CRADLE 12-21
AND NOW, LITTLE PRINCESS, HERE IS MY GIFT!!
